BOND ISSUE DEFEATED

SUNDAY MOVIE VOTE IS EXCEEDINGLY CLOSE

BRAHAM AND POWERS IN CLOSE RACE FOR JUDGE

Margin Of 33 Shown In City On Movie Vote

Unofficial Total Shows City Favors Movies By A Slight Margin

OFFICIAL COUNT MAY BE NEEDED

Maybe New Castle will get Sunday movies and maybe it won't. On the basis of the unofficial returns gathered by The News at five o'clock this morning the Sunday movie question had carried by 33 votes. However in the press of gathering returns there may be an error and there is always the possibility of error in the count of the boards.

The total vote for the 34 precincts in the city shows 8205 votes for Sunday movies and 8172 against. The proportion of votes for and against the issue ran about the same in the various wards, with the exception of the first precinct of the eighth ward. In this precinct the vote shows 763 for Sunday movies and 37 against.

It is possible it may take the official count to decide the issue but at the present moment the vote shows that New Castle wants Sunday movies by a majority of 33 votes, out of over 16,00 cast.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Dear Pa Newc:

In regard to the discussion as to the willow tree, used in basketry as Mr. Robinson admits it came from Europe, and as I stated was introduced into this country by Ben Franklin. This answers th question asked me, as to the number of species of willows there are, one hundred and sixty. Few of these can be classed as trees, some are shrubs, but often they can be termed scrub.

Some idea of the unusual weather New Castle has been experiencing for several weeks past was to be noted last night when practically every bench in the public square was occupied at nine o'clock, by persons who were just as comfortable as though it was the middle of summer.

Growing conditions have been ideal for fall grass planting, Pa Newc is told. The weather has been exceptionally warm, and there has just been the proper amount of rainfall.

Election Day Is Quite Damp

(International News Service)

HARRISBURGH, Nov. 5.—Vote early and avoid the rain!

That was the gist today of the weather man's advice to Pennsylvanians on election day.

In most sections of the state, the weather bureau said, cloudy weather threatened to spill into rain before the day was over.

Bolinger, Cotton And Hannon Holding Lead For County Commissioners

With forty four precincts of the county's ninety accounted for at 5 o'clock this morning there seemed no doubt that the Republicans had retained control of the county commissioners' office. At the time this extra was printed the totals were as follows:

George H. Bolinger (R) 10,254
Floyd L. Cotton (R) 8,951
Joseph A. Hannon (D) 5,915
W. Grover Stevenson (R) ... 4,723

On the basis of these figures George H. Bolinger and Floyd L. Cotton, Republicans have won, and Joseph A. Hannon, Democrat has won. Under the law one party can elect only two commissioners.

Mr. Bolinger and Mr. Cotton will both be newcomers to the court house in an official capacity but for Mr. Hannon it will be a resumption of work he left some years ago. He served one term as a county commissioner and left a record of efficiency.

The votes of the other candidates were not tabulated for this extra as they were hopelessly behind. They included Franklyn R. Woods, present incumbent running as an Independent, Stewart J. Hunt and Albert Yoho running on the Prohibition ticket.

GETS BIG VOTE

J. MYRON RICE

Incomplete Returns Indicate He Leads Field For City Council

Republicans Win Places On School Board

Dr. Cleland, Dr. Jackson and Whittaker Are Elected To Board

Finishing in the same order they did in the primary election, Dr. W. D. Cleland, Dr. W. Fulton Jackson and Clyde M. Whittaker, all Republicans won the election for the three school board places in Tuesday's election with ease. With seventeen precincts reported out of 34, the results in the school board election follow:

Dr. W. D. Cleland (R) 4886
Dr. W. Fulton Jackson (R) 4489
Clyde M. Whittaker (R) 4309
Mrs. Agnes B. Howley (D) 2511
Mrs. Bertha Campbell (D) 1797
Dr. Warren V. Massaro D) ...1691

Dr. Cleland has served a term as director and when he assumes office on the first Monday of December will start his second six year term. This was the first fling at politics for Dr. Jackson and Mr. Whittaker and their vote is a tribute to their acquaintanceship and their ability to get votes.

Dr. Jackson and Mr. Whittaker will replace Albert W. Bauman and Leonard E. Cramer on the school board.

Probe Wounding Of Hillsville Boy

Police authorities are investigating the circumstances surrounding the wounding of Sam DeBernardo, aged 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. John DeBernardo, of Hillsville, who was brought to the Jameson Memorial hospital with his right hand shattered from a shotgun charge at 8:35 this morning.

The youth had gone out to milk the family cow at 7 o'clock this morning, and returned a little later with his right hand torn by the shots. He told his parents that he had been shot by unknown persons.

County Offices Are Won Easily By Republicans

Prothonotary, Treasurer, Controller, And Coroner Fights Are Walkaways

BIG MAJORITIES PILED UP EARLY

With the exception of the judgeship and county commissioner battles, the Republican candidates for all other county offices rolled up an apparent overwhelming vote on the basis of the early count.

Early returns from scattered precincts in the county, which may be taken as a true cross-section of the opinion of the voters, showed that the prothonotary, treasurer, controller, and coroner candidates on the Republican ticket were having no difficulty in winning their offices for the Republican party.

In 23 precincts, John A. Edgar, Republican, had amassed a total of 5,560 votes to Theodore Castele's 2,491, Castele carried only two city precincts in the early vote returns.

Joseph H. Hartland, Republican candidate for county treasurer, was having things equally as easy in the early returns, rolling up a count of more than three to one over Thomas W. Hamilton, his Democratic opponent in 17 precincts. The vote tabulated at that time showed Hartland had amassed a total of 3,817 votes to Hamilton's 1,339.

In 21 precincts, Frank W. Hill, Republican candidate for controller had twice as many votes as Bert Sisley, the Democratic candidate, the latter carrying only two precincts of the early ones reporting.

Coroner Orville Potter was having no difficulty in piling up an overwhelming lead over his Democratic opponent, M. E. Heckart. The first thirteen precincts reporting, gave Potter 2,462 votes to Heckart's 802.

The Prohibition and Socialist candidates received few votes for any of the county offices enumerated above.

Although there were a large number of the precincts to be heard from when the above tabulations were made, there seemed to be no possibility of the Democratic candidates for these four offices cutting down the tremendous leads which their opponents had amassed, and a Republican victory was easily assured.

ELECTED MAYOR

CHARLES E. McGRATH

Elected As Mayor Of New Castle In Balloting On Tuesday

McGrath Will Be Next Mayor Vote Indicates

Gains Big Majority Over Democratic Opponent Carl Haufler In Voting

CHOICE PROVES POPULAR ONE

Twenty precincts give McGrath 6432 and Haufler 3009, a later total shows.

With 14 precincts of the city's 34 reported in at three o'clock this morning there seemed to be no doubt that Charles E. McGrath has been elected mayor of New Castle by a handsome majority. In the fourteen precincts Mr. McGrath has 4321 votes and his Democratic opponent Carl W. Haufler has 2458.

The precincts reported show most of the second ward missing and in the precincts of this ward reported Mr. McGrath was running far ahead of Mr. Haufler.

This was Mr. McGrath's second run for mayor. In 1931 he was a candidate for the Republican nomination but was defeated. In the recent primary he was far out in front.

This was also Mr. Haufler's second run. In 1931 he was the Democratic nominee but was defeated in the general election by Charles B. Mayne. This year he was made the nominee following the death of Peter P. Capitola who died shortly after the primary election.

Mr. McGrath is a florist and resides at 139 Euclid avenue in the second ward. His majority in the election of yesterday will probably be over 3000 when the returns are all in.

Florence Goodrich Is Given Freedom

Wife Of Merton Goodrich Cleared Of All Complicity In Slaying

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Nov. 5.—Cleared of any complicity in the "trunk murder" of 11-year-old Lillian Gallaher, Mrs. Florence Harding Goodrich, former Ohio farm girl and wife of the imprisoned killer of the girl, today prepared to pick up the threads of life broken four months ago when she was arrested with her husband in New York.

The last link connecting Mrs. Goodrich with the crime was broken yesterday when an accessory after the fact charge was dismissed in court.

Today all Mrs. Goodrich desired was to "forget."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Hervey of Bradford have returned to their home after spending the week end with Mr. Hervey's aunt, Mrs. J. P. Hervey of 307 Boyles avenue.

Braham Appears To Be Winner By Slight Margin

Braham Supporters Claim Election By About 300 Majority

EXCEEDINGLY CLOSE RACE IS REVEALED

Unofficial Count Shows Judicial Contestants Only Few Hundred Votes Apart

On the basis of claims, by the headquarters of Attorney W. Walter Braham, which were partially concurred in by the headquarters of Attorney John S. Powers at five o'clock this morning, Mr. Braham seems to have been elected as judge of Lawrence county on the Republican ticket.

The claim of the Braham office was that in 86 precincts out of 90 in the county Mr. Braham had 15,252 votes and Powers 14,554.

Missing precincts included a small precinct in Washington township which will probably give Braham a small majority, two precincts in Ellwood City which Braham supporters said would offset each other and one precinct in Union township which is expected to give Mr. Powers a gain of 250 or possibly 300.

If these figures are correct Mr. Braham will win by a majority of approximately 300.

The News figures at five o'clock include but 66 precincts of the 90. In these 66 precincts the vote is Braham 12,249, Powers 12,286.

Detective Is Shot On Way Home From Republican Rally

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 5.—Pennsylvania's first off-year election casualty was reported today when County Detective John Dempsey, of Plymouth, was waylaid and shot near his home as he was returning from a Republican rally.

He was taken to the Mercy hospital by Superior Court Judge Arthur James, where his condition this morning was reported as "fair". Authorities expressed belief that the shooting was the outcome of a violent political antagonism and have placed other Republican leaders under guard to prevent a similar occurrence.

CHECK ROADSIDE ALL-YEAR STANDS

HARRISBURG, Nov. 6.—A warning was issued today by the State Department of Health to proprietors of year-round roadside stands. The department advised managers of such establishments to maintain the sanitary standards that were applied during the peak season. The fact that patronage has now centered on the all-year highway stand emphasizes, according to the department, the necessity of strictly adhering to the regulations.

"The survey thus far completed shows that the majority of all-year round proprietors are cooperative. However, there is always that minority who need at least to be warned against insanitary conditions," the secretary of health states.

Has Commanding Lead Over Hahn In Early Returns From City Precincts

FAILS TO LOSE SINGLE DISTRICT

C. C. "Rube" McKibben will have no difficulty in winning the city treasurer office, the returns from scattered city districts showed this morning.

McKibben, the Republican candidate, had not lost a single precinct of those which had been reported at an early hour this morning, and had more than doubled the vote of his Democratic opponent, Joseph W. Hahn.

The complete tabulation from nine city precincts showed McKibben had 3,172 votes to Hahn's 1,421.

He was following the same desolate air lane which the ill-fated pilot Arthur Hines and three passengers were traversing Aug. 19 when they disappeared. No trace of Hines' plane has been found.

CITY BOND ISSUE DECISIVELY BEATEN BY VOTE IN CITY

New Castle wants no part of a bond issue for $1,500,000 for a municipal electric distributing plant. Turning in one of the most tremendous majorities ever registered against such a proposal, the citizens of the city have demonstrated unmistakably that they are firmly against the idea.

With but four precincts missing out of the 34 in the city, the vote for the bond issue was 2923 and against the bond issue 7664. The proportion was better than 2½ to one against the bond issue.

In every part of the city save some of the southern precincts the vote was overwhelming. In the second ward the voters turned in seven and eight to one majorities against the idea.

The idea of a bond issue was presented to council some months ago by the Consumers League. In a petition presented to council they asked that the question be placed on the ballot.

An organization against the bond issue was formed and in the past three weeks the battle raged furiously. The vote on Tuesday showed the temper of New Castle citizens towards bond issues at the present time.

Rice Is High In Battle For City Council

Makes Surprising Run For Place On Council On Tuesday

FINK IS ALSO ELECTED TO BODY

With 22 precincts reported out of 34 in the city, the winners for city council appear to be J. Myron "Doc" Rice, Democrat of the Second ward and James Leon Fink, Republican of the Second ward. Rice is so far out in front that is appears physically impossible for him to finish worse than first. His vote in the 22 precincts is 5516. The totals for council follows for the 22 precincts:

J. Myron "Doc" Rice (D) 5516
James Leon Fink (R) 4613
D. O. Davies (R) 3784
Joseph McCormick (D) 3527
Albert A. Hoyland (P) 1798

Of the remaining precincts at least six are expected to favor Fink, and Davies may carry the other six. However with the lead Fink has as this extra goes to press there appears to be no doubt that he has won the second council place.

Rice swept through the city precincts like a Florida hurricane. In Democratic precincts he was high or close to it, and in Republican precincts he did the same thing. In view of the landslide to Republican candidates in other offices in the election, Rice's victory seems to be a tribute to his personal popularity rather than a partisan victory.

I can not tell you very well, about the weather m , if he votes Democratic or a straight Republican, I've heard it said that rainy days will favor both of these. It all depends I rather guess just how you vote yourself, and whether your opponents should be laid upon the shelf. Republican or Democrat I really cannot say, I only know its very wet, and sixty one today.

VOTE BATTLE IN PHILADELPHIA

Record Vote Is Expected In City

Republicans And Democrats In Warm Battle For Control Of City

BOTH PARTIES ARE CLAIMING VICTORY

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5.—The outcome of the bitterest straight-cut Republican-Democratic fight for control of Philadelphia in half a century today remained anybody's guess as the voters began balloting.

With more than 800,000 registered for the first time in the city's history, the total vote was expected to set a new high record as unusually large crowds thronged the polls.

Indication that trouble is expected at some of the 1,285 polling places came when the city's 250 detectives were given unprecedented instructions to "remain on duty until excused."

Mayoralty Battle Leads

Overshadowing all other issues was the mayoralty battle between City Controller S. Davis Wilson, Republican, and John B. Kelly, Democrat, each of whom, together with their constituents, have predicted success by margins ranging as high as 100,000.

The result of the Philadelphia election, astute political leaders claim, will be an indisputable indicator of which way the '36 presidental winds are blowing. G. O. P. chieftains here have stressed the national issue, contending that defeat of Wilson—a registered Democrat who holds his present office by defeating the party now supporting him—would adversely affect the party's chances of carrying Philadelphia county and perhaps the commonwealth in the presidential election.

Sunday Movie Referendum

Independents supporting Kelly deny the logic of the latter argument. State administration leaders who from Gov. George E. Earle down have stumped for Kelly, have avoided joining Kelly's election with the Roosevelt New Deal. Instead Kelly's supporters have been fighting what they choose to call "the old Republican gang" which has held unchallenged control of Philadelphia for more than 50 years.

Although neither major party has gone on record for or against the Sunday movie referendum, its passage in this city was believed to be a foregone conclusion.

there promises today to be an almost record vote in some sections. In New York alone, the registrations number about 5,000,000. In Philadelphia's keen and bitterly contested mayoralty election, the registration figures run around 800,000. The bitterness of Kentucky's gubernatorial fight assures a large vote there.

It is to the New York election that the political rail-birds of the capital are looking to principally for that "trend" that may disclose which direction the 1936 wind is blowing. New York is President Roosevelt's home state. Twenty-five years ago this week he attained his first elective office, a seat in the state senate. He is there today to lend what moral and other support he can to the Democratic cause in the fight for the assembly. Moreover, his political generalissimo, James A. Farley, who triples in brass as postmaster general, Democratic national chairman, and Democratic state chairman has been in the chick of the fight for some weeks.

Assembly Control At Stake

The Democrats now have the assembly by a narrow margin of a few votes. If they should today lose the assembly, the Republicans will make much capital of it. They will contend that it furnishes concrete evidence that Mr. Roosevelt is slipping—as they have long contended he is—and that the vote is against the experiments and innovations which Mr. Roosevelt has attempted on a national scale and they will account it highly significant, translated in terms of the presidential election next year. Some presidents have been elected or re-elected without New York but not many. And it would give the Republicans peculiar and understandable satisfaction to gain a victory in Mr. Roosevelt's own state.

So, while the spectacular bitterness of the Kentucky election has aroused national interest, it is really to the New York assembly election that the politicos are looking with interest, their pencils poised to translate it into terms of 1936.

Democratic Embarrassment

Kentucky represents considerable Democratic embarrassment. The party there is split as it never has been split before, and while the Democrats express confidence of electing A. B. (Happy) Chandler as governor, they are none to certain that it won't be King Swope, the Republican.

In Philadelphia, what started out to be a rather bitter mayoralty campaign suddenly took on something of a national issue, because the rivals, S. Davis Wilson, Republican, and John B. Kelly, Democrat and their newspaper supporters, started talking about Roosevelt policies. The thing boiled down to where it was being said that a vote for Kelly was a vote for the White House and a vote for Davis was a vote against Roosevelt.

Administration leaders, with the exception of Senator Joe Guffey, Democratic leader of the state have taken no part in the Philadelphia scramble. But they await the outcome with interest. A Democratic mayor of Philadelphia, long dominated by the Vare Republican machine, would be a novelty. Indeed, and one that would encourage the Democrats no end about the prospects of carrying Pennsylvania next year.

Far-seeing politicians on both sides, however, see in today's elections a possible national trend, in the sense that all elections indicate something, but mostly they believe local considerations and local issues will be predominant.

TEN MILLION WILL CAST BALLOTS IN ELECTIONS OF DAY

Democrats of having taken sides in what was originally a state factional fight. It is somewhat less true in Philadelphia, where a mayor is to be elected, and where municipal issues have been overshadowed by the call to arms by both Republicans and Democrats to stand and be counted for or against Roosevelt policies.

In Virginia, New Jersey, Ohio and Mississippi, and a few other states holding municipal elections, the question of supporting or rejecting Washington policies has not been raised. The ballotting in these states is more strictly local in character.

Find Body Of Known Enemy Of Dutch Schultz

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Nov. 5.—The man whose body was found last night in a shallow grave beneath the flooring of a roadside barn here was identified today as Charles "Chink" Sherman, one of the best known characters on Broadway.

State troopers and New York City detectives made the identification after comparing the victim's fingerprints with those of Sherman, on file in New York police headquarters.

Sherman, long noted as a desperate gunman and narcotic racketeer, was sworn enemy of the late Arthur (Dutch Schultz) Flegenheimer, who was slain with three of his henchmen recently in Newark, N. J.

HURRICANE MENACES EASTERN GULF REGION

hurricane—a phenomenon hitherto unknown as late as November—left a path strewn with wreckage and at least $1,000,000 damage.

In Miami, 13-year-old Ruth Levy was crushed to death under the timbers of her home, demolished by the reputed 100-mile an hour force of the gale.

In a local funeral home lay an unidentified man who was crushed by falling debris.

A sailor aboard the Harina was reported fatally injured when the vessel was caught in the storm's path. His head was crushed by a shattered ventilator.

Four negroes were reported crushed to death in the wreckage of their frame shack, but this could not be immediately confirmed.

Many Injured

An early morning checkup by Captain M. R. Harrison, chairman of the Dade county disaster relief committee, revealed that one hundred and twenty-two injured persons were in Miami hospitals and that five of them were critically hurt.

The city faced a water famine as breaks in the mains prevented sufficient pressure to supply numerous sections of the community.

Caught in the teeth of the hurricane as it swept across the open water from the Bahamas to the mainland, the steamship Florida and the steamship Sneland, both freighters, were disabled and sent out distress signals, but today were reported out of danger.

Telephone lines from Miami to the coast guard base at Fort Lauderdale were down and coast guard planes here were prepared to take off soon after daylight to search the waters between Miami and West Palm Beach for other ships which might be in danger.

Heavy Crop Damage

Heavy crop damage was reported in the storm's path. The tomato and citrus crops in the rich Redland district south of Miami were a total loss.

Miami streets were littered with debris and tangled telephone and electric wires. Uprooted trees, toppled telegraph poles, overturned automobiles and smashed billboards cluttered streets and sidewalks. Fallen power lines were a menace to life.

Police, sheriff's forces and deputized war veterans patrolled the streets to prevent looting and to keep pedestrians away from the live wires.

Warn Eastern Gulf Region

New Orleans, La., Nov. 5.—Caution was advised shipping in the eastern gulf today as the hurricane which lashed southern Florida yesterday left the mainland and sped into the Gulf of Mexico.

In its 2 a. m. C. S. T., advisory today, the United States weather bureau located the center of the storm 75 miles northwest of Key West, Fla., moving west-southwestward or westward.

The advisory stated:

"Tropical storm central about 75 miles northwest of Key West and moving west-southwestward or westward. Attended by shifting gales and winds of near hurricane force over a small area. It may increase in intensity over the water and caution is advised all vessels in the southeast gulf."

ASKS FOR ENGINEERS TO OBTAIN INFORMATION

City Engineer Glenn R. Throop stated today that city council has requested the WPA to furnish the city with a staff of engineers for the purpose of obtaining information concerning catch-basins, sewers, sidewalks, poles, type of paving here, condition of paving and condition of sewers.

Two other suspects are also being held, it was learned. Police refused to reveal their names.

Meanwhile, the heavy police guards established last week after a series of five bombings had thrown the city into a state of panic, was maintained on public buildings and financial institutions.

Rutkowski's companion in death in the terrific explosion which also brought death to an innocent 9-year-old girl, was identified yesterday as 16-year-old Paul Chavanek, his constant companion.

World War against Germany. Many Americans lost their lives in the tragedy.

Principal interest of salvage operators has been the nearly $5,000,000 in coin, foreign exchange, jewels, and other valuables believed to have gone down with the vessel. The exact amount of these valuables never has been determined.

The Lusitania had been believed to lie about 240 feet below the surface about eight miles off old Kinsale Head, County Cork. The recent salvage operations had been in that vicinity.

lay indicated progress from now on might be much slower. Until now, however, the advance has been comparatively rapid. This was made clear in military communique No. 37, issued today.

"The advance which began at dawn on the third continued yesterday on the whole front," the communique said. "The first army corps, leaving its position at Mai Uecc, reached the region of the Torrent of Mai Aini, occupying the village of Adi Bagni.

"Native army corps moving in two columns occupied the village of Hausien and reached a point to the right of Afturro hill.

"Simultaneously from the Danakil lowlands one of our columns occupied the eastern buttress of Agame Province.

"The advance was very rapid. Strong bodies of Ethiopians were in flight before the native army corps.

"Our troops everywhere were well received by the population, which displayed Italian flags in the villages. The aircraft carried out reconnaissance flights over Lake Ashangi and south of the Takkaze river.

"The columns on the Somali front continue their activity in the Ogaden sector."

WEATHER FFAILS TO HALT LOCAL RUSH TO POLLS

trouble at noon. The slight difficulties that did arise were caused over contests for ward or precinct offices.

The polls close at seven o'clock tonight and the work of counting the ballots should not be as difficult as it was in the primary. Straight party ballots will aid the boards and where ballots are split the split is usually for only one office.

Report from the county precincts also indicate that a good vote is being polled in all parts of the county, despite the weather conditions. Interest in the election seems to be such that every district will record a large proportion of the registered vote.

Caravan Day Program Attracts Club Women

"Caravan Day" was fittingly observed Monday, November 4, at Epworth M. E. church. It was sponsored by the local Woman's club, with the Lawrence County Federation presiding as co-hostesses. The event attracted clubwomen in Lawrence and other counties, in the neighborhood of two-hundred, who declared this outstanding occasion, was unusually interesting, inasmuch as it was marked with several splendid speakers who contributed much of an educational nature to the program.

At 10:15 o'clock, the Woman's club held a business discussion, preceding the opening of the morning program. At 12:30 an informal period was featured, with a delicious luncheon menu served in the church diningroom, at long tables decorated with bouquets of seasonal flowers. A group of efficient and courteous church workers served, following prayer by Mrs. J. J. McIlvaine.

Mrs. R. S. Tannehill, president of the Woman's club, presided over the early sessions, later turning the program over to Mrs. Richard Perry, president of the district.

Mrs. Perry introduced as the main speaker of the day, Mrs. Joseph Dury of Sewickley, who spoke fluently on "Adult Education." She related that at one time, the only form of adult education for women, was the missionary society, where they learned to write papers, read and associate in work together, comparing those bygone times, with today's. She related the many forms of adult education now, naming the Chautauqua, various clubs, and world known organizations.

She challenged the women's clubs not to be passive, but questioning listeners and gave the following definition; "Adult education is the continuing development and enrichment of the individual, fitting her for a future position of intelligent participation in a changing world." She concluded her talk, with the suggestion of two subjects for study in women's clubs; "The Constitution of the United States" and "Enlarging the School Unit."

Mrs. W. A. Taylor, the next speaker, chose for her subject, "Good Government" and explained woman's responsibility in voting. She gave some interesting phases as to the importance of the woman voter.

Mrs. S. D. Pearson, state chairman of Conservation and Gardens, also, a director of the Southwestern District, gave a most inspiring talk on "Gardening and Flower Arrangement". For better understanding, she illustrated with several beautiful and original exhibits. She described how to decorate our homes, following the frost periods. One exhibit was a milkweed in a beaten lead bowl, another was a bottle type gourd, containing bladder nuts and numerous other attractive arrangements. She concluded her talk in giving a "foolproof" list of plants that anybody could have in her home, with little care.

During the noonday recess, much attention was devoted to an exquisite display of paintings by Mrs. Joseph Pyle of Winter avenue and W. Craig McBurney, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. McBurney. The latter is enrolled at the Cleveland School of Arts, his talents being along the line of water colors, and a batik wall hanging, that occasioned comment.

The stage was arranged to represent an art studio, in observance of National Art Week, being cleverly planned by Mrs. G. W. Short, president of the Art club. She was assisted by Mrs Gayl Blim, Mrs. F. L. Burton and Mrs. C. G. Snyder. Murals for the first grade reading room at Thaddeus Stevens school, made by the art department of Senior high school, was of interest, as was the "Panorama of Transportation" made by 6-B students at Thaddeus Stevens.

During the afternoon, Miss Dorothy Fisher, talented pianist of this city, delighted the audience with two selected piano solos, displaying perfect touch and tone quality.

Of special interest at the afternoon session, was the subject, "The Value of Publicity" given by Mrs. John Anderson, in the absence of Mrs. P. M. Stahlman, past district chairman of club institutes. She related what is important in a news item; how brevity counts in newspaper articles, and why it is essential to have a conscientious publicity chairman appointed, who will conduct her duties efficiently. She is not to be infringed upon by her associates, and she must be given the full co-operation of each individual, to attain the desired results. She drew attention to the importance of submitting data written neatly and concisely, accompanied by proper signatures and telephone numbers, for contact if necessary. Fairness and respected confidence are imperative in the responsibilities of reporting, and it is the full duty of clubs to get their material into the reporter's hands, in ample time, for publication.

Mrs. J. B. Roessing, state financial chairman, was the next speaker and she revealed valued information relative to the "Amusement Tax" pertaining to club entertainments. She explained tax exemption privileges, drawing distinction between the "Federated" and "Non-Federated" clubs, that is of particular interest.

Miss Hanna Patterson, of Pittsburgh, an authority on State by-laws, made fitting remarks. Her address was followed by Mrs. E. C. Barnes of Corry, who spoke of "Local Government", and gave data on a program now being formulated, known as the "City and Community Planning Board" that will be of benefit to clubwomen. She is State chairman of Citizenship and American Home."

The closing feature of the afternoon, was a humorous and comic skit entitled "Overheard Conversation" that was cleverly put on by three women; Mrs. John McKelvie of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's club; Mrs. James Huey, president of the Allegheny County Federation, and Mrs. John Simpson, all Pittsburgh residents.

Guests were ushered into the auditorium by four pages, Mrs. A. Pearson Furst, Mrs. David W. Ritchie Jr., Mrs. Bart Richards and Mrs.. Earl Carpenter, who wore distinguishing shoulder capes and turbans of emerald green.

Hostesses created a feeling of good fellowship, in making guests acquainted. Registration was in charge of Mrs. John E. Elliott and Mrs. Andrew Dodds.

Credit for the day's success, is due Mrs. H. R. McCulloch, general chairman of arrangements, with the following sub-chairmen co-operating; Mrs. John E. Ellictt Mrs. Harry L. Gormley, Mrs. Carl Paisley, Mrs. E. Kaplan and Mrs. J. J. Fisher, each having a group of aides.

Those from out of town included: Mrs. J. D. Shelatree, of the Wampum Woman's club; Mrs. Ella B. Cram of the Linesville Woman's club; Mrs. George E. Bayless of the Titusville Woman's club; Mrs. E. C. Barnes of Corry, state chairman of Citizenship; Mrs. D. P. Jacobs, and Mrs. David Duncan of Youngstown, O.; Mrs. Richard B. Perry of Sewickley; Mrs. John T. Anderson of the Allegheny County Federation; Mrs. Joseph D. Dury, State Chairman of Education of Sewickley, and Mrs. R. B. Lyons of Oil City.

MODERN RIP VAN WINKLE STUFF

AN old prospector came down from the mountains in Alaska the other day after having spent 35 unbroken years away up back of beyond. He got sick, at last, and someone took him to Fairbanks for treatment; and a brief news dispatch says that the old fellow was amazed and bewildered by the changes that had taken place during his long exile.

It occurs to us that if the changes in Fairbanks could startle this bearded hermit, a trip down into the states would absolutely paralyze him.

Never mind about the inventions and the gadgets that he would see for the first time—the autos and airplanes, the skyscrapers and radios, the concrete roads and the moving pictures. Those would be the obvious, surface shocks. His real trouble would come when he began to find out how people are thinking and what they are trying to do.

Here was a man who went into seclusion just four years after Bryan's great free silver campaign of 1896. He probably supposed, when he went up there, that free silver was as dead as George Washington's horse; but he would find it livelier than even Bryan himself ever dreamed, being looked upon kindly in the national capital itself.

When this prospector went north, the United States was busy conquering the Filipinos; today he would find it equally busy setting the Filipinos free. If he remembered the growing murmur against the "trusts," back in 1900, he would see today's government feeling regretful because the supreme court wouldn't let it band the big combinations of industry together in a system designed to restrict output and maintain prices.

Remembering the anti-railroad agitation of the 1900's, he would see the government coming to the rescue of the railroads with millions upon millions of dollars. And then, of course, there would be the AAA for him to think about.

Probably it would all seem pretty confusing. If he looked abroad it would be even worse.

England, which he last saw descending on the South African Boers, preparing to wage war to protect the independence of an African nation . . . Russia under a depotism as rigid as ever, but turned upside down so that a different set of people is in Siberia . . . Germany minus its Kaiser, with a former house painter ruling more autocratically than the Kaiser ever dreamed of ruling . . . Wouldn't that be enough to bewilder the most intelligent of hermits?

Indeed, the old gentleman could hardly be blamed for taking one long look at the nation and the world which he last saw 35 years ago, and then turning around and heading back for his Alaskan diggings at top speed. Despairing stay-at-homes would probably be glad to accompany him.

BELATED HONOR TO WILLIAM PENN

Three new additions to the Hall of Fame—Grover Cleveland, Simon Newcomb and William Penn—bring the total up to 72. Some of those nominated but not chosen deserved the honor, and perhaps their time will come belatedly, as Penn's did. It might have been supposed that the founder of the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would have been among the earliest selections. Few figures in our colonial history are of more importance.

His ideas of tolerance, for one thing, were far ahead of those of his time. Son of an admiral, he turned to Quaker doctrine, upholding it vigorously and effectively. His friendship with James II of England was an important factor in his career. Pennsylvania is still in essentials the Commonwealth of Penn.

FIRE ON THE FARM

No class of citizens has a great interest in fire prevention than the farmer.

Farm fires are customarily more disastrous than urban fires. This is partly the result of the fact that much farm property—homes, corn cribs, hay-ricks, barns, stables, etc.—is extremely inflammable. And it is partly the result of the fact that many otherwise up-to-date farming communities have a deplorable lack of fire fighting equipment.

Fire prevention on the farm is thus not a simple matter—but it can be achieved. Better building goes a long way toward attaining the goal, as does the exertion of great care and watchfulness during the dry season. Every farm should be adequately equipped with up-to-date fire extinguishers, situated at strategic points in the home and out-buildings. Many a serious fire, which destroyed lives and property, could have been stopped before making headway had a good fire extinguisher been at hand when the blaze was first discovered.

Most farming communities, as well, can afford to develop modern fire-fighting departments—indeed, they cannot afford to be without them. Such departments must be backed up with dependable water facilities and alarm systems. Roads must be kept open, even in bad weather.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace recently pointed to the magnitude of the farm fire loss, and to the need for reducing it. Other experts have done the same thing. Farm property is often inadequately insured, and values tend to deviate sharply from season to season as crops are raised and distributed. In good times a serious fire is a blow to even the most prosperous farmer—in bad times it may ruin him.

A fire prevention program that will get results should be undertaken in every agricultural area in this country.

A radical is one who says: "You built it; now get out of the way and let a smart guy run it."

Yet how strange to be governed by a law-making body that never knows whether its laws are legal ones.

Now that the worst seems to be over, we must pay proper tribute to the ladies for their refusal to bow to the blows of the depression. So far as we are informed, there are no records of sales of cotton stockings.

Once "all the world wondered," or at least we did, when there was talk of spending one quarter of a billion on the Panama Canal. Now, any professor could spend that, after three minutes' thinking, and news that the nation's deficit has increased fifteen hundred millions in the past few weeks startles nobody.

A LONG DISTANCE CALL

A Vancouver business man established a new world's long-distance telephone call record, but didn't know it until a month later.

It happened this way: The business man wanted to speak to a friend in Sydney, Australia, but Sydney telephone officials couldn't locate him there, so they tried Perth, 1,500 miles away and found him and connected the two men, without informing the Vancouver man about it. After talking five minutes over the 19,000 miles of land and water, the two men hung up.

Later, is was revealed that the call from Vancouver to Perth was a new world's record for a commercial call.

UNCHANGED

They say this is a different world
From what it used to be.
Yet morning finds the grass dew-pearled,
And still on land and sea
The harvest moon at evening throws
A flood of molten gold,
Enchanting countless belles and beaux
As in the ages old.

Mankind has shortened time and space,
But still when winter comes
The few brave birds about the place
Search round the door for crumbs
And still when brain and body tire
And nights are long and cold,
We sit about a cheery fire,
As in the ages old.

Customs and styles are fleeting things
And plans and methods change,
But nature to her purpose clings
And little there is strange.
Still children, ere they come to know
Must many times be told
As in the ages old.

Still men to cruel wars resort,
Still envy, hate and pride
And passion base of every sort
In human hearts abide
We travel now at faster speed
But men still worship gold
And are as ruthless in their greed
As in the ages old.

In the larger cities, 61 chains operate more than 300 newspapers. There are 37,000,000 copies of newspapers printed each week day and 27,000,000 every Sunday. REMOVE ONION ODOR

Many families don't have onions as often as they would like for the simple and good reason that the head of the "kitchen department" doesn't like the idea of her hands giving off onion fumes for a day or two after each serving. Soap and water alone fail miserably to remove the odor, but if given the aid of a little mustard they are very effective. Dust the hands with dry mustard and then wet and rub thoroughly. Follow this with a good washing with soap and water and you will lose the reminder of yesterday's onions.

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

By Francine Markel

Please give me some suggestions as to what I should wear at my debut, which will take place at an afternoon tea.—Undecided.

Answer—Elaborate clothes should be shunned by you on this day of days. Your appearance should suggest girlishness, rather than sophistication. And on this occasion, you should strive to dress down to your 18 years, omitting such adornment as pendant earrings and other extremes.

Wear a simple evening dress, even though your debut will take place in the afternoon. White, for those who can wear it, is preferable. Many choose soft, pastel shades, but vivid colors or black are never worn by those displaying good taste.

Your mother and your young friends who will receive with you should wear afternoon dresses without hats. Both you and your mother should wear long gloves.

A debutante wears an afternoon dress at her debut only when it takes place at a garden party or a very informal tea.

Earnings Still Climb.
Employment Is Lagging.
La Guardia Balances Budget.

Central Press
New York Bureau
235 East 45th St.
By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Earnings figures for the last quarter of the year will be surprisingly good. In many trades, business is increasing contrary to the usual trend at this time of the year—notably in gasoline and oil.

But employment does not improve in the same ratio. That is a problem which has not been solved—a problem affecting one-fifth of the population.

The administration, stung by criticism of huge spending, pleads for private industry to take up the employment lag.

Industry responds by demanding less spending, less taxation.

The administration retorts that until the unemployed are absorbed the government can neither stop spending nor reduce taxes.

Into the argument is interjected the belief of skeptics that there is no actual improvement for the many, and that there can be none until the profits of the machine accrue to the entire population.

BUDGET BALANCER

A budget balancer who has achieved no acclaim is Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia of New York.

When he took office two years ago the budget prepared for 1934 by his Tammany predecessor showed a deficit of $31,000,000.

Lo Guardia scrapped that budget and came through the year with a surplus of $4,000,000—thus saving New York City $35,000,000 in a single year.

His surplus this year will be $3,000,000.

James J. (Jimmy) Walker, who resigned as mayor of New York during a hearing before the then Governor Roosevelt, and who returned the other day, ran up deficits during his term on which New Yorkers will be paying interest for years to come. Yet plenty of taxpayers came to cheer him when he docked following a three-year sojourn abroad.

WAGNER LAW?

The query that is asked this writer the oftenest is:

What has become of the Wagner labor disputes law?

It is not being vigorously enforced. Its constitutionality is to be tested first.

Complaints pour into this column that workers are being intimidated and discharged for joining labor organizations.

In one instance, an employer wrote to an employer in another town telling him that one of his employes belonged to a union. The man was discharged. He has a family.

JEWS CAN'T DEPART

Another question asked is: Why don't the Jews (or Catholics) leave Germany?

A writer in The Manchester (England) Guardian—L. G. Montefiore—answers that:

". . . They are practically trapped. Not only are most countries of the world closed against any immigration but the German currency restrictions make it impossible for the Jews to take their property with them.

"Anyone who emigrates from Germany must pay 25 per cent of his property as emigration tax if his fortune exceeds 50,000 marks. The remaining 75 per cent he receives in so-called Sperrmarks, which are worth about 30 per cent of their nominal value. . . . A Jew who wants to escape the Nazi persecution must pay his persecutors four-fifths of his fortune before he is free to depart."

DONAHEY

Rumors that Senator A. Vic Donahey of Ohio may succeed John Nance Garner as President Roosevelt's running mate are scouted as a wish rather than a practical possibility.

Donahey is the best vote-getter in the Democratic ranks. He is impregnable in Ohio. No one exactly understands his popularity. The New Dealers underestimated him in opposing him for the senatorial nomination in 1934. After being forcibly convinced, the administration took Donahey to its bosom.

Donahey has the outlook of a conservative farmer and the ability to talk in the language of the industrial worker. That is his talent. He would be of tremendous help toward carrying the midwest for the president.

And business has not opposed him—hitherto.

Weekly Health Talks

HEALTH INSOLENCE

"It is apparent to every physician that some people decidedly have a greater physical and natural resistance to disease than have others. But it does not by any means follow that such persons will live longer than those whose endurance is definitely less. As a matter of fact, sometimes a bodily vigor far above the average develops what one medical authority has so aptly termed 'health insolence' which results in tragedy," states Dr. Edith Mac-Bride-Dexter, state Secretary of Health.

"For example, a few months ago a patient came to his physician's office in a very complacent and rather boastful mood, despite the fact that 'inability to sleep' had become a disturbing condition to him. He was one of those rare persons who had been endowed with unusual physical vitality and mental vigor. From thirty to fifty years he had worked prodigiously, dismissing individual hygiene as quite unnecessary in his case.

"When his medical advisor informed him that he must cease to overwork, must get seven hours sleep each night and eat more sparingly he merely laughed. Despite the pleadings of his family doctor, he still believed that he was a superman and continued to reject the physical requirements that nature has inevitably laid down for mankind. The victim suddenly collapsed a short time later and died prematurely, the victim of his great vitality.

"The above illustration is by no means rare. However, to a lesser but equally important extent, this unfortunate psychology applies to most persons who are well. The fact that they are free from pain, have no consciousness of any disorder and are thus in a healthy condition, almost automatically develops an over-confidence in one's 'staying' qualities.

"Consequently, without rhyme or reason, many are prone to snub nature by flaunting their vigor in her face, and refusing habitually to bow to her mandates regarding sleep, food, exercise, fresh air and the many other reasonable health precautions ordained by modern civilization.

"It follows, whether one considers himself to be a super person or just plain average, health snobbiness does not pay. A reasonable concern for one's health conservation and a reasonable respect for nature's laws represent the fundamental secret for continued health, resistance to disease, endurance, and comparative long life."

Stratosphere Rocket Is Being Perfected

Hope New Rocket Will Reach 50 Or 100 Miles Into Space

New Rocket Will Be Capable Of Obtaining Valuable Data In Skies

(EDITORS NOTE: Following is the first of two articles dealing with development of the rocket. I. N. S.)

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—The rocket, long only an object of fancy and imagination, is confidently expected by science to begin serving a practical, useful purpose next year.

Vague reports to this effect were confirmed here for International News Service today by Dr. Charles G. Abbot, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute.

Whimsy Plans

This does not mean that rockets will be built next year to carry man into outer space. When such a state of development will come, if ever, is still in the realm of scientific dreams. As for the intriguing project of sending man to another planet, that, said Dr. Abbot, is just whimsy for the present.

But next year, said Mr. Abbot, rockets will hurtle upwards between fifty and a hundred miles, and parachute back to earth bearing invaluable data which science has futilely sought for centuries.

The nation's rocket expert, Dr. R. H. Goddard, who has spent his life experimenting with the powerful projectiles, has perfected a small rocket. Next year, he will build a larger one, to carry heavy instruments far into upper atmospheres.

Practical Rocket

Dr. Goddard, said Dr. Abbot, his lifelong friend, has eliminated all the "kinks" and now has a practical rocket.

Construction of a rocket capable of carrying camera, temperature and pressure indicator, and equipment for measuring electrical charges into higher atmosphere, is now only a matter of money, said Dr. Abbot. The guggenheim foundation has provided that.

Dr. Goddard is working at Roswell, New Mexico, where miles of uninhabited country provides safety.

Perfection of the Goddard rocket for upper space flight came with construction of a gyroscopic instrument compelling the projectile to travel vertically in a straight line. Dr. Goddard worked for years on this, Dr. Abbot explained, and has only just perfected it. Tests revealed that it works.

Continuously Propelled

Unlike the projectiles built in earlier days, the new rocket is continuously propelled. Instead of a series of high explosive charges, which drove the old rockets forward in a series of erratic spurts, Dr. Goddard now uses a continuously burning propelling fuel of gasoline or hydrogen in liquid oxygen.

An automatic parachute brings the delicate instruments safely to earth when the rocket has spent its force upward.

Invaluable Data

Dr. Abbot listed the following improvement data which he said the new rocket will bring back to earth from its hundred mile trip into the stratosphere.

1—Samples of helium and hydrogen as they exist in the upper air.

2—A record of temperature and air pressure.

3—A record of electrical conditions.

4—Automatically photographed prints of sun spectrum, impossible to obtain at any low level because of the heavy air blanket around the earth and close to its surface.

Sponsors Mandate

Mrs. Carrie C. Catt

Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, founder and organizer of the Conference on the Cause and Cure of War, and internationally known champion of peace, has indorsed the people's mandate against war for which 50,000,000 signatures are being sought. The mandate calls upon governments having renounced war in the Kellogg-Briand pact, to stop preparations for war.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. October 4, eight arrests on charges as follows: Drunkenness 4, Suspicion 2 and Fighting 2.

Each morning quite a crowd collects in the police courtroom to see the prisoners who have been arrested the night before and to also hear their stories. Some of them received a jar yesterday when Detective Willis McMullen levelled a kodak at the crowd. Some of them placed their hands over their face and others turned their head. Apparently these people did not wish to have their photographs taken as attendants at a police court hearing.

Solicitor Robert White today went to Pittsburgh to undergo an operation on his throat.

City hall officials and attaches were on edge today and the election was the main topic. The names of the men whom will preside over the city government for the next several years will be known by midnight.

Cruiser car operators have already started to guard properties left uninhabited by persons who have gone south for the winter. Before such people leave they report to the police station and immediately a sharp vigil is kept on their homes. As soon as those who have been away return they are expected to notify the department of police immediately.

BILLIONS OF DOLLARS and created seven and a half billions of new public debts.

But we are in the billion-dollar state, and perhaps we can afford it, although inflating with bonds seems reckless, adding interest to inflation.

THE "WAR" in Africa, if you call it that, goes along quietly, as far as Ethiopia is concerned. The real war, if any, will be in Europe, where League nations will unite to, if they can, starve out Italy.

But sanctions do not start until November 18, and Mussolini doubtless will have a food supply on hand sufficient to outlast the Ethiopian incident. Wheat and meat can be stored indefinitely.

Italy seems to expect some trouble; she is spending one milion gold lire on bomb-proof shelters in Messina, Sicily, Italy's most important city in the Southern Mediterranean. There will be room for the city's 200,000 population.

THE NATIONAL effort to "buy ourselves out of the hole" encounters difficulties. The President, to make his four billions cash spread as far as possible, announced top wages of $93 a month. But union labor says no. "You must pay US full union wages," and New York may have a state-wide strike to back the demand.

President Roosevelt, it is said: refused to concede that public relief is a branch of union labor and, even with 1936 looming ahead, may insist that two governments in one country is one too many.

MANY ELECTIONS come tomorrow and many Americans are interested, most of them politicians. The average person does not know exactly what the election means. But he does know that tomorrow's elections may give an outline of next year's national election, and that interests him, more than usual.

In the happy, carefree past not more than half the citizens voted. Their chief worrk was the selection of a new winter overcoat. This year there may be none and that makes politics important. If you doubt that "each country gets the kind of government it deserves," study this country.

GERMANY continues along the path marked out by the energetic Austrian, Hitler.

A young priest, 28, is imprisoned for four months in Stuttgart, accused of having quoted anti-Hitler youth songs. Also at Stuttgart, a zealous pastor, of the Vicar of Bray type, has removed the letters RI from the altar cross, deleting them from the symbol INRI.

He says:

"The King of the Jews could hardly have become saviour of the world."

IT IS more pleasant to read about Mrs. Lillian Gist, of Tampa, Fla.

At eighty years of age, having just taken her master's degree, she plans to study for her degree of doctor of philosophy. Mrs. Gist has eleven children and twelve grandchildren. She ought to have 122 grandchildren, but this a feeble age.

To the objection that she must not study too hard at eighty, the lady replies:

"I am not too old to do anything I want to do."

YOU MAY want to know that in England, where good times have really come back, the Tories have made heavy gains at the present election and the Labor Party sustains heavy losses.

Ramsay MacDonald, head of Britain's first Labor government, rejoices openly at Labor's downfall. His work as prime minister seems to have changed his opinions. Experience often changes our minds.

"IT IS a very great rebuff; for labor," says MacDonald. "The people are not being taken in by wild and reckless promises which they know cannot be carried out in municipal or national government."

'Pontiac' Plane In Flight Last Night

City Watches 'Flying Billboard' Last Night; King Brought Ship

A siren screamed out and bright red Neon letters flashed the word "Pontiac" through the dark skies here last night as Wayne Garrigus, 33-year-old, one-armed pilot guided his "flying billboard" plane through the air for the Lawrence Auto Sales Company, dealers here for Pontiac and several other General Motors cars.

Garrigus flew here from Pittsburgh and returned there following his flight over New Castle and New Wilmington.

The red letters the public saw are five feet high and three feet wide and the entire word "Pontiac" is 40 feet long.

While the plane few over last night not many watchers knew that a one-armed man whom the government has licensed to do commercial flying as well as general flying was at the controls. Garrigus was approved and granted a license in 1928 and now has 1,500 hours to his credit, 300 of them from night flying. He is his own mechanic.

The pilot lost his arm in a railroad wreck in which his mother and father were killed 25 years ago.

E. J. King, general manager of the Lawrence Auto Sales Company; A. W. Naylor, Pittsburgh, a district manager in the Pittsburgh zone for the Pontiac Motor Company; a newspaperman and others were at the New Castle airport to greet Garrigus as he landed. He remained at the airport until his exhibition.

"I found your airport easily because it's on our map," the flyer said. "I'll say you have a fine field here."

Pontiac cars, newly announced for 1936, are now on display in the Lawrence Auto Sales showrooms and the general public, Mr. King emphasized, is invited in to see them.

Sound Equipment Provided For Plays

Westminster College Players To Have New Aid In Presenting Plays

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 5.—The Little Theatre of Westminster college can hoax the audience to its heart's content now with the installation of new sound equipment offstage that can imitate airplanes zooming, babies crying, or men plowing through snow two feet deep.

Professor Albert T. Cordray, director of the Little Theatre, has been handicapped when presenting plays during the past few seasons, in the staging of futuristic plays that called many times for the marching of soldiers offstage or the whirr and roar of factory machinery; but the new transcription machine will enable noises of any kind to be produced behind the scenes and intensified to a deafening pitch if necessary.

Among the noises which the Little Theatre director will now be able to produce in order to give reality to stage plays will be applause, artillery fire, automobile races and crashes, bacon frying, bells and anvils ringing, bugle calls, cats fighting and howling, cows mooing and calves bawling, dogs barking, and trees falling. In fact, Director Cordray may even produce a few "unheard of" sounds before the dramatics season is over.

An angry swarm of bees nearly caused havoc in Camden, N. Y. The bees settled on a tree limb without "provocation," stung residents, including children, as they left their homes.

End Bad Cough Quickly, at One Fourth the Cost

Home-Mixed! No Cooking! Easy!

Millions of housewives have found that, by mixing their own cough medicine, they get a much more effective remedy. They use a recipe which costs only one-fourth as much as ready-made medicine, but which really has no equal for breaking up distressing coughs.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. The syrup is easily made with 2 cups sugar and one cup water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and makes the most effective remedy that money could buy. Keeps perfectly, and children love its taste.

Its quick action in loosening the phlegm, helping clear the air passages, and soothing away the irritation, has caused it to be used in more homes than any other cough remedy.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its soothing effect on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

ANNUAL EXTENSION MEETING

The annual meeting of the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association will be held Thursday, November 14, in the First U. P. church, New Castle.

There will be both morning and afternoon sessions. The morning session will begin with a short business meeting followed by discussions on farm activities in Lawrence County by local farm men and women.

Prof. William V. Dennis, of the Department of Rural Sociology of Pennsylvania State College will be the chief speaker at this meeting. His subject will be "Planning for the Future of Agriculture in Lawrence County."

This meeting is open to the public and anyone interested is invited to attend.

STORE SALAD CROPS FOR USE ALL WINTER

Salad vegetables for use all winter and even next spring may be conveniently supplied from the home garden. Well selected plants and careful storage will insure this supply.

Celery, Chinese cabbage and endive may all be stored under similar conditions. The plants may be left in the garden until continuously cold weather in November, but should be protected during cold spells. They may be protected by covering with heavy-water proof paper or similar material. Decayed or diseased plants should be discarded.

Roots should be kept in moist soil or sand but water must not be applied to the tops. The best temperature is 33 degrees, Fahrenheit, but in common storage under 40 is safe.

Convenient places in which to store these crops are a hotbed, outside trench, or in a cellar where the temperature remains constantly low and the air is moist (95% relative humidity) In the cellar a tub or box may be used although a dirt floor is highly desirable.

Solid heads of Danish cabbage, with the loose outer leaves removed may be stored in a barrel pit, in shaped piles, covered heavily with straw or corn fodder, or in a cold cellar with a dirt floor. The cellar should be provided with bins or crates having a four to six inch air space. The depth and width should not be more than four feet each for ample air circulation through the bin.

Carrots and other root vegetables keep best in a cold place with medium-moist air. The barrel-pit is quite satisfactory or a cold cellar with a dirt floor may be used. For home use a convenient method is to obtain second hand milk, lard or other cans—one for each root crop. A layer of soil or sand is used to cover the contents of each can or box to prevent shriveling or loss of moisture. Sometimes the lid is placed loosely in place. The cans or boxes are kept in a cold place where a supply be obtained conveniently and easily.

INSECTS IN GRAIN MAY CALL FOR FUMIGATION

Now that the granaries are filled with recent harvests it is time to be on the lookout for insects. Fumigation may be necessary.

At this season of the year, with the new crop of grain in the barns there is always a chance that the new grain will become infested with any one of a number of different species of insects which develop in the scattered grains left from last year's crop.

The best way to control insects in stored grain is to clean up the scattered grain in the bins and granary and fumigate before the new crop is put in.

However if this has not been done and insects are present, sometimes causing heating of the grain, the best treatment is to fumigate the bins and granaries with carbon bisulphide. Use three pounds of carbon bisulphide to each 100 bushels of grain.

If the bin is partly empty and moths or beetles are distributed through the granary, add to the above amount enough carbon bisulphide to equal five pounds for each 1,000 cubic feet of air space.

Bin and granary walls must be tight before fumigating. If they are not already tight they can be made so by covering the inside with building paper and any open cracks may be temporarily closed by pasting on strips of wet newspaper. All cracks around windows and doors should be made tight. Fumigation should be given for a period of at least 24 hours.

Carbon bisulphide is a liquid that is heavier than air and so it sinks to the bottom of the bins. It is very explosive and care should be taken in using it not to bring it near open lights of any kind.

LIGHTS HELP INCREASE WINTER EGG PRODUCTION

With the winter months approaching poultrymen are turning their efforts towards increasing egg production. Artificial lighting is one way to get more eggs.

Lights in the poultry house will increase the length of day for the birds. This longer day results in greater feed consumption which, in turn, stimulates egg production in the winter. With egg prices higher in fall and winter this means a greater profit.

When to start lights on pullets is what often bothers the farm flock-owners. It is customary to allow the early pullets to reach their peak of production naturally and then when production starts to drop, turn on the lights. Lights on early hatched pullets are used to check a drop in production, rather than stimulate abnormally high egg production.

Remember too, that no pullets should be housed until the laying quarters have been thoroughly cleaned and disinfected. Cleaniness and sanitation are the best precautions that any poultrymen can take against an outbreak of disease. Remove all litter, nesting material and droppings from the house and then scrub the floor, dropping boards, and lower walls with a solution of lye and boiling hot water. Use one can of lye to each twenty or thirty gallons of water. After the house has been scrubbed, clean with lye water, a liberal amount of disinfectant should be used. If the houses are whitewashed after being disinfected, they will be lighter and more cheerful for the birds.

CHOOSE CAREFULLY THE NEW HOME ACCESSORIES

The appearance of a home depends very largely upon the accessories. They are those things which are additional to the necessary furnishings in a room. How easy to accumulate and too abundantly use these extras, says Miss Mary Vogle, home economics representative.

During the season for trips, bazaars, fairs and expositions, one thinks that a souvenir from the place visited, will be a fitting reminder after the return to the home. Then comes the question of a place to display these souvenirs that friends and relatives as well as ourselves may see where we were. How many of these are worthy of the place they occupy in the room? Do they add to the appearance of the room or do they mean one or more things to add to the already overfurnished room?

One's personality shows through the selection and use of accessories. They show the individual's interests. Such things as books, vases, sculptor, miniature animals, ash trays, toys, and banners, are but a few of the tell-tale accessories. Some may be very good while others only detract from the appearance of the room.

Ask yourself these questions before buying. Does it have beauty? Will it be deserving of a place? Many inexpensive artictles are in good taste but one has to take but a casual glance at many displays to see that they are but distorted shapes and colors.

Planning accessories for a room requires careful thought as well as selection The tendency is to overcrowd a space rather than use too few things. Piano tops, radio tops, mantels, decks and tables seem to be the catch-alls. The overflow sometimes has to take its place upon the floor.

On a mantel, for instance, three and not over five pieces are sufficient. They may include a pair of candlesticks, if there is no wall lighting fiture nearby, or vases with a clock or picture in the center. Both clock and picture should not be used as one detracts from the beauty of the other. Such an arrangement makes for formal balance. Informal balance may be obtained by placing the candlesticks on one end of the mantel and a piece of pottery containing some trainling vine on the other.

Photographs or small knick-knacks may only give a feeling of confusion and crowding, but the time required for removing and dusting when the room is cleaned, is an item to be considered. What is true of the mantel also holds for the piano, deck or whatever may be in the room.

If, in taking inventory, there seems to be too many objects about the room, put some away. Use a few which seem most fitting or change from time to time rather than offer a crowded display as one might find in a shop of limited space. A vase with a few real flowers, which may come from the open fields, a few books between simple attractive bookends, or one picture of lasting worth, bring more charm, beauty, and rest to a room than may artificial flowers, piles of books and magazines or a wall crowded with pictures, calendars and banners.

For attempting to smuggle 3,500 cigarets into Japan on their recent return from Manchuria, 55 students of the Osaka Teikoku Women's Pharmaceutical college have been severely reprimanded by the Shimoroseski tobacco monopoly bureau.

Red Cross Has Served County In Many Ways

Annual Roll Call To Carry On Duties Of Chapters Starts Armistice Day

CAMPAIGN PLANS NOW UNDER WAY

In asking the support of the citizens of New Castle and Lawrence County in the Roll Call campaign which will be conducted from Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, points with pride to its past record.

Active in rendering assistance to the soldiers and their families during the days of the World War, the chapter has continued to be the chief agency which the veterans of the variousu wars and their families may contact for assistance in their claims against the government, and last year aided many widows as well as veterans themselves in various ways.

In addition the chapter has conducted schools of instruction in Red Cross Life Saving, and in first aid to the injured, familiarizing many with the most approved methods.

Home Hygiene and care of the sick has been stressed during the past few years, and a large number of women have been taught what to do, when someone becomes ill in their own homes.

When the first effects of the depression were felt, the Red Cross was named as the agency to distribute flour and clothing to those in need, which service it performed with fidelity until the present relief system was inaugurated.

A new duty has been added, that of teaching safety in the home and on the highway, where many avoidable accidents have taken a high toll of life.

The local chapter has always maintained a department of public health nursing for those who have been unfortunate and need the services of a trained nurse, but are unable to pay for it. The nurse of the local chapter is constantly in demand.

A small portion of the money raised in this roll call will be sent to the National Red Cross at Washington to be used in disaster work throughout the country, the Red Cross being the agency which has been delegated to perform this duty by the government, and the trained workers of the National Red Cross, are kept busy the year round in some community in this great country, where disaster has struck.

In the divorce case of Dorothy Eleanor McCool against Kenneth Leroy McCool, an alias subpoena has been granted.

Bond of the Lawrence Savings & Trust company as guardian for E. Don McKibben, Jr., minor son of E. Don McKibben, was approved by the court.

Testimony of a hearing in the estate of Lottie S. Minesky, of which George W. Minesky is administrator, was filed. It showed a balance of $2,446.67 for distribution among the heirs.

The Lawrence Savings & Trust company filed a bond as guardian for Gladys P. Hoover and Orville Hoover, minor children of Belle Lutton Hoover.

Motion to continue a view of the property of Luigi Cardullo in Union township was granted and the viewers were given until the first Monday of December to file their report. This is one of the Youngstown hill cases.

In the matter of the dissolution of the Iron & Steel Workers Benefit association of the Carnegie steel works, the court has confirmed the report of the master, Attorney Joseph R. McFate, as to distribution of the assets. The money in the treasury is to be distributed to the members of the organization, according as their interests may appear.

Some of the couples who make applications for marriage licenses ask that the licenses be mailed to them, which can be done under the law, or either or both parties may come after the license, as they see fit. Out of town couples usually prefer to have the license mailed at the expiration of three days from the date of application.

Wilmington township residents have petitioned court for the vacation of a road from near the entrance to Fair Oaks cemetery to the Fayette road, as it has become useless owing to changes which have been made. Judge Hildebrand has appointed Attorney J. Roy Mercer, Alex Main and George Hettenbaugh as viewers, who will go over the route, take testimony and make a report.

Election boards throughout the city and county can greatly facilitate the work of getting complete totals of the vote cast today by bringing the returns to the prothonotary's office as early as possible tomorrow. Usually the greater part of the returns are in by 11 a. m. but there is generally some dilatory or sleepy return judge who comes in late and thus prevents the securing of final totals until late in the day. The News will publish a table of the vote cast for candidates throughout the county, and if all the precincts are in by noon a complete table can be published. Some of these contests are likely to be close and it will be a big satisfaction to everybody to have a complete table.

Judges Hildebrand and Chambers have made an order directing the jury commissioners to place 1300 names in the jury wheel for the ensuing year. There are about 35 or 40 names still in the wheel for this year, and they will also remain in the wheel until drawn out.

Thirty-five deeds and 80 mortgages were placed on record at the register and recorder's office last week. The big list of mortgages were mostly refinancing operations to building and loan associations, the mortgagors having borrowed more money to pay up their delinquent taxes. Twelve of the mortgages were given to the Home Owners Loan corporation. Now that the deadline has been passed for saving interest and penalties on delinquent mortgages, there is likely to be a big falling off in revenue from this source. Many took advantage of the opportunity to save discounts and penalties and it is too bad that there can be no extension of the law, at least until the next session of the state legislature.

Constable Joseph W. Dukes of the fifth ward appointed Thomas Lucas to serve as deputy constable in the third precinct at the election today, C. McClain in the second and Frank Scungio in the first. Constable C. N. Shingledecker of Mahoning township appointed Walter List in the first precinct and Samuel Graham in the third.

Grove City Burgess Veto Is Sustained

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Nov. 5.—Burgess VanEman's only veto in six years of serving the office was sustained by Boro council, which reversed its stand on an ordinance regulating to barber shop hours. Councilmen had previously approved the ordinance by a vote of 6 to 2, and the burgess vetoed the measure.

Pressed by a committee of barbers to pass the ordinance over the veto, the measure failed to secure a two-thirds majority when the vote was 4 to 4.

Barbers announce they will present the measure again after January 1st, when two new councilmen will take office.

HUNTING FATALITIES AROUSE STATE GAME BOARD

Hunters Urged To Wear Red To Prevent Accidental Shootings

MORE CAUTION IS URGED ON NIMRODS

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 5. — Hunting fatalities, already showing an increase over those of 1934, today brought a caution and a warning for Pennsylvania nimrods from the state game commission.

Nine persons, statewide reports show, were fatally shot during the first two days of the small game season which opened Friday. The game commission's official tabulation for 1934 showed six hunting fatalities during the opening period.

"Wear Red"

"Wear Red!" Was the commission's principal recommendation to the army of hunters. Red facing on hunting coats and caps. It was pointed out, will aid materially in reducing the number of "accidental" shootings.

"Extreme caution must be exercised by every armed and licensed hunter if we are to attain the minimum of accidents" a commission spokesman said. "Although the number of fatalities appears small by comparison when one considers there were 574,000 licensed hunters in the field last year, that number can be reduced by wiping out the element of carelessness."

As a warning to hunters, the commission called attention to its recently acquired authority to revoke licenses, after hearing, where it is shown the hunter was guilty of "gross carelessness." The authority wipes out the necessity of the commission first obtaining a court conviction as required in the past.

NEW "7-POWER" ALE YEAST ADDS 5 TO 15 LBS. QUICK

Thousands gain weight new easy way. Richest imported ale yeast now concentrated 7 times with 3 special kinds of iron in pleasant tablets.

AN AMAZING new "7-power" yeast discovery is putting pounds of solid, normally attractive flesh on thousands of "skinny", run-down people who never could gain an ounce before. With it many a thin girl has gained naturally lovely curves.

Doctors now know that the real reason why great numbers of people find it hard to gain weight is that they don't get enough Vitamin B and iron in their daily food. Now scientists have discovered that the richest known source of health-building Vitamin B is cultured ale yeast. By a new process the finest imported cultured ale yeast is now concentrated 7 times, making it 7 times more powerful. Then it is combined with 3 kinds of blood-strengthening iron in pleasant little tablets called Ironized Yeast tablets.

If you, too, are one of the many who need these vital health-building elements, get these new "7-power" Ironized Yeast tablets from your druggist at once. Day after day, as you take them, watch flat chest develop and skinny limbs round out to normal attractiveness. Indigestion and constipation from the same source quickly vanish, skin clears to normal beauty—you're an entirely new person.

Results guaranteed

No matter how skinny and run-down you may be, try this wonderful new "7-power" Ironized Yeast for just a few short weeks. If you're not delighted with the results of the very first package, your money will be instantly refunded.

WARNING! Don't be fooled

Only don't be deceived by the many cheaply prepared "Yeast and Iron" tablets sold in imitation of Ironized Yeast. These cheap counterfeits usually contain only the lowest grade of ordinary yeast and iron, and cannot possibly give the same results as the scientific Ironized Yeast formula. Be sure you get the genuine. Look for "IY" on each tablet.

Sleeves Intriguing

Irene Dunne's white fur sports jacket has most intriguing sleeves, marking it decidedly 1935-6. In the making of the jacket the skins are alternated, giving it distinction. The jacket tops a brown crepe frock and hat with accessories to match.

Coal Producers Sign New Codes

More Than 300 Coal Men Sign New Code In Past Few Days

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—More than 300 additional producers signed the new bituminous coal code in the past few days, bringing total acceptances to date to 2,540, figures released by the National Bituminous Coal Commission disclosed today.

Although exact tonnage represented by these acceptances is not definitely known, estimates based on figures supplied by deputy district secretaries indicate that operators claiming 161,206,625 tons production during 1934 have agreed to the code.

Simultaneously, it was announced the commission has decided to create a voluntary coal producers' committee to assist in an advisory capacity with the marketing provisions of the act in anticipation of a vast amount of work under that phase of the measure.

Chairman Charles Hosford has written district officials requesting each coal producing district to nominate three men who are experienced in marketing problems from which group the commission will choose one representative for each district.

The commission, however, made membership in the committee optional for those districts that are not a part of price area No. 1 which includes Eastern Pennsylvania, district 1; Western Pennsylvania, district 2; Northern West Virginia, district 3; Ohio, district 4 and other territories.

Daily, hourly, had Anne welded her Bond of Love. Yet, even as she boasted its strength, she knew how fragile were its links.

Illustrated by
A. G. SKRENDA

McClure Fiction

"When Chuck asked me to free him, I was heart broken. But I wouldn't fight over a man."

Certainly not, Anne thought, when you were already interested in someone else. "Didn't you think he was worth a fight?" she asked aloud.

ANNE felt her heart miss a beat when she saw the traveling bag in Dorothy Halloway's hand. It was true, then. Dorry was going away for a week-end with Anne's husband.

In the Plaza Grill Anne watched the lips of the woman across the table and was stabbed by the thought that Phil had kissed those lips. Had they been soft and yielding? And did Phil for one instant remember his wife as he felt that mouth beneath his own?

Dorothy lifted yellow eyes and smiled her slow smile. "Nice of you to ask me. Do you realize, Anne Calder, that I haven't seen you for ages? How's Phil?"

She dared to ask that! raged Anne silently. "He's been terribly busy lately." She found the courage to seem indifferent. "I don't see much of him, somehow." She looked straight at Dorothy and said with deliberateness, "He's leaving this afternoon on a business trip."

No ripple of emotion crossed Dorry's face. She returned Anne's gaze serenely, narrowly. Anne was suddenly aware of her two-year-old suit. Was the hat she had thought so smart really becoming? Well, Phil had liked the color.

Dorry asked, "How do you do it, Anne? You don't look a day older than you did in school."

"I hope I have more sense. Eight years of marriage and a four-year-old son should have worked some improvement." Anne's voice was thick. She fumbled in her purse. Her fingers slid across the surface of smooth white letter paper, then jerked as if they had been seared. She grasped at her cigarette case, asked: "Have one?"

MENTALLY she commanded her hands not to tremble while she lit their cigarettes. But the flame from the match wavered and betrayed her. She set her teeth. She knew she must look wan in spite of her rouge and recalled the time Hans Vandervoort had wanted to paint her portrait. "Your face reflects your every emotion," he had declared.

How right he was, she thought, inhaling slowly. Dorry probably was reading her agitation at this very moment. She said, through dry lips, "Chuck dropped in the other night. Phil was staying in town on business and I had him all to myself."

"How was he?"

Dorry sounded so casual. Funny, to be indifferent to the man you had once loved. The man you had married and divorced.

"He's going to marry again, he says."

"Who is she?" Dorry's voice was flat.

"I don't suppose I ought to tell you," laughed Anne, busily choosing among the appetizers. "The truth is Chuck had a few too many highballs and grew very confidential. He's thinking of marrying little Sally Mills. They've been seen around together."

"Sally Mills! That child!"

"A good deal younger than Chuck, certainly. I played contract with her the other day at the club. Have you been playing lately?"

"Just now and then," said Dorry, then added carelessly, "Sally can't be more than eighteen."

"Maybe twenty," guessed Anne. "Why don't you take Chuck back?" She tried to catch Dorry's glance and failed. "You're still in love with him."

Dorry, crunching toast, scoffed, "That's a funny line."

"It's the truth. I think he was in love with you for a long time after the break. Don't you ever see him?"

"Not if I can help it. As long as he sends me my alimony, I'm content."

"Now, that's the sort of remark that makes people say you're cold blooded." Anne sounded indulgent, as if she were talking to an unruly child.

"Chuck's such a prince, Dorry. Haven't you ever regretted the divorce?"

Dorry snuffed out her cigarette. "Now, see here, Anne. I'm not going to let you make a speech on the delights of true marriage. When Chuck asked me to free him, I was heart broken. But I let him go. I wouldn't fight over a man."

Certainly not, Anne thought, when you were already a little interested in someone else and bored with your husband. "Didn't you think he was worth a fight?" she asked aloud.

Dorothy wiped her lips delicately upon her napkin. "That's not the question. I had my self-respect to consider." She turned the full glory of her smile toward Anne.

How lovely she was! Beside her Anne felt old and tired. She watched Jacques remove glass covers from the mushrooms, conscious of a third, an unwelcome guest at the table. Failure, another Banquo at the feast.

"I wouldn't stop to consider self-respect, I guess." She tried to switch the conversation. "I wish I knew where to get such mushrooms."

"Aren't they enormous?" said Dorry, and returned to the argument. "No, Anne, I couldn't haul and pull at a man."

OH, couldn't you? thought Anne, and had to bite her lip to keep from crying it aloud. Dorry had hauled and pulled at Chuck in the first place. He had been engaged elsewhere when she had met him. Now she was hauling at Phil.

"A woman does have to set out deliberately to win a man in the first place," she argued. "Why not fight to keep him after you're married?"

"That's entirely different."

So it was, Anne mused. You simply couldn't expect Dorry to live by ordinary rules. Anne spooned chicken and mushrooms onto her plate and moved them about listlessly.

Dorry said heatedly, "Chuck and I agreed when we married that whoever tired first should say so. And the other would get a divorce. Well, Chuck thought he was in love with that Daly girl. I hope I acted like a good sport."

"I don't call it that. I call it being weak-kneed. The arrangement was silly in the first place. Men and women should marry for a lifetime, without any reservations."

"What would you have done?"

The question caught Anne unprepared. What would she have done? What was she doing? Bandying phrases, empty words, with the woman who threatened her happiness. She said quietly, "I'd have fought."

She watched the mask on Dorry's face slip for one unguarded instant, and watched her smile a secret sort of smile as if she thought, "But you don't know."

For one wild breath of time, Anne was sure she was going to strike Dorry's face. She sprang, trembling, to her feet, and saw the startled expression in Dorry's eyes. "I've—I—" she stammered and caught at self-control. "I must call the house. Jackie's ill, you know, and I want to talk to the nurse. Excuse me?"

She almost ran from the restaurant. Her temper was roaring like an angry beast and she wanted more than anything else at that moment to show Dorry the letter in her purse. The letter she had chanced to find in the family desk that morning, and that her horrified eyes had read in one glance. That letter would prove to this complacent schemer that Phil's wife did know. And that Phil's wife was fighting.

Her fingers shook so that she could hardly get the coin into the box. The stuffy telephone booth seemed to press in on her while she waited for her number. Why put off showing Dorry the letter? She had arranged the luncheon for this one purpose. But something cautioned her to wait. The buzzing of the busy signal seemed to say, Wait . . . wait . . . wait. . . She hung up the receiver and walked slowly back to the table.

"All right?" smiled Dorry.

"Busy." Anne was mistress of herself again. Humorously she told the story of the dead rabbit and Jackie's funeral services for his pet, making Dorry laugh.

DORRY'S face grew serious. The opening came. "Anne, I've been thinking about the things you said. Could you forgive and forget? Is that what you'd do in my place?"

Anne buttered a roll with concentration. "Forgive infidelity?" she asked lightly. "I think I would. I'd forgive Phil any big sin. It's the little ones that wear you down." She grinned at her own fancies as she went on, "Now if Phil ate with his napkin tucked under his chin or didn't keep his neck clean—" That was lying. She couldn't ever forgive Phil for infidelity, and she knew it.

"Of course, your child would make a difference. You'd never break up Jackie's home, would you, without a fight?"

Was Dorry trying to sound her out? "Let me tell you something." Anne tapped a long forefinger on the damask to emphasize her words. "Certainly Jackie is an enormous part of my life, but not so great as Phil. My husband is the greatest interest I have."

"Why, Anne!"

"It's true. There are two types of women, my dear, and I'm the other type. Dearly as I love my child, I love Phil more.

"You see, Dorry, I've spent eight years trying to be a perfect wife. I've dressed for Phil's eyes, talked for his ears alone. I gave up my painting because Phil hated the idea of a career for women."

"I wondered about that. Everyone said you showed such promise."

"If a wife's intelligent," Anne went on, "she sees to it that she and her husband build up something between them that nothing can destroy. A bond a man never quite forgets. Chuck didn't marry this first girl—what was her name? Daly."

"No-o—"

Anne chuckled. "I sound like a lecturer at a Woman's Club. But I've seen so much of this among my friends that I made up my mind it would never happen to me." She was looking straight at Dorry.

Dorothy inspected her salad and said casually, "But there is such a thing as a great love. What would you do if Phil came to you and said he was mad about someone else?" She hesitated—"as Chuck came to me?"

"Laugh to myself and take him seriously to his face. Give him a chance to get over it as I'm giving Jackie a chance to recover from the flu. Or I'd go out and buy a red hat like that one over there. Phil adores red hats."

"Do be serious, Anne."

Anne said truthfully, "I never was more serious in my life. Phil wouldn't mean it, really. Any more than Chuck did. I know that. You should have known it, too."

"What do you mean?" Stark terror looked from Dorry's face.

Anne chuckled to herself. That one caught her off balance, did it?

"I mean," her voice was deep and low, "that every day I'd be with him. He'd see me in every move the other girl made. I tell you, Phil would never find a moment's happiness if he deserted me for any other woman. I've built my life to that one purpose."

"And you think you've succeeded?"

"I KNOW I have." Her boast spoken with confidence made Anne wonder how she could sit here and lie so deliberately to Dorry. She continued, "He'd never kiss that woman that he wouldn't recall the times he'd kissed me. He'd never see a little boy that he wouldn't think of Jackie and our plans for him. He'd never lower the lights in any other house, or look into a fire on the hearth that he wouldn't be crucified by the memories of other dusks and his own fireside, with me there."

"How can you be so sure?" Dorry was sitting very still, making no move to taste her melting ice.

Anne laughed aloud. Don't get too serious, she warned herself. "Because I've made every day of our lives together dramatic. I've made special occasions out of small things we've done. We coined code words that only Phil and I understand."

In her mind a voice shouted "Vigil!" so loudly that she wondered if Dorry too could have heard. The code word that Anne loved best of all their words. Phil and she said it on the first star to sweep away their disagreements.

"You know, Dorry, there's a certain glamour about a man's first home. His first wife, no matter how unsatisfactory, is always the fulfillment of a dream."

"As I was Chuck's I suppose," sneered Dorry. Her mouth was hard. Phil would hate that line. . .

"You didn't work at your job, Dorry. You forgot that husbands need romance."

Dorothy powdered her nose, peering into her compact mirror. "Perhaps you're right. But I can't see myself begging for another chance. Do you think Phil appreciates your efforts?"

"Probably not," Anne said. The letter in her purse was proof enough. She raised her coffee cup to her lips and the bitter-sweet taste of the liquid was like the bitter-sweet taste of the statements she had made.

"Are you going to phone again?" asked Dorry.

Anne was terribly tired as she walked to the booth. The beat of her heart kept repeating "Failure—failure. . ." The nurse's voice. Jackie was fine. Mr. Calder had phoned.

"If he calls again," Anne said, feeling her body take on new life, "Tell him to meet me in the Plaza lounge before he goes to his train. If he has time."

She dropped another coin and called his office. Left the same message with his secretary.

Back at the table she told herself that she could not fling this letter in Dorry's face.

In the lobby, she decided she wouldn't go to the check room with Dorry. She stopped short and her mouth seemed curiously rigid when she said, "Nice to have seen you. Don't thank me. I wanted to have you."

"I'll call you when I come back." Dorry turned toward the door, then hesitated. "It's too bad," she said slowly, "to see Chuck taken in by a little gold digger like Sally Mills. She's hardly out of school, really. A word of warning from you, Anne—"

"Warn Chuck yourself," interrupted Anne.

HER legs were numb as she dragged herself into the lounge to wait for Phil. She sank on a couch. If he came she'd tell him he was free.

Closing her eyes, she saw that without Phil she would simply drag herself through life. How meaningless existence would be without him! To wake up morning after morning and find his place beside her empty. To find the first evening star and not say, "Look, Phil. Vigil!"

Now her instinct told her he was here in the lounge even before she looked up and met his troubled gray eyes.

"Here you are!" He slumped down on the couch beside her, slid his arm along the back. In that first glance, Anne saw that his usually ruddy face was white.

"What's the matter?" she asked, for the moment the letter forgotten. "You're so pale, Phil."

But he ignored her question and snapped and unsnapped his cigarette case. "Look, Anne, why don't you and Jackie go away for a little trip? He's been pretty sick and a change would do you both good."

So he wanted to salve his conscience by sending them away!

"I don't think I want to," said Anne. The stupid catch on her purse had stuck. She fumbled with it frantically.

A BELL boy interrupted them while Phil was stammering something. "Mrs. Calder?" asked the boy and handed her a folded note.

Anne read it incredulously. "I was going to call you at your house but saw you still sitting in the lounge. I phoned Chuck. I won't have him marry that Mills girl. I want him for myself. Come to the wedding?" And Dorry's scrawled signature.

"One of the girls I play bridge with," Anne answered Phil's questioning look. Through the roaring in her ears she heard him say, "The nurse said he was dying."

"Who," asked Anne, wondering how Phil would take the news that Dorry was marrying Chuck again. "Who was dying?"

"Jackie." When Anne sprang to her feet, he soothed, "No, no. I called and asked for you and how Jackie was. I thought the nurse said he was dying and I almost went crazy. I tried to get in touch with this client to tell her I couldn't take care of the business in Chicago and I couldn't locate her. My God—all the time I thought our Jackie was dying, alone. When I called the nurse again she said I had misunderstood. That he was fine not dying and I cried. Honestly, I bawled right in front of the whole office."

Anne smiled sympathetically. It was Dorry, of course, that he had been trying to reach. Even though he had canceled this trip to Chicago—how about the next? She had the letter ready now, half thrust it toward him.

"And I got to thinking that we haven't had much fun lately, together. I've six weeks before the directors' meeting. Couldn't we go away somewhere?"

Anne caught her breath. He did love her, then. She hid the letter in her skirt. It might have taken the thought of Jackie's dying to make Phil realize, but he did love her.

"I've something to tell you," said Phil. He twisted his hat around and around between his hands, staring at it. "I've been the biggest fool—I almost—"

Anne interrupted wildly, "So have I. So has everybody sometime. Don't tell me—" She didn't want his confession. That would stand between them all the rest of their lives. The fact that he was willing to tell was enough.

Phil grinned widely at her and asked, "What about that trip? What do you say?"

"I say 'vigil,'" cried Anne.

"Silly," laughed Phil, "There aren't any stars in the Plaza lounge."

"Oh, yes, there are," declared Anne. And in her dark eyes, there were.

He Made This 25c Test

Old John says, "I had to get up 5 or 6 times every night. This bladder irregularity was accompanied with scanty flow, burning and backache. I flushed out excess acids with little green tablets containing buchu leaves, juniper oil, etc., called BUKETS. They work on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. After four days if not pleased any druggist will refund your 25c. I sleep good now." Eckerd's Prescription Dgrs.

Portray Roles In High Play

Sally H. Norris

George Crawford Lyon

George Crawford Lyon and Sally H. Norris, are cast for Mr. Parcher and May Parcher in the Senior high school's coming production of "Seventeen." They are father and daughter in the family upon whom the sophisticated "baby-talk lady" and her dog Flopit descends to set the whole neighborhood and particularly its young male element in a commotion. As representatives of two generations, the reactions of Mr. Parcher and his daughter May are quite different. Young Lyon must interpret the cynicism of middle age, which quite penetrates the selfish insincerity of the allurements of his daughter's guest. Miss Norris presents ingenuous youth's admiration for the worldly wise, her May Parcher being too wholesomely genuine to detect the falseness of a "baby-talk lady" whose wiles are as ancient as the human race.

Sally is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Norris, of Euclid avenue. She is one of the high honor students of the school and one of the outstanding members of her class. She is a member of the Senatus Romanus, honorary club of the Latin department, serving as its quaestor last year. Among her extra-curricular interests are both music and dramatics.

Crawford Lyon is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Lyon, also of Euclid avenue. He has been prominent in scouting and is one of the well-known and popular young men in the January graduating class.

GIRL SCOUTS

TROOP NO. 16

Troop No. 16 held a spaghetti dinner Saturday, all the cooking being done outdoors. The scouts assembled at noon and built a fire in an artistic fireplace, located behind the troop house at Walnut Glen.

The Girl Scouts were divided into groups of firebuilders, cooks and woodgathers, each performing thoroughly the duties required.

While the cooks were busy attending to the dinner, the girls interested in nature went strolling through the woods on a nature quest.

On their return, the dinner was served in the troop house with Captain Guy acting as hostess. A delicious menu consisting of spaghetti, meat balls, choclate milk, bread, butter, cookies and fruits was relished by all.

Some of the scouts took advantage of the fire building and passed the tests required.

Mr. Billotte, scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop No. 4, was a special guest.

Scribe, Helen Stritzinger.

TROOP NO. 10

Another meeting of Troop 10 took place in St. Paul's Lutheran church Monday evening. The girls went to their patrol corners at the beginning of the meeting and discussed business matters. Interest groups were started and the girls divided into "needlewomen" and "tenderfoot" classes.

No matter how short the time, Will Rogers left an impression. He always said something to remember.

These friends of his will desire to remember him. It was for this reason that the Will Rogers Memorial Commission was organized and an opportunity given to everyone who desired to give to this fund.

This opportunity is presented to the citizens of the New Castle community through Mr. Rentz. If you wish, you may fill out the attached coupon and bring or send it to him at The News.

NEW CASTLE PLANNING FOR FINE WELCOME

Martins Ferry Will Play Here First Time

New Castle High Hopes To Make Good Impression On Visitors

Local Game Saturday Will Be Biggest Of Year, Is Indication

THEY SAY that first impressions are lasting impressions. Martins Ferry high football team and fans will come to New Castle for the first time in the history of both schools Saturday afternoon. The grid game at Taggart Stadium promises to be one of the biggest of the year. The kickoff at 2:30 o'clock, should find the stands packed to capacity strength.

In both towns the fans are warming up to the football engagement. It looks like another Notre Dame-Ohio State setting for New Castle. This is the most discussed local grid game of the year.

Fans Excited

New Castle fans have read for many years about the championship team at Martins Ferry. The chance to see one of these powerful Purple Rider teams in action comes this week. Tickets for the game are selling rapidly.

From all indications Martins Ferry will bring about 2,000 fans to the game here. A special train is being run. Hundreds will no doubt drive if the weather is nice. There will be a general exodus from Martins Ferry starting early Saturday morning. The mecca will be New Castle.

"New Castle Day"

It's to be known as "New Castle Day" here Saturday. Quite an elaborate program is being arranged by a prominent group of New Castle men. The mayors of the two towns will be asked to speak over the public address system. There will be fireworks.

It behooves every man, woman and child in New Castle to try and make the visit of the Martins Ferry high team and fans here Saturday one of the most enjoyable of their football career. Let's show the Ohio folks real courtesy.

Bands Will Play

The famous Martins Ferry high band of 75 pieces will be here for the game. The New Castle high band will meet them at the station and escort them to the field. The parade will have a police motorcycle escort. The Martins Ferry high fans and students on the special train will fall in back of the bands and form a gigantic parade through the New Castle downtown streets to the stadium.

The New Castle merchants are going to be asked to decorate their stores with purple and white colors of the Martins Ferry school. It will be a riot of color from the P. R. R. station to the stadium.

Coaches Hear Fine Speeches At "Y" Monday

Coach Bill Amos Of Grove City, And Cal Bolster Deliver Talks

THIRTY ATTEND DINNER-MEETING

Lawrence County Coaches association, 30 strong, gathered around the festive boards at the Y. M. C. A. last night for the first dinner-meeting of the newly organized association. The event proved a most enjoyable one. Coach William "Bill" Amos of Grove City college, Cal Bolster, prominent football and basketball official of Pittsburgh and Paul Kurtz, Pittsburgh sports writer were the speakers.

Gardner Toastmaster

Following the dinner the men were called to order by Jay Rudolph chairman of the program committee, who after a few brief words, introduced President Phil Bridenbaugh, and he in turn gave the toastmaster job to Ralph H. Gardner, New Castle high faculty manager. Mr. Gardner made a very fine talk and congratulated the coaches upon their organization.

Paul Kurtz was the first speaker and he responded with a fine talk, telling the coaches the power of the press and pleading for cooperation in getting the sport news to the readers of the papers. He gave a talk along the lines of how newspapers can help athletics.

Bolster Talks

Cal Bolster, veteran football and basketball official of Pittsburgh, was the next speaker and gave the coaches a fine talk on officiating, from the officials side of the game.. He told of many incidents in games which he has worked chiefly the Detroit-Villanova and of incidents in the game which he worked at the Rose Bowl in California a few years ago between Southern California and Pitt.

Bolster pleaded with the coaches to have their players learn the rules of the game. This will benefit the players and officials alike. Bolster also impressed upon the coaches to have confidence in their men. He ended by asking the coaches to set an exanmple for the boys by showing sportsmanship themselves.

Coach Amos Speaks

The final speaker was Coach William "Bill" Amos of Grove City college, former All-American candidate at W. & J. Amos gave the coaches a very fine talk on coaching, how to develop men, and ended with a chalk-board talk on various plays and shifts. Amos had pletny to say regarding the young men out for football and how to bring them along. Amos is a very fluent speaker and one could not help but admire him as he unfolded many sad incidents that crop up in football.. "A college coach does not have a soft job" was the way Amos put it. Amos answered many questions asked by the coaches regarding plays and systems.

Charles "Bugs" Walther, News sports writer was called upon for a few words, by Toastmaster Gardner. The meeting was then turned over to President Phil Bridenbaugh, with a short business meeting being held.

Lawther Next

The success of the dinner-meeting last night falls into the laps of Jay Rudolph, chairman of the program committee, George Phelps and Danny Schill.

The next meeting will be held on Monday night December 2 at the "Y" at which time Coach John Lawther of Westminster will bring the coaches another interesting basketball talk.

ALL-STARS TO MEET

Coach E. Dean asks that all of the members of the New Castle All-Stars meet every day this week at the Ryantown Field at 3:30 o'clock. A special meeting of the All-Stars will be held at the home of Vitto Mangine at 7:30 o'clock Friday night.

Thirty German and 30 English school boys camped together for three weeks this year near Byranston, England.

JACK CLARK-CENTER

It would seem that "Dynamite" Malley, Paul Small and Louie Leonard the center of the New Castle front wall is in for a big afternoon. Malley is expected to take the center spot vacated by Albert "Blackie" Adamo.

Expect 70,000 To See Pitt-Army Battle

(Special To The News)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 5.—All the color of the military at its best will be Pittsburgh's this coming weekend when Pitt and the Army clash at the Pitt Stadium before a crowd expected to be in excess of 70,000 with 1600 of its number being made up of the entire Corps of Cadets of the United States Military Academy.

When the Pitt and Army meet before Pittsburgh's colorful crowd it will be the third meeting between the two institutions. Pitt has won both former tilts, the first by a sensational aerial barrage on the Army's first appearance in Pittsburgh in 1931, and the second a spectacular battle on the Plains of West Point the following year.

For many the game itself will be the thing that day, but for as many more, the main attraction will be the glamor always attending any appearance of the Army team, and more so the appearance of the Cadets.

Governor George Earle of Pennsylvania will head the delegation of high government officials, and the boxes surrounding the field will be filled to capacity with Pittsburgh society.

There will be dinners, dances, and teas the night before and immediately preceeding the game for the visiting officials, and the day will be climaxed by a gigantic Military Ball at the William Penn Hotel, the proceeds of which are to go to the disabled war veterans.

The advance sale for the game has been heavy. Already over 50,000 seats have been sold.

Army comes here boasting victories over Yale and Harvard. In one major test Pitt bowed to Notre Dame in the final minutes by a 9-6 score.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Once regarded as one of the shrewdest and best lightweights in the country, Tony Herrera, the Mexican jumping bean appears ready for the cleaners, having been defeated by Mickie Duris of Johnstown, in a six round poor bout at Pittsburgh last night. Duris tried to make a good fight but Tony fought defensively. Down for a count of eight in the fourth and had to be led to his corner at the end of the stanza. Duris weighed 140½ and Herrere 141½. Herrera got his start here and Duris also has fought here.

An investigation is under way at the University of California at Los Angeles and Ted Key, football backfield star has consented to accompany the athletic faculty representatives to Texas to iron out accusations that the fullback entered school at Los Angeles on his brother's high school credentials. The tangled situation has cast doubts on the eligibility of Key to play in further games this year.

Miss Helene Mayer, German-Jewish fencing star, has demanded full citizenship rights as a condition for her participation in the 1935 Olympic games at Berlin, according to reports from Oakland, Calif. German Olympic officials were quoted as saying Miss Mayer, a language instructor at college, has agreed to participate without any conditions. If she does not obtain the rights she will not participate in the games, according to a college official whose name has not been divulged.

Mickey Walker has been suspended by the Montreal boxing commission for his failure to fight Al McCoy there Wednesday night. He notified the commission Saturday that he would be unable to fight owing to the death of his father.

William Harridge, president of the American league, has named Cal Hubbard, veteran football player for the Green Bay Packers and a former Geneva college gridder as an American loop umpire. He has umpired in the Piedmont, Western and International leagues. Fred Marberry has resigned as an umpire.

Geneva-Waynesburg Will Play Monday

College Teams Arrange Game For Beaver Falls On Armistice Day

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 5.—Waynesburg's Wolfpack occupies the next spot on the Geneva college Golden Tornado's schedule. The Yellow Jackets will perform against the Genevan's before an Armistice Day crowd next Monday. The game, shifted from Friday, Nov. 8 to the holiday, will be sponsored by the Beaver County Chapter, Order of the Purple Heart and the American Red Cross.

While the Wolfpack fell before the West Virginia Wesleyan Bobcats, conquered by the Covenanters, the game is considered one of the potential stumbling blocks on the Geneva card. The Yellow Jackets, coached by Frank Wolf, has always provided trouble for the Tornado. In 1932 the Jackets downed the Covenanters by a 6-3 score but in 1933 the gold-clad Genevans won 14-7. Last year, Beede's squadron was downed by a 19-0 score.

The Jackets are led by Arnold Koepke, 180 sophomore quarterback who already has a year of varsity experience. He prepped at Trafford high and weighs 180 pounds.

Shenango-Union To Play Friday

County Schoolboys Ready For First Class Tilt At Union Field

The Shenango-Union High football game at the Union High field Friday afternoon, will produce the best game of the year, is the belief of the coaches. Coaches Boyd and Phelps of the two respective teams are eagerly awaiting this encounter. The kickoff will occur at 2:15 o'clock.

Both teams have rested for a whole week. The squads of both schools are in fine shape. These two schools have been keen rivals in football for many years. This is the final game for the Shenango High team after a successful season losing only to Bessemer and Evans City.

Union Can Tie

Union High can tie with Bessemer for the County Class A championship by defeating Shenango High. Union and Bessemer having played a tie game 0-0 recently.

Coaches Boyd and Rudolph of Union High are giving the boys plenty of long hours of drill this week. Union wants to take the victory very badly. Union in the past few games has lookekd very good. The backfield is clicking and the line is charging low and fast.

In event of fine weather Friday afternoon the Union High field will see one of the biggest crowds of the year. There is a lot of interest in these Shenango-Union games.

Shenango Battles Union High Friday

County Class B Rivals Will Clash In Important Game At Union Field

Two Class B grid rivals, Shenango High and Union High, started drilling for their important meeting, on Monday afternoon.

Union High field will dominate the grid spotlight next Friday afternoon when the two ancient rivals lineup for their annual tussle. Coach Dave Boyd wants to win over the East New Castle representatives in the worse way. A victory for Union will give the Scotland Laners a "cut in" on the Class B laurels for 1935. Having tied Bessemer several weeks ago, the Unionites need a triumph over the Blue and Gold machine to deadlock the Bessemerites. Bessemer recently defeated Shenango.

Victory for Shenango will bring to a climax a successful gridiron campaign. Coach Phelps, who is about to complete his first season at Shenango, is confident his warriors will upset the Blue and White machine. Shenango ends its season Friday.

COLLEGE GRID NOTES IN BRIEF

(International News Service)

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Nov. 5.—Three Notre Dame regulars will be out of the lineup when the Irish meet Northwestern here Saturday before a throng which is expected to total 55,000. The three are Andy Pilney who led Notre Dame's last-half victory drive against Ohio State last week, Fred Carideo, slashing fullback, and Dick Pfefferle, star left tackle. All suffered leg injuries in the battle with the Buckeyes.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 5.—Discouraged after their unexpected Fordham deadlock, the Pitt Panthers resumed work on the practice field today determined to salave their grid laurels by meeting the Cadets from Army Saturday on equal, if not superior, teams. Coach Jock Sutherland sent his boys back to the fundementals today to prepare for the West Pointers who also met with disaster last Saturday.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 5.—Abandoning their "cock-o'-the walk" strutting on Pittsburgh's streets after whipping their highly touted city rivals, Carnegie Tech, the lads of Duquesne University began drilling in earnest for their tilt with the Oklahoma cowpunchers. The Bluffites will entrain for Stillwater, Okla., tomorrow.

Pittsburgh, Nov. 5.—Gloom hovered over the Carnegie Tech practice field today as the Tartans tried to forget their humiliating trouncing at the hands of Duquesne University and prepared for another tough assignment Saturday, a joust with the Holy Cross eleven at Worcester, Mass.

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 5.—With no illusions of an undefeated season to bother them after the Mississippi State upset last week, Army's gridiron squad prepared today to toss the works again Pitt Saturday. The Cadets came through the Mississippi game without an injury. In a workout yesterday, Clint True ran the fullback post instead of Goldenberg.

Sport Brevities Along Broadway

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Nobody in South Bend today can be as happy over that last minute Notre Dame victory as are those noble fraternity brothers—The Broadway ticket scalpers union, uninc—who on the strength of it have boosted their prices from $15 to $25 a copy for seats to the Army-Notre Dame game here Nov. 16.

And those seats are no better than the 10-yard line. With 200,000 clambering to get in where only 80,000 can be put, the Broadway burglars are figuring on a rich racoon harvest.

Ned Irish, boss basketeer, tells me he has booked ten nights of basketball for the garden this winter, and expects to play to at least 125,000.. With California, Notre Dame, North Carolina, Purdue, Duquesne, Temple and Kentucky among others showing their wares...If their cagee men are as good as their football teams those colleges should do all right...

Les Patrick, Ranger coach, is going in strong for the chain idea in hockey..This year he will have under his wing the New York Rovers (Juveniles); the Philadelphia Ramblers (Juniors), and the Rangers (Seniors).

The National Hockey League opens Thursday..With no rule changes made or contemplated.. Every one of the eight teams has new faces..But none of them enough to worry Toronto's Maple Leafs..On whom you can write your own ticket right now..

Black Squirrels Are Being Shot

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Nov. 5—Hunters include among the game shot this year, for the first in many decades, black squirrel. While they are not reported in quantity, enough have been shot to make their appearance during the game season one of comment.

Their presence is accounted for in a recent article written by a game authority as the result of migration from New York state.

For several seasons they have been shot in northern Pennsylvania counties, but big woods hunters state they were never seen in the numbers found this year. The fact revamps among old timers of squirrel migrations of pioneer days. They are stated to have traveled in large hordes fording streams by swimming. In this connection a herd of 30 squirrels are reported seen swimming the Allegheny prefacing the hunting season opening of this year.

Valuable Gems Auctioned Off

Jewels Valued At Close To Million Bring Only $157,-787 At Auction

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 5—An estimated $1,000,000 in jewels of the late Mrs. Sydney Emlen Hutchinson, the former Edith Stoesbury, and daughter of E. T. Stotesbury, Philadelphia financier, today were in the hands of friends and dealers auctioned off for the comparatively paltry sum of $157,787.

Said to be the highest price ever obtained for a single piece at auction in this country, a diamond and emerald corsage ornament went for $86,000 to John Schumacher, New York manufacturing jeweler. Forty nine items went under the hammer, Schumacher, reportedly an agent for other parties, also obtaining a diamond necklace for $25,000 and an oriental necklace of 56 pearls for $19,500.

School Students Protest Election Of School Board

(International News Service)

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 5—Election day brought the strike of Dunbar Township high school students to a climax today as small groups of the pupils paraded about voting precincts urging voters to ballot against two school directors, seeking re-election, who opposed a plan to build an addition to the school.

Protesting the school board's action in rejecting the proposed addition, a third of the enrollment of the school refused to enter classes yesterday. The enrollment totals nearly 750 students, and absentees today aggregated 150.

Despite the walkout of the group, classes at the school were not interrupted.

Democratic Head In Michigan Is Tottering Today

(International News Service)

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Nov. 5—Convicted of bribery and faced with a possible five year prison sentence and a $3,000 fine, Elmer B. O'Hara, chairman of Michigan's Democratic party, today was confronted with an almost overwhelming, three-cornered fight to save his crumbling political empire.

He must fight his conviction by an appeal; prepare for a second criminal trial which opens at Detroit Monday; and prepare to fight ouster proceedings. Both, as head of the Democratic forces and as Wayne county clerk.

O'Hara, who came from Rochester, N. Y., with a political flare for organization that earned him a meteoric career in Michigan politics, was Wayne County clerk as well as nominal head of the Democratic ranks.

DEMOCRATIC GLOOM SEEN AT HYDE PARK

formances, that G. O. P. victories should be accepted as a matter of course rather than as a slap at the Roosevelt administration.

Here in New York, it was asserted the odds should be 24 to 1 that the Republicans regain their formal control of the lower house at Albany. These odds were arrived at on the premise that the Democrats have been able to do the job only once in 24 years. They won in 1912, the year Al Smith was elected speaker, and they never got a look in again until last year.

According to all reports reaching temporary headquarters here Lieutenant Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler has been making a valiant campaign against Judge King Swope, the Republican, for Kentucky's governorship.

Shake Heads Dolefully

The Roosevelt intimates shake their heads dolefully, however, over the outcome. They point out that Gov. Ruby Laffoon, the outgoing bluegrass executive has jumped the party and is urging Chandler's defeat. What seems to worry the president's friends most is that Laffoon, who obligingly made a large cross-section of the national population Kentucky colonels during the last four years, controls the highway department.

As for Philadelphia, those close to the Hyde Park mansion simply say it isn't in the cards for a Democrat to carry that rock-ribbed Republican city.

John B. Kelly, known internationally as an oarsman, is expected to pick up a sizeable vote for the Quaker City mayoralty but the analysts who have gone over the situation with the president claim they can't see him as a winner. Senator Guffey and Governor Earle upset all modern precedent by turning Pennsylvania Democratic in 1934—but they didn't carry Philadelphia. Furthermore, it was observed that the Philadelphia vote in 1932 alone kept the Keystone state out of Mr. Roosevelt's column.

President And Family Vote At Hyde Park

(International News Service)

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 5.—Seven votes, presumably all the straight Democratic, were clicked off on the voting machines at Hyde Park town hall this morning as the Roosevelt family's contribution to party cause.

It was shortly before 11 o'clock when the White House automobiles pulled up in front of the frame building and discharged President and Mrs. Roosevelt; Mrs. Sarah D. Roosevelt, the president's mother; Mrs. J. R. Roosevelt, widow of the president's half-brother; Miss Marguerite Le Hand, the president's personal secretary, Mrs. Malvina Scheider, Mrs. Roosevelt's personal secretary, and Miss Nancy Cook, who is associated with the first lady in the Valkill Furniture enterprise.

As the presidential party walked into the assembly hall, Kleig lights snapped on and five movie cameras began whirring.

MacDonald Is Likely To Lose

Threatened With Political Doomsday In November 14 General Election

CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN DIFFICULT

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON Nov. 5.—Ramsay MacDonald, twice prime minister of England, is threatened with a political doomsday on November 14, date of the parliamentary general elections, it became apparent today.

MacDonald, who relinquished party ties to head a coalition government which successfully went before the people on the necessity of cutting the dole and balancing the budget, has been experiencing the greatest difficulty in campaigning in his old district, a coal-mining section of Scotland.

Had he chosen, he could have been assigned to a "safe" district (safe for the Conservatives), but he preferred to justify himself to his old constituents.

Last night his popular son, Malcolm MacDonald, secretary for the colonies, was shouted down by an audience of coal miners.

MacDonald, himself, has been constantly heckled.

Stanley Baldwin, however, is already elected. Registration of candidates closed with no opponent entering against him in the Worcestershire district he has represented since 1908.

Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, was the only member of the cabinet likewise assured of election.

MacDonald's old associate in the beginning of the Labor party, J. H. Thomas, dominions secretary, is also in grave danger of defeat.

Political forecasters agree on a Conservative victory. The one change which will be effected by the election, it is commonly predicted, will be restoration of a two-party situation. Instead of a "national" government, a Conservative party government will rule.

She will be removed to the Warren hospital by Sheriff Frank B. Fair, soon.

Government May Pay Bounty For Number Of Hogs

Ready To Do An About Face In Regard To Production Of Hogs

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. — The AAA, which has been paying farmers for not raising hogs, corn, cotton, tobacco, peanuts, rice, wheat, barley, sugar cane and sugar beets, etc., and several other products, is contemplating an about face for hog raisers.

Plans are under consideration to pay a bounty for pigs raised next year.

Discuss Program

This was revealed as some 35 farm and agricultural experts from throughout the country went into the second day's session today with AAA officials to work out details for a two-year corn-hog program announced by secretary of agriculture Wallace. The conference will continue through the week.

High prices for meats, particularly pork, as a result of the hog shortage following the reduction program and the record drought of last year, resulting in a storm of protests from consumers, preceded the discussion of the bounty plan.

AAA officials announced that they will propose restoration of hog production to the 100 per cent basis, with the 1932-33 average preceding 1929 as the base.

Permit Increase

This would permit hog raisers to increase their production 10 per cent over last year.

The proposed bounty would allow farmers $1.50 per head for all pig raised up to 100 per cent of their base production. Thus, AAA officials explained, a farmer whose base production was 100 pigs would received a bounty of $150 if he raised 100 pigs next year.

Under the benefit payment plan, the farmer received $15 a head for pigs he did not raise. Thus a farmer whose base production was 100 hogs received $150 if he raised only 90 hogs last year.

Consider Penalties

The AAA— farm representative conferees are considering penalties for farmers who exceed their maximum quota, or who fail to raise the minimum allowed them.

A 20 per cent reduction from base acreage on corn production is under consideration, AAA officials said, to prevent an over supply of feed for 1936-1937, thus encouraging a "runaway" hog production yield for 1937.

The impatient man feels that he is a man of action when he is in a hurry, and he does not pause to count the consequences to others.

Explain Quake Noticed In East

Scientist Says It Was Result Of Earth Settling Back From Glacial Age

MILD SHOCKS OCCUR OFTEN

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S Street.
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5— The eastern seaboards's recent earthquake attracted attention out of proportion to its consequences, says Captain N. H. Heck, chief of the coast and geodetic survey's division of terrestial magnetism and seismology, because it agitated an area where plenty of folk live.

"As a matter of fact," continued the captain, "some such mild shock occurs somewhere every few days.

"Usually, however, it is in a more sparsely settled region or maybe at sea. Besides, these jars are not pronounced enough to be felt much if at all unless there are instruments in their vicinity to record them, thus they pass unnoticed.

Shocks Every Few Years

"Our eastern seaboard from Canada to Charleston is gently shaken on an average of about once in five or ten years.

"The east's latest experience was entirely a distinct affair from the Montana quake.

"In Montana, as on the Pacific coast and in Japan, the process of mountain building still is going on and their perturbations are easily explainable as the slipping of faults —although we do not know to a certainty that such really is the explanation.

"Japanese quakes, by the way, are not so much more violent than those in the remainder of the world as generally is believed. But they do more damage because the country is thickly populated, construction is frail, buildings collapse, the debris is combustible, catches fire and great numbers of persons suffer.

No Mountain Building in East

"We must account for our eatsern quakes on other grounds than mountain building. Our eastern ranges are old and finished. They are wearing down, not being pushed up.

"One theory is that during the last ice age the vast weight of the glacier's extending far to the southward pressed down the earth's crust and now it slowly is returning to its normal level, as a rubber ball expands after it has been pressed in and the pressure is removed.

"It is true that we have mild shocks in areas where the ice never reached. That weakens our theory somewhat. Still we do know that there are places where the earth is bulging up under some other influence than mountain building. It is occurring in Scandinavia, for example. There are bench marks to prove it. And Scandinavia notably was an ice-capped region.

"And there are mountain countries," added the captain, "that do not realize they are mountainous."

Mountains Underneath Prairies

"For example, Iowa and South Dakota which consider themselves prairie states, have mountains buried underneath their surfaces. Soil has filled up their valleys and accumulated over their peaks until they look flat or merely gently rolling, but the mountains are there. In the Black Hills we have an isolated out-cropping of these hidden ranges.'

There are seismologists who surmise that subterranean electrical disturbances have something to do with quakes—with some of them anyway.

Captain Heck has no faith in these guesses.

"The fact is" he concluded, "we do not know what causes them. We theorize but we cannot prove."

The popular belief is that regions of friable alluvial soil are less subject to quake damage than rocky areas.

At the Carnegie institution it is pointed out that this is not necessarily the case.

SUBMITS FIVE NEW PROPOSALS

(International News Service)

MOUNT VERNON, Ia., Nov. 5.—A subsitute farm program to replace the AAA, based chiefly upon use of customs receipts to assure farmers of an "American Price" for their goods, was proposed Monday by Senator L. J. Dickinson (R) of Iowa.

As a former leader of the congressional farm bloc and a potential Republican presidential candidate, Dickinson's farm program is expected to be thrust before the next Republican national convention.

Declaring that the Roosevelt AAA program will end in collapse, Dickinson told the Cornell college forum that a new program is vitally needed by the farmers, He proposed to:

1. Eliminate "present contradictions" in Roosevelt program, under which crop reduction is demanded, but hundreds of millions are appropriated for irrigation and drainage projects to bring new land into cultivation.

2. Retire sub-marginal land and correct the "under consumption" of food products throughout the United States.

3. Remove artifical controls and bureaucratic regulations, with a return to development of cooperatives

4. Broad program to restore export markets through a price-equalizing fee based on tariff duties laid on imports, and application of Ottawa trade agreement principles, a stable currency and fixed tariff policy.

5. Federal cooperation with states to revise tax methods and lessen burden on farm land and real property.

Services Every Night At Church On Ellwood Road

Davis Evangelistic Party Conducting Series At Harmony Baptist

The first Sunday of the evangelistic campaign under the leadership of the Davis evangelistic party, at the Harmony Baptist church, was evidenced by large crowds at both the afternoon and evening services. Both messages of the evangelist were powerful and convincing. Special musical selections consisting of duet numbers rendered by members of the local church choir; a girl's trio from New Bethlehem, Pa., and the singing of numerous choruses featured both services. In the evening the Glad Tidings Gospel quartet of Beaver Falls rendered a number of beautiful selections.

Evangelist Davis announces that his message for this evening will be from the subject: "The Work of the Holy Spirit in this Day and Age." On Wednesday evening: "The Gospel, What It Can Do."

On Friday evening there will be an unusual service. The couple will present another one of their Biblical dramas wherein the message of the Gospel is set forth by means of the spoken word interspersed with appropriate solos and duet numbers. This service will be unique inasmuch as it will be centered around the theme: "The Great Judgment Morning."

Services every night this week at 7:30.

BELIEVED SUICIDE NOTE WAS "PHONEY"

BEAVER, Pa., Nov. 5.—Highway patrolmen were skeptical today about a suicide note left in an abandoned automobile along the Beaver-Midland road, near United States Lock No. 6. The note was signed by Harry K. Smith of Spartan, Ill., and said:

"I stole this car from a Wisconsin CCC camp. I did not realize how serious a crime it was. I am taking the easiest way out and will end my life in the Ohio river. Notify my mother in Sparton."

The car bore Wisconsin license plates and the gasoline tank was empty.

Police report they found no tracks to the river and believe the car was abandoned and the note written as a ruse.

Names Lunacy Commission To Examine Woman

Mercer County Woman, Held For Slaying Seven Year Old Son To Be Examined

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Nov. 5.—Judge J A. McLaughry has appointed Doctors Paul T. Hope, jail physician and C. L. Howe, both of Mercer, as the lunacy commission to examine and report on the mental condition of Mrs. Ruth Armitage, 45.

The woman is held at the County Home hospital by Sheriff Frank D. Fair in whose custody she was placed October 27 following her suicidial attempt by hanging and the injuring of her 7-year-old son. Fredrick.

The boy died at 4:30 p. m., on this date from a fractured skull. He had been taken to the Greenville hospital after the mother is alleged to have hit him on top of the head with a hammer at 9:30 a. m., in the barn of the home at Transfer and also stabbed him with a paring knife.

That the woman is demented is the opinion of police officers and those who have come in contact with her.

BOND ISSUE PROPOSAL LOSES BY LARGE VOTE

BRAHAM NAMED JUDGE

Voters Of City Strongly Oppose Big Bond Issue

$1,500,000 Proposal Decisively Defeated At Polls On Tuesday

NEAR TOTAL VOTE; YES, 3679; NO 8940

Practically All Precincts Of City Record Vote Against Muny Plant

New Castle citizens settled all arguments Tuesday as to whether they wanted to bond themselves for $1,500,000 for a municipal electric distribution plant. In a tremendous landslide of votes the voters struck down the proposal by approximately two and one-half to one majority. In 33 precincts out of the city's 34 the vote shows: Yes, 3,679; No, 8,940.

The idea of a bond issue never was a popular one but through the efforts of a minority it came before council and was placed upon the ballot. While it was felt that the proposal would not carry, the opponents of the bond issue organized and conducted an extensive campaign of education against it.

In practically every precinct the vote against the bond issue was preponderantly against it, especially in those districts where the majority of the voters owned their homes. Apparently they felt that the bond issue would add to their taxes and they would have no part of it. The only precinct in which the bond issue carried was the first of the Fifth Ward. In several others there was a close count but in most of the precincts there was no doubt as to the feeling of the voters.

Leaders of the movement against the bond issue were pleased today when the result became known. It was a clear-cut expression of the will of the people.

Democratic Judge In Mercer County

George Rowley, Of Greenville, Defeats Thomas C. Cochran

(International News Service)

SHARON, Pa., Nov. 6.—An apparent Democratic victory in the race for county judge featured the voting in Mercer county's election balloting.

George Rowley, Democratic candidate, held a wide lead over Thomas Cochran in the battle and will be the first Democratic judge in the county in nearly half a century. Rowley carried both Sharon and Farrell, in addition to his own community, Greenville.

For the remaining positions in the county election, Republican victories seemed assured.

Republican Sweep In Butler County

(International News Service)

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 6.—Returns from more than half of Butler county today indicated a Republican sweep in the race for local and county offices.

Among the apparent G. O. P. winners were Lee McCandless, running for district attorney; Wayne R. Aber, incumbent, register and recorder; Dr. M. E. Headland, incumbent, coroner; Victor A. Campbell, clerk of courts, and Frank E. Clark, incumbent, prothonotary.

The race for county commissioner positions was keenly contested. The two Republicans, Howard Graham and William S. Cruikshank, seemed assured of posts, while C. C. Dershimer was leading in a bitter battle for the Democratic position.

Republicans Win In Philadelphia

By WILLIAM G. WEART
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Rock-bound sanctuary of Republicans, Philadelphia, today had turned "thumbs down" on the national and Pennsylvania new deals of President Roosevelt and Gov. George H. Earle.

With the change in the tide that saw U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey, Democrat, come within 3,000 votes of capturing Philadelphia—normally Republican by 100,000—in 1934, the dissension-riddled G. O. P. forces swept to victory their entire city-county ticket, defeating the most-powerful Democratic machine the city has known in half a century.

Failure of the Democrats to bring Philadelphia into the fold after state victories in 1933 and 1934 was viewed as a serious setback for the New Deal by political observers. Republican chieftains hailed the triumph as the tinder to light the torch which will illuminate the way for a Republican victory in the presidential contest of 1936.

New York State And Philadelphia Swing Against New Deal

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Nov. 6.—President Roosevelt refused today to concede any national significance to the Republican victories in New York state and Philadelphia off-year elections.

He had, however, made arrangements for personal appearances in various sections of the country clear into next June which will have a marked bearing on his personal fortunes a year hence when he stands for re-election.

Watches Kentucky

Also, a close watch was being kept on the ballot count in Kentucky's gubernatorial election, which under state law did not begin until this morning. The president's friends had conceded this border state to the Republicans in advance but were hoping.

As the president's immediate traveling schedule now shapes up, he will leave Hyde Park tomorrow and motor to New York City to participate in the initiation of his son, Franklin, Jr., into the Masons tomorrow night. Returning to Washington briefly, Mr. Roosevelt will head south for Warm Springs, Ga., about a week before Thanksgiving. On November 29, he will address a huge "home-coming" rally in Atlanta. It is reported this rally has been arranged to demonstrate that Gov. Eugene Talmade, of Georgia,

Name Republican Mayor For Erie

Mayor Rossiter, Supporting New Deal Is Defeated By G. O. P. Candidate

(International News Service)

ERIE, Pa., Nov. 6.—Erie, normally a Democratic stronghold emerged from the election today with a Republican mayor and two new Republican councilmen.

Charles Barber, a young alderman and brother of Rep. Thomas Barber, defeated Mayor James Rossiter, who sought re-election on a Roosevelt New Deal platform. Complete but unofficial returns showed Barber leading by about 400 votes.

John C. Dundon, the incumbent, and Michael J. Cronin, a former fire chief, went down to defeat with Rossiter in the councilmanic elections against their Republican opponents, Gale Ross and H. J. Kleber.

Democrats won a county judgeship when they elected former State Senator Miles B. Kitts to the seat vacated by Judge U. P. Rossiter who retired after a 20-year career on the bench.

Elton H. Blair, Republican, and Thomas Flatley, Democrat, were leading for county commissioner while Joseph F. Rogan, Democrat, was battling it out with Mrs. Helen M. Sclurauff, Republican.

Barn Burns On Reynolds Farm

Damage Of Around $3000 Results From Blaze At Early Hour This Morning

INSURANCE COVERS PORTION OF LOSS

Fire of undetermined origin caused damage of around $3,000 at 5:30 this morning, when a large bank barn on the D. R. Reynolds farm on the Pulaski Road burned to the ground.

Mr. Reynolds occupies what is known as the old Greer Farm. He and his son were in the lower part of the barn milking, when they heard a roaring sound. A little later, they noticed the reflection of the blaze against the house, nearby, and rushing out of the barn, found the entire upper part of the barn in flames.

They were successful in getting the cattle out, but the barn and its entire contents, including the season's crop of hay and grain was destroyed, along with some farm machinery. Mr. Reynolds stated that the loss was partially covered by insurance.

City firemen were asked to help and the Pirsch truck responded. They succeeded in saving the home, which was in the path of the blaze, from destruction.

Mr. Reynolds, was a candidate for road supervisor of Neshannock township, and was successful at the polls yesterday, winning by a large vote.

Cleveland Names Republican Mayor

(Special To The News)

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 6.—Cleveland elected another Republican mayor on Tuesday when Harold H. Burton was swept into office on a Republican landslide. Complete returns were expected to show Burton a winner over former Mayor Ray T. Miller by 32,000 a record majority for a mayor in Cleveland.

Incomplete reports indicated that the Republicans had retained their hold on city council, thus assuring the party of complete control in the city.

Republicans Win In Blair County

(International News Service)

ALTOONA, Pa., Nov. 6.—General Republican triumphs in the voting in Blair county were indicated today as returns were tabulated for yesterday's election.

The most spirited county battle was that for district attorney. Chester B. Ray, Republican, held the lead over Patrick E. O'Leary Democrat, on the basis of early returns.

McGrath Easy Victor In Race For City Mayor

J. Myron "Doc" Rice And James Leon Fink Are Named Councilmen

REPUBLICANS WIN FOR SCHOOL BOARD

C. C. "Rube" McKibben Is Elected As City Treasurer By Large Vote

CITY WINNERS

Mayor, Charles E. McGrath.
Council, J. Myron "Doc" Rice.
Council, James Leon Fink.
City Treasurer, C. C. "Rube" McKibben.
School Directors, Dr. W. D. Cleland, Dr. W. Fulton Jackson, Clyde M. Whittaker.

Following the lead of the county the City of New Castle swept Republican officials into office on Tuesday with the exception of one councilman, J. Myron "Doc" Rice, a Democrat, whose victory was more a personal triumph than a partisan one.

For mayor Charles E. McGrath was never headed nor was the result ever in doubt. Piling up overwhelming majorities in his home ward, the second, Mr. McGrath continued to increase his lead in the other wards and with 33 precincts out of 34 reported, McGrath has 9901 votes and his Democratic opponent has 5959.

Rice And Fink

Two political freshmen, insofar as holding office is concerned, J. Myron "Doc" Rice a Democrat, and James Leon Fink a Republican took over the two council places which will be vacated by D. O. Davies and Albert A. Hoyland, the present incumbents.

The council fight was much closer than the mayor fight and with the same 33 precincts reported out of 34, Rice is away out in front with 8335 votes. James Leon Fink is second with 6397, Joseph McCormick a Democrat is third with 5845, D. O. Davies a Republican is fourth with

Results Fail To Alarm Democrats

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—Congressional Republicans today diagnosed the results of yesterday's elections as indicating a strong trend back to the Republican party.

Democrats, however, generally held that the results have little or no national significance.

Senator Davis (R) of Pennsylvania, declared:

"The people are looking to the Republicans to bring the country back to normal conditions."

Four Children Burned To Death

DRANK TOO MUCH, SO CALLED A COP

(International News Service)

SAN ANTONIO.—"Send a cop over here right away. One of the customers has had too much to drink." Officer W. W. Thompson, answering the call, met a tearful man at the door. "I'm your man," he said. "I called you myself. Put me in jail. My dad's a policeman, and for his sake I want to keep out of trouble." Thompson complied with the request. The $10 fine next day was suspended.

Later Figures Show Majority Against Movies

Several Changes In Returns Indicate Sunday Movies Defeated

Project Seems To Be Defeated By About Margin Of 100 Votes

Whether or not New Castle gets Sunday movies will probably depend upon the official count. The returns as posted by return boards at the election polls seem to show that the proposal was defeated by New Castle voters by a vote of 8,257 No, to 8155, Yes.

These results are so close however, that they should not be taken as official.

The Sunday movie issue developed into a warm fight in the last week of the campaign.

Several errors were discovered this morning in some returns given last night. At that time it was thought that the Sunday movies had carried by 33 votes. The change in the totals shifted the result and on the face of the returns shown on another page of today's News, there will not likely be Sunday movies in New Castle, but there is still the possibility that the official count may reveal some errors that may change the indicated outcome this afternoon.

Republicans Win In County

Commissioners, Treasurer, Controller And Prothonotary Elected By G. O. P.

HANNON WINS AS DEMOCRAT

Lawrence County returned its answer to the New Deal and the pleas to go forward with Roosevelt and Earle when on Tuesday, November 5, it swept an entire Republican ticket into office with the exception of one city councilman. In the county-at-large the Democrats won but one place, that of county commissioner which must go a minority party.

The vote in the county at large was reminiscent of old time Republican sweeps, albeit not so large, but eminently satisfactory. Judge, county commissioners, prothonotary and clerk of courts, county treasurer, county controller and coroner, all of them elected on Tuesday are Republicans.

County Commissioner

In the county commissioner race George H. Bolinger and Floyd L. Cotton are the Republican winners and Joseph A. Hannon is the Democratic winner. Mr. Bolinger, a resident of Neshannock township poll-

Storm Fear In Florida Abates

West Indian Storm Blows Erratic Course Westward In Gulf

(International News Service)

Florida's west coast and the gulf coast sections of Alabama, Mississippi and Louisiana were removed from the threat of any immediate storm danger today as the West Indian hurricane that battered south Florida Monday blew an erratic course to the westward in the Gulf of Mexico.

Still showing a curving tendency, however, the hurricane may swing back and strike the coastline at any point between Cedar Keys, Florida, and the Louisiana coast, the United States Weather Bureau at Jacksonville stated.

While the storm remained a menace to shipping in the east gulf and central portions of the gulf, the coastline was considered out of danger for the next 24 hours.

New Dealism Dealt Blow In Pennsylvania

By J. WILLIAM THEIS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 6. — New Dealism and the chief hope of a Democratic sweep in this state's presidential campaign were crushed in Pennsylvania today as returns from yesterday's off-year electoral test gave victory to the G. O. P. in Philadelphia and other traditionally Republican centers.

Long before the final tabulation was in, Democrats conceded defeat in the Philadelphia mayoralty election and bowed before growing majorities in other Republican strongholds.

Reject Earle's Policies

It was the second rejection of the policies of Gev. George H. Earle returned by the voters in the last two months, but exceeeded by far in political significance the defeat handed constitutional revision in September.

In Philadelphia, where the Earle administration made its strongest bid for a vote of approval, John B. "Handsome Jack" Kelly, Democratic mayoralty candidate, conceded the election of city controller S. Davis Wilson, his Republican rival.

Wilson's majority in complete unofficial tabulation was 47,600 votes. G. O. P. candidates also swept to victory in other city-county battles to make the rout of the strongest Democratic machine in the eastern metropolis in over a generation complete.

New York State And Philadelphia Turn Back To Republicanism

FARLEY'S SMILE VERY WEAK TODAY

Look To Kentucky To Save Democrats And New Deal From Rout

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Republicans were cheerful today and Democrats could find little to cheer about over the results of yesterday's scattered balloting in half a dozen states.

The Republicans regained control of the New York State Assembly, on President Roosevelt's home grounds, and they won a bitterly contested mayoralty election in Philadelphia upon which the Democrats had set high hopes as a preliminary to carrying Pennsylvania next year.

"New Deal" Shunned

Insofar as these results may show the "trend" which politicians were looking for, it is away from the Roosevelt New Deal.

Only to Kentucky, where counting of the ballot begins today, can the Democrats look for any real solace out of yesterday's tune-up for the 1936 election. In Kentucky, there was a bitterly contested state-wide fight, with the Democrats hopeful of holding the governorship in spite of a party split.

Should the Kentucky results also

Ethiopians In Counter Attack

Claim That Large Losses Are Inflicted Upon Italians

SURPRISE ATTACK MADE AT MAKALE

International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1935, By International News Service)

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 6.—Two sensational Ethiopian counter-attacks upon invading Italian forces in which hundreds of Italians were slaughtered were reported by the Ethiopian government in an official communique today.

One of these occurred at Makale, strategic northern Ethiopian city. Italians occupied the town last night in a surprise advance, it was announced here, despite the widely-announced two-day halt in the north ordered yesterday.

Soon after the Italians entered the city, peacefully, a strong Ethiopian force attacked the city, killing ten Italians and capturing four. The Italian forces withdrew from the city to the north.

This move completely changed the picture on the northern front, since it was now officially declared the Ethiopians intend to hold Makale at all costs against the invading Italian force of more than 100,000 men. Previously they had intended evacuating the city.

The second counter-attack was at Gorrahei, presently the most important city on the southern front. Italian planes bombarded this fortified city with thousands of bombs, the Ethiopians announced, but with only meager results, killing only seven Ethiopian soldiers.

On the night of this attack, ap-

Kalodner May Get Philadelphia Post

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—Secretary of revenue Harry E. Kalodner today was mentioned prominently as likely to receive Gev. George H. Earle's appointment as successor to the Philadelphia controller's office now occupied by mayor-elect S. Davis Wilson.

The successful Republican mayoralty nominee will relinquish the controllership previous to becoming mayor on January 1, next.

Others mentioned as possibilities for the Philadelphia office include secretary of banking Luther A. Harr, former congressman Benjamin M. Golder, and Curtis Bok, defeated Democratic candidate for district attorney.

Kalodner, a former Philadelphia newspaperman, tentatively has been slated for appointment to the common pleas court of Philadelphia.

Somerset County Is In Republican Fold

SOMERSET, Pa., Nov. 6.—Somerset county remained in the Republican column today on the basis of early returns in the election yesterday.

In only one race, a county commissioner position, was the balloting close. In all others a general G. O. P. victory was indicated. In commissioner battle, two Republicans, W. K. Walker and R. N. Trevorrow were assured election, with W. J. C. Hay indicated as the probable Democratic victor.

Braham Wins In Close Battle For County Judge

Near Complete Unofficial Returns Give Him About 500 Vote Margin

COUNTY PRECINCTS GIVE HIM VICTORY

Powers Carries Both New Castle And Ellwood City In Balloting

After a typical Lawrence county judicial fight, Attorney W. Walter Braham, Republican candidate, was elected on Tuesday, November 5, by the narrow margin of 530 votes. This margin is held with 89 precincts out of the county's ninety reported. The vote was W. Walter Braham 16,090 and John S. Powers 15,560 The one missing precinct is the second of Union which may be favorable to Mr. Powers but will not alter the result.

Not since 1925 has there been a fight as the Braham-Powers battle. At no time during the compilation of votes was there much of an advantage to either candidate and they seesawed back and forth until late this morning. The rural districts put the race over for Mr. Braham and a number of these were late in getting in.

Powers Carries City

Mr. Powers ran a splendid race in New Castle, carrying the city by 1649 votes. He received 9150 votes in the city in the 34 precincts and Braham received 7501. Powers also carried Ellwood City by ninety-three votes but his lead began to melt away when the rural districts started in.

In his old home town of New Wilmington, Mr. Braham got a handsome majority. All through the northern townships he led Powers and as more rural precincts that reported it was evident Power's lead was being decreased.

The election of Mr. Braham puts two Republican judges on the Law-

THIS IS A TALE OF SHIRT-TAIL ON FENCE

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 6. — A piece of shirt-tail, left on a fence, resulted in a five-year penitentiary sentence for a former convict charged with passing counterfeit money. John B. Hendrickson, 32, pleaded guilty after police matched the cloth with the torn shirt he was wearing at his arrest. The mishap occurred as Hendrickson hurried from a house in which he had been detected passing a spurious half-dollar.

Sometimes the odds are against your side, sometimes your man will get licked, and sometimes you think a mistake has been made in the sort of a fellow they picked. But no matter your thoughts when election is done, though your candidate lost by a mile, the sportsmen gets up and he dusts himself off and flashes a sportsmanlike smile. And if your choice has been landslidden in, and he has plenty votes and to spare, look up the fellow who lost in the score, and say old chap put her there. For winning or losing the game is the thing, if you cant be a sport then dont play, for some one must lose and some other must win, its bright fifty seven today.

V. F. W. Head Charges Alien Influence Controls Immigration Policy

LABOR SECRETARY IS CRITICIZED

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—Charges that Secretary of Labor Perkins and the heads of the congressional immigration committees are influenced by alien interests on immigration matters were made today by James E. Van Zandt, commander-in-chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

His charges were made in a general attack on what he called the laxity of immigration laws and the Kerr immigration bill in particular.

Senator Coolidge (D) Massachusetts, is chairman of the senate immigration committee, and Rep. Dickstin (D) New York, is chairman of the house immigration committee.

Aliens Interests Control

Van Zandt said:

"Unfortunately, alien interests appear to be in control of the immigration committees. "We have as head of the department of labor and as chairman of the immigration committees three persons identified by their action with these alien interests."

Van Zandt also charged all three with promoting legislation which he claimed would loosen present immigration laws. He added:

"Not one of them has a record of favoring any measure really safeguarding Americans by substantially limiting the entry of foreigners, and they have done all in their power to promote measures that would weaken the immigration laws."

Van Zandt said the Kerr bill, "though it is concealed," makes deportation optional instead of mandatory for "many criminals" and for the greater part of those aliens "whose entry or residence in the country is illegal."

Wilson, a registered Democrat with the G. O. P. organization nomination and support, elected mayor by a plurality of 47,600 votes over John B. "Handsome Jack" Kelly, noted Olympic sculling champion and Democratic nominee.

In the record shattering avalanche of ballots, Wilson polled 373,121 votes against Kelly's 325,521. Although defeated, Kelly's vote was the highest accorded a Democratic candidate for mayor since the turn of the century.

Wilson's triumph climaxed the most hectic campaign in the city's history—a campaign replete with daily bolting, bitterness, and charges of "liar," "cheat," and "crook."

Other Republicans Elected

On the crest of returning G. O. P. sentiment, a Republican district attorney, sheriff, recorder of deeds, receiver of taxes, clerk of quarter sessions court, two of the three county commissioners and five magistrates rode to victory.

When the full extent of the Republican sweep became known, Philadelphia's Republicanism smashed its shackles and swarmed into the mid-city district to celebrate the city's reassertion of its ancient party loyalty.

Far into the morning, the mobs swarmed around old rallying places of the Boies Penrose and Will "Boss Bill" Vare era, snarling traffic, setting off bonfires and singing almost forgotten battle anthems of the "Grand Old Party."

In the referendum on Sunday movies, which shares interest here with the momentous mayoralty contest, the affirmative vote was overwhelming. Sentiment in favor of Sunday shows ran almost three to one with complete unofficial returns revealing 344,785 favorable votes to 130,369 against a let down in the antiquated blue laws.

election of one superior court judge, was turning in a similar vote of rejection for the forces of Democracy as returns labored in giving Judge Jesse E. B. Cunningham, Republican incumbent, an insurmountable lead. Judge Horace Stern, Republican, and Justice H. Edgar Barnes, Democrat, were elected to the supreme court without opposition, finishing in that order.

More than 4,000 districts of the state's 7956 precincts gave Cunningham a lead of 150,000 votes over his Democratic opponent, Deputy Attorney General Robert L. Myers, Jr. Indications were that the Philadelphia jurist's lead would exceed 250,000.

Counteracting the decisive New Deal defeat in Philadelphia, Allegheny county and the city of Pittsburgh were giving Democratic candidates hopeful leads. Rejecting State Senator James J. Coyne, target of administration criticism throughout the vindictive campaign, the western county gave two Democratic contenders and the Independent Republican candidate for county commission early leads. Two Republican incumbents were trailing with Coyne.

Erie Goes Republican

One of the most surprising upsets attained by the followers of Republican state chairman M. Harvey Taylor was the election of a Republican mayor and two councilmen in Erie, normally Democratic.

Bucks, Chester and Delaware counties, where administration orators centered their attacks on former U. S. Senator Joseph R. Grundy and State Senators William H. Clark and John J. McClure, stayed safely within the Republican column. Montgomery, the governor's home county, followed Philadelphia's lead with its own ominous anti New Deal poll.

Republican tradition was carried through even more easily in Dauphin county and the state capitol despite the administration patronage advantage in drawing Harrisburgh votes. Returns gave the followers of Republican state chairman M. Harvey Taylor city and county majorities of 5,000 votes. Street demonstrations and torchlight processions marked the city's acceptance of the decision.

Except for Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, a majority of Pennsylvania's larger cities turned in a negative vote on the issue of Sunday movies. The scattering of approvals on the local option question of opening the Sabbath for motion picture entertainment after 2 p. m. indicated strong campaigns of opposition by individuals and church groups.

Poor Roosevelt! If people don't prosper, they will blame him. If they do prosper, they will be Republicans again.

Stevensons On Visit To 'Home'

Porto Rico Residents Now, They Return Here For Holidays

Bert E. Stevenson, president of the Porto Rico Fruit Exchange, but just plain "Bert" to his host of New Castle friends, came "back home" with Mrs. Stevenson today for a visit which will extend through the holidays.

Mr. Stevenson came back to his native city, announcing that down in his rich fruit country they anticipate a grapefruit crop "as large as last year's" and reporting that Porto Rico has been passed up—and fortunately so—by seven destructive storms this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson will visit with the latter's sister, Mrs. Ida C. Robinson, 124 North Walnut street, and make short trips to their many friends throughout the district. Later they will go west and then return here for the holidays.

"The late grapefruit crop in Porto Rico will amount to between 450,000 and 500,000 boxes," Mr. Stevenson said. "The early crop, which is now practically through, amounted to between 100,000 and 125,000 boxes. Shipments of late grapefruit will commence as soon as market conditions warrant. It can be shipped anytime after January 1."

The grapefruit yield, the exchange head indicated, is about the same as last year's. The early crop, however, was reported a trifle lighter. He said climatic conditions in Porto Rico during the growing period were ideal.

The pineapple acreage, he said, is about the same as last year, and they anticipate a crop of about 400,000 crops.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson have lived in San Juan, Porto Rico, now for 29 years. They return here almost annually to see their friends.

McGRATH EASY VICTOR IN RACE FO CITY MAYOR

McKibben Leads Ticket

In the city treasurer contest C. C. "Rube" McKibben topped his Democratic rival, Joseph W. Hahn by almost a two to one vote. Both of them are East Siders but McKibben led in almost every precinct in the city. He has 10,280 votes in 32 precincts out of 34, while Hahn has 5106. McKibben was a candidate for the Republican nominatiuon four years ago and finished second. Benefitting by his experience of the first run he showed amazing strength this time.

School Board

In the school board race the three Republican winners finished in the same order they did in the primary. Dr. W. D. Cleland, an incumbent was first with 9020 votes, Dr. W. Fulton Jackson was second with 8054 votes, Clyde M. Whittaker was third with 7879 votes. This total is from 33 precincts out of 34.

The Democratic candidates finished nearly in the same order they did in the primary. Mrs. Agnes B. Howley was high among the Democratic candidates with 5944 votes, Dr. Warren V. Massaro was next with 4837 votes and Mrs. Bertha Campbell was last with 4599 votes.

The only race that showed any uncertainty from the time returns started coming in was that of city council. Up until early this morning the result for the second place was in doubt. The one precinct missing is the third of the sixth ward. This is in Mr. McCormick's home ward and the precenct will probably give him a handsome vote but will be unable to lift him from third place.

MUSICAL REVIEW AT BESSEMER HIGH

Three hundred children will participate, enacting folk songs, dances and other events of the European countries, in native costume. Miss Harriett Watson is in charge of the production of the tiny tots. Music will be furnished under the direction of Joseph Martin.

in criticizing the Roosevelt administration, does not reflect the sentiments of his state.

Next on the schedule will be a speech in Chicago on December 9 before the American Farm Bureau Federation. Tentatively, this will be staged in the coliseum before 15,000 farm leaders.

Will Go To Dallas

And next June, it was made known, Mr. Roosevelt will go to Dallas to attend the Texas centennial. This trip has double significance.

The president will be going into Vice President Jack Garner's home state at about the time the Democratic National Convention is meeting. The visit will amount to notice to the delegates that Mr. Roosevelt wants Garner for a running mate again.

On the way to Dallas, the president will stop off at Vincennes, Ind., to belatedly dedicate the George Rogers Clark Memorial. This event had been scheduled for November 18 of this year. Mr. Roosevelt asked if it could be postponed until December 8, and when he was told zero weather would prevent, compromised by putting the whole business off until June.

Here at Hyde Park today, the executive was waiting for a tabulation of the popular vote in the New York state assembly elections. He had anticipated the Republicans would regain their normal control but his aides believed New York City's Democratic vote would overbalance up-state Republican gains and enable them to claim the Empire State as still Democratic.

Aided by several hundred jubilant neighbors, the president made considerable capital last night out of the fact a Democrat had been elected supervisor of his Hyde Park home for the first time in 35 years. The victory of Elmer Van Wagner was especially sweet because his Republican opponent, Walter L. Gilbert, had attempted to inject national issues into the campaign and particularly had attacked Mr. Roosevelt. He accused the first lady of "whistling up a drainpipe."

parently several days ago, Ethiopians counter-attacked and massacred a large number of Italians and took many prisoners, according to the official Ethiopian account.

One machine-gun officer alone was credited with slaying 400 Italians.

This officer, whom the army has ordered cited, with one machine-gun held off an entire division of Italians with rapid fire from his nest.

The surprise change on the northern front as reported by the Ethiopian government indicated the big battle in the north will come much sooner than had been expected.

The Italian force which occupied Makale was a small one, operating some distance ahead of the main Italian force, according to the official announcement.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

The youngsters have learned to knit and crochet, and have completed novel purses in varied hues. They are now making silhouettes to be transferred onto glass, with Claudia Bauman and Sylvia Lee Martin in charge. Others of the club, will assist them at their meetings on Friday of each week, at the Home.

Miss Claudia Bauman, who is responsible for the novel bulletins issued monthly to the membership, containing news of their regular meetings, was given a vote of appreciation last evening. Miss Bauman displayed much originality and good taste in her work of these clever little "newsies," expressive of the various seasons.

On November 19, the meeting will be held at the same tea room, with Sylvia Lee Martin, Educational chairman, in charge. An interesting program is being planned for this date. On November 25, the Executive Board will meet, with Alice Huffman on Wallace avenue. Miss Geraldine McClelland will be joint hostess.

LEGION AUXILIARY INITIATION MEETING

A class of ten new members, were initiated into the American Legion Auxiliary at their meeting held Monday evening in the Legion Home, following the usual business routine. The vent was most impressively conducted, in the presence of a large assemblage of associates.

During the hours that ensued, attention was devoted to card contests and other events. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. John Hilliard and Mrs. Diana Sweet for bridge, and the men successful in capturing prizes, were Frank Connors and James Brice. For bingo, Mrs. Robert Gowell and Mrs. Anna Sturdy carried off trophies. The serving of refreshments concluded festivities, this being in charge of Mrs. Ivor Davis and committee. Mrs. A. J. Barnsley was general chairman of the card entertainment.

DEPARTING MEMBER HONORED BY CLUB

Knitting and chat kept busy the New Idea club girls Tuesday evening in the home of their hostess, Mrs. Philip Winter on Martin street, who had as special guests Alice Huffman and Mrs. William Twaddle. At a suitable time lunch was served, with the latter two assisting with the menu.

Coming as a complete surprise to the majority of the club members was the announcement made by Mrs. Winter of her leaving New Castle within a short time for Cumberland, Md., where she will take up residence. However, the one or two who had in some manner learned of her intentions, had prepared a lovely gift in behalf of the club, which was presented her by Mrs. James D. Crawford.

Names were drawn for the annual Christmas party exchange of the club, to be held December 3, in the home of Mrs. Clyde Burkholder on Court street, the date of their next assemblage.

SURPRISE PARTY AT SHOAFF HOME

A surprise party was given Tuesday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Shoaff on West Garfield avenue, in honor of their four-year-old son, Darrel Winfield, in honor of his birthday.

A group of his playmates were waiting in the living room when he arrived from an automobile ride, to help celebrate the happy occasion. Games and contests were enjoyed by the little ones, prizes going to Bobby Southern and Patsy Sferra. At the chosen hour, lunch was served in the dining room, the large table being decorated in tones of pink and white. A large birthday cake surmounted with burning candles adorned the center and unique favors and novelty hats marked each place. Mrs. Shoaff was assisted by Mrs. L. W. Southern with the tasty menu.

A number of nice gifts were presented the guest of honor as mementos of the day.

Barbara Usselton Honored

During the past holiday, Hallowe'en, Barbara Usselton, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Usselton, was honored at a party given by her mother, at their Grant street home. The occasion, proving a complete surprise to Barbara, included as guests, playmates numbering twenty, who were seated about the rooms of the Usselton home, to greet the honored one as she returned home from school. She was overwhelmed when she heard shouts of "surprise" from her little associates, who immediately entered into a program of games and stunts. Prizes went to Joella Parker, Ruth Ramsey, Margaret Jean Richards and Jean Louise Evans.

The birthday cake, centering the diningroom table, was most attractive, and made by the grandmother of the honored one, Mrs. S. H. Johnston. Pastel tones prevailed and seven burning candles, placed on the top, were aglow during the serving by Mrs. Usselton. Bobby Veon, a cousin of Barbara, was a special guest.

A collection of dainty gifts were received by the honored one, in memory of the day.

She entertained informally at cards, high score awards falling to Mrs. Harold McCartney and Helen Brown at conclusion of play. Entering into the contests as a special guest, was Mrs. Hilyard Marsal of Cleveland, O. She was also the recipient of a lovely gift from the hostess.

A menu of delicious refreshments was later served at the diningroom table, with all appointments being cleverly carried out in a color theme of pink and white. The hostess was aided by her mother, Mrs. Anthony Mariana and sister, Florence Mariana with this feature.

Plans were completed for their next regular meeting, to be held Wednesday, November 20, with Ellen McGowan on Lyndal street.

MISS LIBERTY'S VISITORS

A curious fact comes from the superintendent of Bedloe's Island in New York harbor, home of the Statue of Liberty. The famous bronze lady is attracting more visitors than ever before. They come in such drives that they can't all be accommodated with elevator service. Those who don't mind waiting their turn for half an hour may ride up, but everybody has to walk down.

The crowds this year are as nothing, however, to the crowds that will probably visit Miss Liberty next year when she celebrates her fiftieth anniversary. Plans for the party are already under way. All through the year there will be meetings and exhibitions in the lady's honor. Then in October, the month in which she was originally dedicated by President Grover Cleveland, there will be one very special affair, attended by high officials of the French Embassy and our own State Department.

It would be interesting to have a true analysis of the reasons for the recent access of enthusiasm for a symbolic statue. Is an increased appreciation of national liberty indicated by the increased viewing of the bronze Liberty?

JAPANESE CCC

It is surprising to learn that Japan has taken up our Civilian Conservation Corps idea. Surprising because Japan is supposed not to have any unemployment problem of the sort that our CCC was created to solve. There are, of course, opportunities in Japan for reforestation and other forms of conservation work that our CCC engages in.

The Japanese Bureau of Social Affairs had established many camps like ours, for relief work. The activities are varied. The first recruits, consisting of about 90,000 unemployed workers without means, drawn from six large cities, will be housed in the camps for six months or more. The present idea seems to be conservation of men rather than natural resources. They will receive vocational training, or retraining where they have lost occupational skill through long idleness.

When they are ready for discharge, it is reported, "special steps will be taken to encourage them to emigrate." The idea is doubtless to shunt them off into Japanese colonies, or into controlled areas of northern China.

If 90,000 idle men can be picked up so easily for this experiment, there must be many hundred thousands more in the same plight. Can it be that Japanese industrial imperialism is not so successful as it has been represented?

QUINTUPLETS' FUTURE

Granted that the Dionne quintuplets have been exploited to a fare-you-well, that the innocent five have become a symbol of impersonal scientific detachment, that even their own mother has been deprived of their care, they still are of interest as the production of something up to date. They now get liver once a week, and the wires hum with the news. They are without doubt the best known citizens of Quebec—of Canada, perhaps of the world of mothers.

It is permissible to speculate on what would have been their present status had they not been taken over by the country as subjects to be preserved with zealous care. How many would be alive today? The five babies are, thus far, representative of modernity in unemotional child care. What will be their lives at maturity? Some day they will in the natural course of events, if all goes well, "grow up" into women. Will their subsequent careers always be watched, studied? Will the precious attribute of individuality ever be theirs, or must they go through to the end five persons of one mark, possibly well sick of one another as the years pass?

Two decades hence a woman may be pointed out as "one of the Dionne quintuplets—remember?" And if in the future they read of their infancy, pursued by photographers and news writers, and of their subsequent absorption into the mass, no longer anything but human beings, what will be their reaction, provided they have a sense of humor or haven't?

THE WEAKNESS IN "SOAKING THE RICH"

There is one grave fallacy in any "soak-the-rich" plan that should receive more discussion and understanding.

The accumulated wealth which the "soak-the-rich" advocates wish to confiscate IS NOT IN CASH.

If the holdings of a multi-millionaire industralist, for example, were represented by cash in the bank, or quickly negotiable securities, it would be a simple enough matter to tax them fifty, sixty, seventy or eighty per cent. The injustice of such a policy would still remain—but it could be done.

As a matter of fact, the fortune held by this super-industrialist includes very little "ready money". It consists of factories, office buildings, manufacturing plants of one kind or another. These assets are at work, producing jobs, needed goods and services and, possibly, dividends for many other stockholders.

If this man's holding is outrageously taxed, either in income or inheritance levies, the only way he or his estate can pay is to sell these industrial holdings at forced-sale values. Factories may be closed, men thrown out of work—for the value of machinery and other plant equipment cannot be expressed entirely in dollars. The machine, for example, that makes shoes, may have a market value of ten thousand dollars—yet be the means of providing jobs whose economic importance dwarfs this sum.

Big fortunes are working fortunes. They are the fortunes that provide the capital that is essential to every productive undertaking. They are the fortunes that carry industry through bad times as well as good—and absorb a loss, even while keeping men at work and wheels turning. The whole history of American industrialism proves this.

"Soak the rich" and you soak everyone. You strike directly at every pocketbook. You invite unemployment, industrial distress, bankruptcies. And you prolong depression.

Skakespeare, with his seventy-yard punt at Notre Dame, is bringing added glory to the family name.

Today

All Talk Automobile.
Another Big Wind.
Another Election.
Italy Rolling On.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

IN NEW YORK and other cities where the big automobile shows are held early this year, all talk is of "automobiles."

If you are old enough, you look back to the one-cylinder car with the door in the back, a step to let down and lift up.

"MOTOR," trade paper of the automobile industry, shows pictures of automobiles in days when, driving from New York to New Jersey, or across any state line, it was necessary to buy new license plates.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS ago, "MOTOR" reminds you, there were 77 times as many horses as there were automobiles in the United States. At that rate there would be, now, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five million horses in the country.

The modern automobile is an absolutely PERFECT machine, perfect in beauty, efficiency. To improve on such a machine would seem impossible and one, not an engineer, understanding the mystery under the hood, might well choose his new car by saying, "Eeny, meeny, miny, mo."

See the new cars. Your local dealers can show them to you.

HEAVY windstorms in Florida, so late in the season, are disturbing. Inhabitants are moved away from the keys.

There is no danger, however, to those that occupy houses properly constructed and know enough to stay in them during the short time that the storm lasts.

ON THIS date one year from today, 1936, the presidential election will be two days old, and the country will have settled down to speculate mildly on what is to happen during the following four years.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

THE UNCROSSED GOAL LINE

THOSE CLEVER lads, the sports writers, because they know so much more about such things than I do, may tell me I'm all wrong. They may advise me to stick to my own field, whatever it may be, and leave the football field to them. . . . But I think I've noticed something and all the experts in the world can't keep me from talking about it.

I've noticed that football teams that boast they haven't had their goal line crossed don't get as much fun out of the game as some other team do. They don't get half as much joy out of it as those teams that run up half a dozen touchdowns to win, but let their opponents take a couple of touchdowns, too.

As long as they are thinking so much about protecting their goal line, they play a dull and unspectacular game. They make a score and then, if the other team is going strong, they crawl into their holes and protect their lead.

But a team that has lost a game or two, or has been scored on, has a grand time. It tosses the ball around, does reckless, gaspy things, rambles all over the field, gains 40 yards on one play, loses half a dozen on the next. It isn't under that constant strain of protecting its goal line, but plays instead one of those if-you-score-I'll-score games of football.

(And here comes the sage conclusion.)

It seems to me that FUN is more important than keeping yourself from being scored on. . . . Some human beings can't stand being scored on, either. They are constantly thinking of their families, their position, their dignity, their reputations.

They mustn't do anything their dear dead ancestors wouldn't have done. They must be very, very, very careful; so they live under constant strain and miss a tremendous amount of fun because they are afraid to take a chance on PLAYING THE FOOL just once.

They sacrifice the best of life to save what isn't worth keeping . . . and don't make enough touchdowns!

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

CAN IT BE?

Collier's Weekly is not in step with the present Administration, for it prints the following:

"With what amount to unerring judgment, Mr. Ferdinand Phinizy of Atlanta, Georgia, thinks we might be in rested in knowing that a farmer friend of mine dropped in the other day and said he intended dusting his cotton plants with government flour. Just as you or I would, Mr. Phinizy asked the farmer why."

"He said, writes Mr. Phinizy, 'that this would control the boll weevil, because as far as his experience went, anything eating government flour immediately stopped work.'"

Good evening, Mayor McGrath!

A lady went into a local bus station an asked information about a southern city. She could get no information on it. She said to the clerk, "Well, when I started up here from the south it took several hours for them to find out where New Castle, Pa. was. There are some information bureaus that should take up the study of geography.

MANY AMERICANS LIVE ABROAD

Americans residing in other countries have increased at an average rate of 14,000 a year since 1930. In 1934 they numbered about 429,000 of which 248,000 or better than 57 per cent were living in Canada. These figures of the State Department include only those of a permanent or semi-permanent character and do not take into account tourists or transients.

The "work or starve" order has been issued in some places where strikes have occurred on relief work projects. The work in many cases does not have to be done, but those who strike have to eat, so what's the answer?

AN IDEALISTIC EXPERIMENT

Once a man in a big city offered stock in a company that was to revolutionize the retailing of food products. He promised dividends of fifty percent annually. He said he would pay men and women equal wages, and that these wages would be $10 a day. He said that his clerks would work only six hours a day, five days a week. He planned to pension his employees at the age of fifty-five, and to support them at full pay during sickness and hard times. He also said that he would undersell other stores by from ten to fifty percent.

Millions of dollars were subscribed, and he opened several hundred stores.

Newspapers printed hundreds of columns about the venture. Magazine editors sent writers to interview the manager, and study his system. Dozens of books appeared, written by learned observers who told of thhe miracles performed by this benius in merchandising.

After the scheme had been in operation for six months, a farmer filed suit for an unpaid bill for a load of cabbages. Within a week, the enterprise was in receivership. The stockholders lost every penny they had subscribed. The employees lost their jobs. Creditors lost many millions.

It turned out that the promoter had had no evil intentions but was one of those nice souls who wanted to do the right thing. As long as he could collect the savings of thrifty people and give them to others, he was a grand success. But he couldn't make his books balance, and so he turned out a failure.

That's the way idealistic experiments usually turn out.

A lot of one man liquor stores are being opened in Pennsylvania. One man will not be much resistance to a flock of brigands who are out to rob and plunder.

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

By Francine Markel

Dear Miss Markel—What is the proper length of time for respectful mourning for a young widow who is starved for pleasure after years of nursing a devoted husband? And what pleasures may be respectfully indulged in? D. D. D.

Answer—Until a generation ago almost everyone adhered strictly to the rule that a widow should wear deep mourning—including a crepe veil—for a year and second mourning (with touches of white) for another year.

But nowadays a year is considered sufficient for a widow's entire period of mourning, and she may and often does remove her veil immediately after the funeral.

Deep mourning is out of place in gay surroundings, such as at a cabaret or a musical show. But surely no one would criticize a bereaved person seeking diversion at the cinema, a concert or a serious drama.

The World At A Glance

Supressed Majorities Speak.
Politicians Control Negation.
Progressives Look Ahead.

Central Press
New York Bureau

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Suppressed majorities probably are beginning to speak again—in some parts of the world.

The premier of the Chinese government that had become subservient to an invader, Japan, was shot not by a Red, but by an inflamed Chinese. The premier, Wang Ching-wei, was about to give up to new Japanese demands.

Across the world in France, as Fascists seek to overthrow the Laval government, word comes of evidence of Italian money tainting certain French newspapers. If the French who favor the continuance of a republican form of government can penetrate with that fact to the French people fascism is not likely to claim France as one of its victims.

Then back again to the other side of the world we go to find a cabinet crisis in Australia over sanctions. James Lyons, prime minister, requested the resignation of William Morris Hughes, vice president of the executive council. Hughes said in a book: "Economic sanctions are either an empty gesture or mean war." Hughes added that Great Britain would be too busy to protect Australia in case of war. Many Australians agree with him—although the Austrian government has put its new large warship at the disposal of the mother country in the Mediterranean.

"IT CAN'T HAPPEN HERE"

The most discussed American book of the year is "It Can't Happen Here", by Sinclair Lewis, America's best-known novelist.

Lewis' book shows how fascism can conquer the United States—and then what would occur to the average man.

Organizations attacked by implication in the book may strike back. Among those organizations are the American Legion, the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Rotarians.

POWER OF NEGATION

The power of negation is falling more and more into the hands of politicians.

Through laws passed in several states ostensibly outlawing "Reds", political parties in power can keep independent parties off the ballot. It would be difficult to start a third party in the United States now.

And the power of censorship is vast.

In Chicago Mayor Kelly stopped "Tobacco Road", which has been running in New York for two years, on the ground that it is obscene. Critics point out that it is a true conception of the "forgotten man" of southern tenant farms. One liberal weekly of opinion asserts that Mayor Kelly, "who rose to prominence and wealth in Chicago as engineer of the board of the sanitary district" had been "a spectator of the orgies of this gang" and had closed his eyes "to this mess of filth". Yet he closes a play which critics acclaim and determines which plays a community of four million persons may see.

MARK TWAIN BANNED

Censorship of lasting literary work always has existed. The world seems fearful of the truth.

Two hitherto unpublished letters of Mark Twain disclose that 30 years ago his two masterpieces—"Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn"—were banned by the Brooklyn, N. Y., library as "too course".

And now the world is celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain).

The people who thought he presented life too truthfully and who stood in his way all have passed into oblivion. Merely the truth lives.

WITH RESERVATIONS

The progressives are making it clear that they will support President Roosevelt for re-election with reservations.

The president is considered too far to the right of them.

Governor Philip La Follette of Wisconsin even attacks the administration crop restriction policy in these words:

"Restricted production, based on fictitious surplus, has reduced the national income during the last few years as an amount that would purchase every capital industry in the country.

"This whole policy of reduction is the result of thinking in terms of effect rather than causes. Vast production results in vast consumption and vast purchasing power. This is as obvious as the law of gravity."

In other words, Governor La Follette would spread earning power to increase purchasing power—and then there would be no surpluses of necessities.

LONGER WORK HOURS

Both business and labor are observing the struggle in the rubber industry.

And the Roosevelt administration may be getting ready to apply pressure.

The tire industry has met a demand for a six-hour day by planning a three-shift eight-hour day. At least that is the charge of Congressman Dow W. Harter, of Akron, center of the tire industry.

He adds: "It seems strange that rubber companies here would attempt to decrease wage rates at a time when the government is doing everything in its power to spread employment and raise rates of pay."

He intimated government action.

THE END OF TOIL

I wonder what is more important here
Than bread and milk and healthy roguish cheeks,
A little garden blossoming every year
And the first sentence which the baby speaks.

All labor and all wisdom lead to these:
A fireplace where the mother sits and sews,
Dinners and suppers and occasional teas,
Birthday's and feast days to the long year's close.

Fame blows her trumpet; fortune waves her hand,
Soldiers go forth to battle and to die!
Still at the doorway where the loved ones stand.
The best delights of fame and fortune lie.

These make man's life, however high he rise.
His family's welfare and its mirth and song,
His home contented, lit by laughing eyes.
If these be right, then little else is wrong.

Writing Wrongs—You're in error if you suppose—

That George Washington was the first president to live in the White House.

This comes from Mrs. James R Harvey, Concord, Tenn., who says John Adams was first to live there Strictly speaking, James Madison was, for it didn't become the White House until after the British burned the executive palace in 1814. And Mrs. A. H. Camp, Laredo, Tex., tells us we're wrong if we believe—

Japan Watches Cooperation Of Chinese-Soviets

Japanese Angered As China Decides To Go Off Silver Standard

By JAMES R. YOUNG
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Nov. 6—Warning that Japan will take "positive steps when they are needed," War Minister Yoshiyuki Kawashima today gave bitter expression to Japan's ire over developments indicating Chinese cooperation with Britain and Soviet Russia.

Leaving for the annual Japanese military maneuvers, the war minister told International News Service.

"Japan is skeptical of the aims and utility of financial reformation in China."

He said nationalization of silver and establishing of a managed cusrency in China were additional evidences of the Nanking government's "lack of sincerity."

Will Not Cooperate

China, he said, "appears never to have had any intention to cooperate with Japan," so Japan will be ready to take forceful action if necessary.

Coincident with a Moscow announcement that the soviets had protested to Japan for the second time, in a note saying that Japan cannot dodge responsibility for Manchukuo-Soviet border clashes, war minister Kawashima said:

"The war ministry is closely watching Soviet-Chinese cooperation.

"The Soviet program in China is a formidable one, and the Japanese army regards communist activities there as important."

Between the lines, observers also saw indications that the military commanders are concerned over British financial cooperation with with China.

Off Silver Standard

Financial quarters here had hoped that China, in financial distress would turn to Japan for aid.

Instead, it was angrily charged, the advice of Britain had been accepted and China went off the silver standard.

It was reported here that Britain had loaned the Nanking government $50,000,000 for exchange stabilization, in return for which Britain received a virtual monopoly over Chinese railroads.

Approve More W.P.A. Projects

Sandy Lake Improvements, Also Some At Harrisville Are Included

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 6.—Final Federal approval for an additional group of Pennsylvania WPA projects, three of which are in Mercer and Butler counties, was announced here today.

One of the projects calls for improvement of school buildings and grounds in Sandy Lake a federal cost of $7,675. The second Mercer county improvement provides for road improvements in Worth township involving a federal contribution of $6,846.

In Butler county, a federal donation of $892 has been approved for construction of sidewalks on routes Nos. 8 and 10072, Harrisville.

On Court House Hill

Judge R. L. Hildebrand has set November 29 as the date for the next divorce court. The last day to file applications to be heard on this date will be November 18.

Prothonotary R. M. Campbell announces that the last day for filing precipes for the trial list for the January-February term of common pleas court will be December 2.

There are 31 men and four women in the county jail at present, according to Deputy Sheriff Elmer Taylor. During the month of October there were 125 county prisoners in the jail at different times, and about 150, including those sent up from the city.

The case of Dr. Oswald Swinney Lowsley of New York against Mrs. De Grim Renfro of this city, was argued at court on a motion to set aside the sheriff's service and strike off judgment. The case is one involving a dispute over a bill for professional services.

County commissioners have been notified that farmers of the county will send a delegation to confer with them on November 13 on the matter of tuberculosis tests for cows. They will have a state-man with them to explain the proposition. It is not known just what kind of a proposition the farmers wish to present, but it is presumed to be in connection with the financing of the tests.

Some queer things happen in politics. Peter Stratenwerth, who up to a year ago could not legally carry a shotgun in Pennsylvania, is now head of the bureau which handles hunting and fishing licenses for the state. Stratenwerth dropped the "Von" from in front of his name when he was naturalized a short time ago. Some Pennsylvania sportsmen who have given freely of their time and ability for the conservation of Pennsylvania game, and now in need of jobs, have been left out in the cold.

Deputy Sheriff Elmer Taylor has mailed out notices to persons who have been summoned as grand and petit jurors for the December term of criminal court. Two petit juries were drawn. The list was the last that will come out of the jury wheel until it is refilled with the thirteen hundred names which the jury commissioners have been directed to place in it for next year.

In the case of Sarah B. Frew and Joseph M. Frew against Charles A. Johnson and Marry L. Johnson, Jr., trading as Johnson Bros., the defense has presented a motion for a more specific statement of claim. It is claimed that plaintiffs aver the defendant's agent failed to stop at an intersection before entering a main highway, but failed to show that the highway alluded to was a "main" highway, also that the statement failed to set forth that it was the duty of the driver to stop. It is also alleged that there is no allegation that the car of the plaintiff arrived at the intersection ahead of truck owned by defendants. The case grows out of an automobile accident at an intersection.

Chief of Police A. A. Shoup of Bessemer, who was at the court house yesterday, says that a large force of men is now employed on an improvement to the state line road. Part of the road was improved last year, and the section on which the men are working is a little over a mile in length.

There was considerable speculation yesterday as to what effect a wet day would have on the election, especially the farmer vote. In the old days bad weather generally meant a light vote, especially if it had been wet for several days and the roads were bad. But today it's different, and the reason is better roads and easier methods of transportation.

There are very few farmers in Lawrence county today who may be said to be "back in the mud." If a concrete or a Pinchot road does not pass their place, the chances are that one is near, and that there is a gravel or ash road leading out to it. The result is that the farmer is no longer a victim to the vagaries of the weather man. No matter how hard it rains he can generally jump into the old bus, or maybe a 1935 model, and get anywhere he wants to go.

Consequently when election day rolls around, and it happens to be raining, it doesn't mean a thing to him and he is at the polls. The rain may keep him from working but it can't keep him from voting. The truth of this observation was demonstrated by the big vote cast in the rural communities yesterday.

Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard was called to several polling places yestoday to settle disputes that arose between voters and members of election boards. Most of the disputes were of a comparatively trivial nature and no blood was spilled.

Find Hillsville Boy Wounded In Accidental Way

Sustained Wounds To Left Hand When Gun Is Discharged As He Slipped

According to the story told hospital authorities yesterday afternoon, after recovering from the effects of the anaesthetic after he had undergone amputation of the little finger and third finger of his left hand, Sam DeBernardo, 17-year-old Hillsville boy admitted that he had accidentally shot himself.

DeBernardo stated that he had gone out to shoot crows, and that as he was walking through the field, his foot slipped and the gun, which he was carrying in his right hand was discharged, the charge striking him in the left hand

Frightened over the accident, he told his parents at first that he had been shot by someone else.

Rescue Mission Helped By Guild

The Needlework Guild asked the Rescue Mission to report their clothing needs so that they may be supplied as far as possible from this year's Ingathering, and the information was sent that inasmuch as many people go to the Mission who are not on relief many things would be appreciated.

Among these are men's clothing and underwear, clothing for girls from 8 to 18 years, women's dresses, underwear and towels. The Ingathering is Thursday, November 7.

Common Sense about HEADACHE

Usually a headache is due to high nerve tension. At such times all you need is a little Capudine. This remedy is very effective because it quickly soothes tense nerves and eases pain.

Of course headache may come from more serious sources. Sometimes it may be an abscessed tooth, or some underlying cause which only your family physician can discover. Meanwhile, avoid suffering as much as you can by using Capudine.

Capudine contains no narcotics. It acts quickly and gently. Ask for either Capudine Liquid or Capudine Brand Tablets.

Local Option Vote Is Mixed

Vote By Communities On Beer And Liquor Is "Quite Mixed"

(International News Service)

Pennsylvania's local option vote on the sale of beer and liquor appeared today to have been as much of a "mixed" affair as any cocktail that may ever be served in many of the 400-odd communties balloting on the question in yesterday's election.

In each case, the communities settling the controversial matter of public drinking were balloting on the respective issues before them for the first time since beer and liquor sales were legalized in 1933.

Many which had approved or rejected liquor a year ago, voted on beer alone yesterday, while the reverse was true for many others. Even less conprehensive than the scattering of voting points were the results themselves.

Communities which expressed their will for an end to either beer or liquor sales represented for the most part the smaller rural centers. Still other Pennsylvania hamlets gave unqualified endrosement to the existing system.

Armstrong County Goes Republican

(International News Service)

KITTANNING, Pa., Nov. 6.—Leads of large proportions were accorded Republicans in early returns of the Armstrong county election battle.

The race for positions on the county commission was the most keen, with two Democrats and two Republicans waging a bitter battle. Harry B. Rearig, and E. E. Schaeffer, Republicans, held slight leads, with Joseph Blair, Democrat, not far behind in third place.

Frank Rebolt, Republican, was leading in the county treasurer fight, while Roy Bowser, Republican, was ahead in the prothonotary race.

Uncle Sam would make a good League member. In that Manchurian episode, he proved his ability to talk big and do nothing.

Yet how friendly and nice the human race seems if you don't ask for anything or expect anything.

All other election battles, it was indicated, were going Republican by wide margins.

Today

Tuesday of next year will come on November 3.

AS SOON as the election results of today are known, Republicans and Democrats will let you know whether or not this year's election had any REAL bearing on the big election of 1936.

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, decided not to wait until after election and predicts victory for his party "on all major fronts," announcing the Roosevelt administration record as the main issue.

LIEUT.-GOV. A. B. (Happy) Chandler, of Kentucky, believing in high pressure campaign, has toured his state with a sound truck, carrying a huge red rooster, trained to crow and flap its wings. Lieut.-Gov. Chandler says if he and the rooster win, that will mean that the state is satisfied with the Roosevelt administration.

ADDIS ABABA reports Emperor Haile Selassie planning a trap for Italians. He would let them take Makale, on the way to Addis Ababa, then in the deep valleys and gorges of the high mountains on the road to Addis Ababa, he would release "a mighty offensive, wave after wave of Ethiopians on both flanks."

The Emperor hopes to repeat in the case of today's Italian soldiers the fate of their "fathers and grandfathers butchered at Adowa in 1896."

ADDIS ABABA reports "30 women, 15 children, 100 cows killed by an Italian airplane attack on Gorrahei." Such is the war that the world will see from now on.

In old wars, all the conquered men were killed, their children also, sometimes, "to wipe out the breed," by the conquerors. The women were taken as slaves.

Multiply the Gorrahei incident by a thousand, to read "30,000 women, 15,000 children, killed by air bombardment," and you will know what future war reports will say.

An air attack on such a city as New York, where it would be impossible for citizens to escape, might, with the help of explosives and poison gas, mean not 30 or 30,000, but 300,000 or more killed.

MECHANICAL and engineering genius make war difficult for backward people. Italians on their way to Makale used midget mechanical road scrapers and ditch diggers to smooth the road, with "dwarf" tanks, carrying machine guns, leading.

Airplanes flying overhead make any daytime surprise attack impossible.

WAR CHANGES "bedfellows" around so rapidly they hardly recognize the other. An editorial in the Giornale D'Italia attributed to Mussolini says:

Among the participants in the economic siege of Italy, Austria, Hungary and Germany are not found. We extend to them, our former enemies, our salute."

England will be surprised to hear that Frenchmen are organizing a corp of French volunteers to fight for Italy in East Africa. There seems to be a lack of 'close harmony."

ITALIAN school students in Rome arranged an intensely earnest demonstration of friendship for this country before the American embassy, even going so far as to attempt the 'Star Spangled Banner."

Students then scattered through the streets, indulging in anti-British riots, tearing down British signs.

ANOTHER earthquake shock in Helena, Montana, masonry, weakened by more than 800 shocks during the last three weeks, brought to the ground, no fatalities, fortunately. On Friday, next, November 8, forty-six years ago, Montana became one of the United States.

Fortunately, superstition no longer teaches men that earthquakes and comets are sent by Divine power to punish men for their sins and to frighten them.

WHEN THE women of Atzacan in Vera Cruz, Mexico, learned that newly-elected officials were going to hold a house-to-house search for concealed religious images, they called on three new officials, without waiting for the house-to-house search, and took clubs with them.

The Associated Press says the newly-elected officials left hurriedly when the invading women refused to stop even for troops that threatened to fire.

This protest by women against interference with religion in Mexico is ninety per cent Catholic, complete submission is hardly to be expected.

What Follows Boon-Doggling

Speculate Over What Can Be Tried If Industry Fails To Keep Pace

CAN'T APPROPRIATE MUCH MORE MONEY

Central Press
Washington Bureau
1900 S street

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—Boon-doggling at last is getting under way.

Three and one-half million of the unemployed rapidly are being absorbed by Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins' system of leaf-raking or similar artificially-created, semi-useless jobs on federally-paid subsistence wages.

It remains to be seen whether or not private industry speedily will absorb a corresponding 3,500,000 from unemployment's ranks at regular (not mere subsistence) wages.

That is what Administrator Hopkins and the White House are counting on, with Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes and many other folk skeptical.

HOW IT IS FIGURED OUT

If the plan works all will be well.

Three and one-half million federal boon-doggers! Three and one-half million of the involuntarily idle assimilated by private industry! Total, 7,000,000 hitherto unemployed workers provided for!

The executive mansion's experts have reckoned the number of unemployed of late at 10,000,000. Other authorities put the figure two or three million higher, but they do not know, any more than the administration's statisticians do. Assume, for the sake of argument, that the 10,000,000 figure is correct.

What of the 3,000,000, between 7,000,000 and 10,000,000?

Those 3,000,000, reason the New Dealers, not only are unemployed but also are unemployable—too old to work, crippled or otherwise incapacitated.

Such folk, say the New Dealers, are the various states, dependents, and it is up to the states, respectively, to care for them—except as they may be relieved of some of the load by small federal old age pensions, for example, under the social security law, which, incidentally, is under attack as unconstitutional.

PROBLEM SOLVED!

Take it, then, that:

1. The employable unemployed numbered only 7,000,000;

2. Private industry absorbs 3,500,000 of these, while federal boon-doggling temporarily is absorbing the balancing 3,500,000;

3. The states, among them, do provide for their own unemployables, subject to federal aid, and additionally subject to the qualification that the social security law may be held unconstitutional—

Why! the whole problem is solved—for the coming winter.

BUT IN 1936?

But the early summer of 1936?

By then the federal government's few billion dollars for boon-doggling will be exhausted. Three and one-half million of boon-doggers will be dumped into the labor market. What will they do to wages?

By that time, the administration insists, there will not be any boon-doggers; private industry will have absorbed them.

It is all based on the supposition that private industry will revive, offer better pay than boon-doggling, and that boon-doggling will gravitate into private industry for the sake of the greater reward.

SUPPOSE THERE IS FAILURE?

It is a perfect program—if it goes through.

But suppose private industry doesn't assimilate its expected 3,500,000?

Suppose also that the boon-doggling administration, its funds used up, has to unload 3,500,000 boon-doggers in June or July, 1936.

The administration can't risk this.

It will have to appropritae more billions, for more boon-doggling, at the next session of congress.

Appropriations, however, when they get too high, reach a point where they aren't worth so much. The higher they go, the less they yield—the "law of diminishing returns," as economists express it.

Senator Glass Enters Hospital

City Engineer Glenn R. Throop yesterday expressed himself as greatly pleased with the progress made by WPA employes on the several projects which the WPA is putting through for the city. He said the water line from Montgomery street into the Disposal Plant has been completed and is very satisfactory.. He also stated that the progress made on the stone wall along the Croton avenue hill has been fast and that excellent work is being done on the municipal buildings. There is due to get under way today the riprapping of Crawford Run. When this run became swollen it resulted in water pouring down into the State street sector. This washed debris into the section which caused a blockade in the storm sewer.

City Solicitor Robert M. White, underwent an operation for a throat ailment at Pittsburgh, Tuesday.

Real sorrow exists in city hall today over the death yesterday of Clayton Reeves who served two years as superintendent of streets and two years as superintendent of the safety department. Reeves was a very charitably inclined person and the writer knows personally of aid he rendered unfortunates. All the city employes liked Mr. Reeves, who previous to entering politics had been a salesman.

FIVE-POINT PLAN BOOSTS SALES

Minneapolis Honeywell Sales Increased, Costs Cut, by Planned Telephone Use

ARNOLD MICHELSON

Philadelphia, Oct. 12—"Sales can be materially increased and costs cut by the planned use of the telephone," declared Arnold Michelson, resident vice president of the Minneapolis Honeywell Regulator Company. The Minneapolis Honeywell Company, whose Philadelphia office is located at 2240 North Broad Street, is one of the largest manufacturers of temperature control equipment in the world.

"The telephone," Michelson stated, "has proved its value in our business. It plays a definite and essential part of our sales program."

Five Points of Plan Outlined

"Our telephone sales plan," continued Michelson, "involves five major points—making appointments, quoting prices, following up inquiries, routing service men and receiving orders from customers (on 'collect call' basis). No one of these is distinct or separate. They frequently overlap. A telephone call for an appointment, for example, may result in a sale or may make it possible for us to answer technical questions.

"Our salesmen make definite appointments by telephone before visiting prospects. As a result, they waste little or no time waiting for interviews. Obviously, this makes possible a real reduction in sales expense.

"For instance, one of our salesmen, recently telephoned for an appointment only to discover that it would not be possible for him to see the customer for a week. That $1.65 telephone call saved the salesman a fruitless trip and the company over $26 in traveling expenses.

"We also find it advantageous to quote prices by telephone, naturally followed by a formal confirmation. We thereby reach the right person at the right time and are able to discuss any details which need clarifying."

Telephone Used to Follow-Up Inquiries

"A third way in which we use the telephone is to follow up inquiries. Many such inquiries do not justify the expense which would be involved if a salesman were to visit the prospect. Yet orders would be lost in many cases if personalized telephone contact was not established immediately. The telephone solves the problem.

"We also use the telephone to supplement the regular routing of our service men. Each day after they have left the office with their daily assignment schedules, other calls for servicing are received. We like to take care of these cases as soon as possible. Therefore, our service men telephone the office twice daily and we give them as many of these additional assignments as can be economically fitted into the regular schedules. The telephone thus makes it possible for us to give our customers faster, better service.

"Collect Call" Plan Gets Orders

"Finally, we urge customers to place orders by telephone and offer to assume the cost of such calls. This 'collect call' feature of our five-point plan not only gives customers free access to our selling organization, but also speeds up deliveries by helping us to eliminate all misunderstandings about the articles desired at the time the orders are placed."

NAVAL NOTES

By M. L. NIXON
Naval Recruiter, Second Floor Federal Building

The first definite evidence of the governments new policy of permitting the people to see behind the scenes in the navy is displayed in the motion picture "Annapolis Farewell," a story laid in and around the United States naval academy at Annapolis, Md. Officials of the naval academy opened up all doors to the motion picture workers, gave sincere and practical co-operation, discarded red tape and in reality permitted the film unit to make pictures of everything in the academy which they wished to show on the screen. Fathers and mothers in every part of the United States will get an intimate knowledge of how the 1,700 youths in the naval academy are fed, trained and educated. The picture will show many things that the visitor to the academy could not see. Those who see the film will realize that in the naval academy the nation has probably the most efficient educational institution in the world. Lieut. John F. Newman, Jr., of the executive department of the naval academy was assigned to assist with the direction of the picture to insure that it was authentic. It is highly probable that two local youths, now in the academy will be seen in the picture.

Church services on board ship are held in a familiar "living compartment" closed off from the rest of the ship for the occasion. Church call is sounded on the bugle, all smoking and games cease about the stroke. The flag, a blue cross on a white ground is run up above the stars and stripes, the only flag that ever flows above our national colors. The navy's two allegiances, God and country.

Rocket Projectile Would Revolutionize Manner Of Fighting

(EDITOR'E: This is the second of two stories dealing with the development of the rocket. In it is revealed for the first time publicly the result of an experiment conducted eighteen years ago.—Ins.

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6—An American scientist perfected just prior to the end of the world war a rocket projectile that was highly mobile, and of terrifying power.

He was Dr. R. H. Goddard, this nation's foremost rocket expert. An experiment conducted by Dr. Goddard just two days prior to the Armistice, before scientific experts and the nation's warlords, was revealed to International News Service Tuesday by Dr. Charles G. Abbot, life long friend of Dr. Goddard and secretary of the Smithsonian institution.

On Proving Ground

The experiment was carried out at the Aberdeen proving grounds in Maryland.

A small crowd assembled in the heavily guarded proving grounds. Only those high in the councils of the nation's war chieftains were allowewd to come within sight of the little group.

Dr. Goddard brought with him a projectile which looked like a regular three inch artillery shell. Brass cartridge and all. It was comparatively light in weight. There was no gun, no carriage; simply this strange looking shell—a rocket.

Carefully, Dr. Goddard laid this shell on a wooden table which was resting on the ground. There was no bracing, no base against which the shell would recoil. A slender wire was attached.

Before the table was a bulwark of sandbags, used in the best trench defense, capable of stopping machine gun and army rifle bullets before two of the bags were penetrated.

All were quiet.

"Are you ready, gentlemen?" asked Dr. Goddard.

All were ready.

There was a low crackle of electricity, a loud swish. The brass shell of the rocket trembled, spurted fire, and the projectile hurtled outward, into the sandbags.

Three Sandbags

An examination revealed the rocket had penetrated three sandbags—and the light brass shell didn't even fall off the table!

"I saw that," Dr. Abbott told International News Service. "I was standing in the little group that watched the experiment."

And this was only a small rocket! Dr. Abbot left to the imagination the havoc that a heavier, larger rocket could effect. He said simply that that projectile virtually fired itself;—that no heavy, train carriage gun was necessary. Only a light, range finding carriage was needed to make the rocket a deadly, accurate projectile, with virtually unlimited range.

Two days after the experiment, the war was over. Dr. Abbot did not say whether Dr. Goddard later perfected this machine further and whether there now lies in the secret valuts of the war department a rocket projectile that is one of the government's vital war secrets.

(International News Service)

Storm signals whipped in the breeze along Florida's west coast today as the late season hurricane which lashed south Florida Monday recurved in the Gulf of Mexico and howled back toward the coast line.

Warnings were ordered up from Carabelle to Cedar Keys and United States Weather Bureau officials at Jacksonville predicted the hurricane, should its present path continue, will strike Florida again north of Tampa early this afternoon.

Caution was advised vessels along the Gulf coast as far west as the Mississippi river.

Have Leading Roles In Play

Merilynne Blank James Cavell

James Charles Cavell has been cast for the part of William Baxter, the title role in the senior high school's production of "Seventeen". William Baxter is an amateur adult who falls violently in love with a lisping young thing whom he calls his "baby-talk" lady. To her he incites cambric-tea poetry and for her he even tries to sing love songs to the accompaniment of disparaging remarks from his friends. Since these latter are as much infatuated with the same young lady as he is, bitter rivalry ensues. The ridiculous situations in which young Baxter finds himself through the failure of his parents to comprehend his great passion, the inquisitiveness of his small sister, and his own utter lack of balance in his emotions, make delightful comedy from the beginning of the first act to the end of the last act. James Cavell, who is thus the king-pin of the dramatic plot and who seems likely to give an excellent account of himself, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Cavell, Sr., of Sumner avenue.

Merilynne Blank plays the role of the type of young lady who has all the boys in her circle kneeling. As her moths flit about the flame, she has not the slightest interest in how many of them get singed. With her dog Flopit in her arms, she makes one conquest after another in rapid succession and then when she has set Willie Baxter and his friends by the ears, she abruptly gives her favors to a newcomer in the crowd and leaves her victims gasping with bewilderment as she rides off with the newcomer to catch her train for home. As Lola Pratt in this part of an outrageous flirt, Merilynne Blank plays opposite James Cavell and on them depend the dramatic situations in the play. Miss Blank is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blank of North Walnut street.

Reed Has Lead Over Wilson In Beaver County

(International News Service)

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 6.—Frank E. Reed, Republican, held a slight lead over Henry H. Wilson, Democrat, in the contest for a seat on the common pleas court bench, early returns showed today. The unusually large number of "split" tickets delayed tabulation of the vote.

Democratic Trend At Washington, Pa.

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 6.—Early returns in Washington county's election returns today indicated a Democratic trend in all races except those of district attorney and register of wills.

Warren S. Burchinal, Republican incumbent district attorney, held a lead over James C. Bane, Democrat, in scattered returns, while Raymond E. Goodridge, Republican, was leading S. A. Barum, Democrat, in the race for the register of wills post.

In the county commissioner battle with three to be elected, two Democrats, Earl B. Amos and John D. Berryman, were the leading figures, with John N. O'Neil, Republican, in third place.

Hear Eberhart Again As Lions Club Speaker

Former Governor A. O. Eberhart, of Minnesota, now a special representative for the Federal Housing Administration at Washington, came to New Castle yesterday and told the Lions club and its guests at The Castleton that the "people of the United States are now recognizing that the Federal Housing act is the one sound way to bring about national recovery."

The Lions club brought Governor Eberhart here and invited to their luncheon-meeting to hear him the Rotarians and Kiwanians and other prominent business and professional men. Attorney William D. Cobau, head of the Lions, presided over the program.

"What we've got to do," the Minnesota chief executive said during the course of an address in which he reviewed the FHA activities of the past year, "is to convert our relief roll into a payroll without any cost to the taxpayers."

Mr. Eberhart, a Republican, was the lieutenant governor of his state when he succeeded to the governor's chair when his predecessor died. Then he was elected for two full terms.

For the past few years he has been making his home in the city of Chicago.

The "hesitating" spirit that a few sections of the United States have manifested in their relation with the FHA was compared with the "cooperative" spirit that exists in most regions. Bankers were praised for their "active and kindly cooperation" and their continued cooperation was asked.

The audience heard the FHA ambassador-at-large declare that of the 500,000 loans made to date only 400 defaults have been recorded.

Pointing out that the FHA is not out in competition with insurance companies, Governor Eberhart emphasized that the FHA is "a business proposition which appeals to the business interests" and is permitting business "to prosper against certain losses."

"This act, the record will show," he added in conclusion, "that the Federal Housing act has produced satisfactorily throughout the nation." He called home-building one of the most "important of functions for the restoration of prosperity."

Marcus Feuchtwanger, administrator here for the FHA, introduced the former governor. The Rev. D. L. Ferguson, pastor of Highland U. P. church and a member of the Lions club, gave the invocation. W. O. "Red" Williams was in charge of the song period and Daniel Heitger played the piano.

The Chamber of Commerce, through Secretary Alfred W. Chilton, cooperated with the Lions in bringing the government spokesman here. Just a year ago he spoke to a community audience at the Cathedral.

Gives Credit For League Action To British Fleet

By H. K. REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 6. — Winston Churchill, former First Lord of the Admiralty, who is said to be slated for reappointment to that post in the next cabinet, today credited British fleet increases in the Mediterranean for firm action by the league of nations.

His defense of the presence of the augmented fleet there came during intense diplomatic activity, in which it appeared Britain and Italy were both jockeying to win the first concession.

"The fleet made the world sit up and take notice," Churchill said. "Three or four months ago the league was almost a mockery, but now it has become a reality.

"The real explanation of the great rise in the power of the league has been that behind it in this matter has been the Royal Navy.

"The fleet is not going to be used except collectively in accordance with the decisions of the league, but its presence in the Mediterranean raised the whole life of the league, and made this great experiment of rule by law and arbitration into a reality which is a far greater cause of anxiety to the Italian dictator than any movements of the Negus's army."

Shields Leading In Mayor Fight At Johnstown, Pa.

Mayor Eddie McCloskey Running Fourth For County Commissioner

(International News Service)

JOHNSTOWN, Po., Nov. 6.—Daniel J. Shields, outspoken independent candidate who during prohibition days was convicted of violating the liquor laws, today appeared to have won the mayoralty campaign on the basis of virtually complete but unofficial returns.

Shields, who was granted clemency by President Hoover just as he was to begin serving a one-year jail term, was running ahead of H. S. Bender, Democrat, and W. I. Hurst, Republican.

Vigorous and fiery, Shields was fined $25 in police court on a disorderly conduct arising out of his election campaign. He was defeated for the Republican nomination by Hurst and in yesterday's election defeated Hurst in the latter's own bailiwick.

Red-headed Eddie McCloskey, the present mayor, was running fourth in a field of five in the county commissioner race on the basis of early returns.

Storm May Hit Florida Coast Near Tampa Now

(International News Service)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 6.—The late, out-of-season tropical hurricane which swept across the southeastern coast to Florida Monday leaving a death toll of five known dead and 139 injured, is "fairly certain" to strike the Florida coast again somewhere above Tampa, Grady Norton, meteorologist of the United States weather bureau, said today.

Norton stated, however, that it would be impossible for the storm, recurving in the Gulf of Mexico, to reach the coast in less than 24 hours. He also said he expected it to gain intensity on its backtrack.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This Remedy at Home
No Cooking! No Work! Real Saving!

You'll never know how quickly a bad winter cough can be relieved, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in more homes than any other cough remedy, because it gives more prompt, positive results. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Syrup is easily made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. This gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money, and it's a much better remedy. It never spoils and tastes fine.

Instantly you feel its penetrating effect. It loosens the phlegm, helps clear the air passages, and soothes the irritated membranes. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief in distressing coughs.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its soothing effect on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

TO MAKE NO U. S. ADVANCE PROMISES TO LEAGUE

Government Is Wary On Subject

Will Make No Definite Commitment On Shipment Of Oil To Italy

SEEKING TO MAKE UNCLE SAM THE GOAT?

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service
Staff Correspondent
Copyright, 1935, by International News Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—This government will refuse to make any advance promise to the league of nations to join in prohibiting the shipment of oil and other key war products to Italy.

This was learned definitely following Geneva reports that the league intended to ask this government to promise active cooperation in banning the shipment of those products to Italy.

The league request has not yet been made. There was good reason to believe the league would do well to refrain from making it. If made, it will be doomed to failure insofar as any defeinite commitments are concerned. Furthermore, the American reply is not likely to be satisfactory to Geneva.

Suspicious Of Motives

In the first place, this government does not feel it has the authority to make any such commitments to the league. In the second place, officials are inclined to be somewhat suspicious of the motives which would prompt the league to make such a request at this time.

Some of the league powers, particularly France, are known to be far from enthusiastic about imposing any drastic sanctions against Italy. It would not surprise official quarters here if those reluctant powers were seeking to find an excuse for side-stepping the imposition of drastic sanctions, and had hit upon the idea of making America the "Goat".

If this government should be compelled to point to the fact it has no legal authority to join in such sanctions, those league powers might use such apparent lack of American cooperation as an excuse for not participating in the more drastic league sanctions, and, at the same time, hold the United States to blame for Europe's failure to enforce peace.

U. S. For Actual Peace

If certain league powers are seeking such an "out." They are likely to get it from this government if they ask for it.

The state department has no troubled conscience as yet concerning its cooperation with the league in the present European war crisis. The United States from the beginning has been ahead of the league powers in actual peace moves. It was the first to slap down an arms embargo and up to the present actually has done more than any other nation to discourage trade with Italy.

Furthermore, the view prevails here that the dominant influences at Geneva know, or should know, that if the league actually put into effect an embargo covering oil, coal and other key products and it became apparent this country was the only nation seriously interfering with the effectiveness of that embargo, then this government would be disposed to do something about it. But the state department is not disposed to engage in what it regards as "paper" sanctions.

Therefore, there is no disposition even to hesitate in turning down the league request for advance commitments.

As to the nature of an American reply to such a request, the view prevails at the moment it probably would merely cite the president's neutrality statements and possibly point out the government's limited power under the neutrality act. Thus, it would ignore once again a league move to obtain advance commitments from this government concerning how far it was prepared to go in backing league action against Italy.

School Physician Must Go To Games

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Nov. 6.—The attendance of the school physician at all athletic contests of local high school teams will be required in the future, as the result of action taken by the board of education. The plan was suggested by Principal H. M. B. Lehn, following the death of Frank Wolford from a heart attack while playing football against Sharon high school here October 19.

Although it was found that every precaution had been taken, in the way of frequent physical examinations for high school athletes, the board agreed that the presence of the school physician at all games was a desirable added precaution in the prevention of after-effects from injuries.

THEY ride with greater safety in the new Ford for 1936. It's not so much that V-8 engine power and pick-up whisk them clear of traffic tangles—although this, too, helps make the new Ford a safer as well as a more thrilling car to drive.

But it's mainly because every feature of the new Ford measures up to the standard of V-8 engine quality. The Ford Motor Company was not satisfied to put an engine from the luxury class in a car selling as low as $510. It insisted that everything else be in keeping with the fine-car quality beneath the hood—safety, as well as roominess and comfort.

Makale Re-Taken By Ethiopians In Fierce Fighting

Italians March Into Makale, But Hold City Only Few Hours

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Killing ten Italians and capturing four, Abyssinian warriors recaptured Makale a few hours after it fell into Italian hands, dispatches from Addis Ababa today said.

"A large Italian force under Col. Zagaye entered Makale from Adigrat and took the town last night," according to an official Ethiopian communique, telegraphed by Exchange.

Report 10 Killed.

"Later the Ethiopians attacked and drove out the Italians, killing ten and capturing four.

Abyssinians still hold Makale today, Reuters said.

According to that agency, the defenders of Makale, objective of the present Italian drive on the north, telephoned to Addis Ababa that the troops under Zagaye were native Eritreans.

Reconnoitering far ahead of the main Italian forces, they walked unopposed into Makale, dispatches said.

Wait Till Dark.

The Ethiopian government also claimed, according to Reuters, that two Italian airplanes had been brought down in the Webbe Shibeli region on the southern front.

A Roman report that an attempt has been made to assassinate Emperor Haile Selassie was officially denied in Addis Ababa as a "malicious fantasy".

Selassie Plans Fight.

The Daily Mail said the emperor may go to Dessye, headquarters for defensive operations on the northern front, Thursday, although he is contemplating a flying visit to Harar, in the east, first.

Italian army leaders in the Eritrean sector are becoming gravely concerned over a possible gasoline shortage, according to a Daily Telegraph dispatch from Aden, quoting travelers from Massaua. The present supply is said to be sufficient for only six weeks' operations.

Republican nominees for the offices of treasurer and register and recorder were leading their Democratic opponents.

Why You Should ver Cut a Corn

If you are troubled with corns or callouses, do not run the risk of blood poison by paring them. Statistics show that many infections have occurred from this seemingly innocent practice of paring corns.

Simply go to your druggist and get a few cents worth of Ice-Mint, rub a little on any painful corn or callous. Immediately the pain will disappear and in a short time the corn or callous will loosen and lift off easily with the fingers—root and all—leaving the surrounding skin in a healthy normal condition.

This, together with the fact that Ice-Mint overcomes such affections as sore, tired, aching, puffed or burning feet and makes them cool, easy and comfortable, is probably responsible for the hearty endorsement given it by druggists

To rid one's feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes or painful callouses in such a pleasant and safe way, makes it seem the height of folly for anyone to pare a corn and people are warned to stop it.

Democrats Win In Westmoreland County

(International News Service)

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 6.—For the first time in history, Democrats gained control of a majority of offices in Westmoreland county, early returns indicated today.

In only two offices, those of sheriff and coroner, did Republican victories seem imminent on the basis of incomplete returns. In those races, James Keating, Republican, was apparently the winner over Peter Kopesak, Democrat, for sheriff while Dr. H. Albert McMurray, Republican, was leading his Democratic opponent, Edward W. Clark, for the coroner's post.

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., Nov. 6.—Police are investigating today the manner in which Mrs. Frances Barnes Hedglin, aged 32 years, of Mercer, received fatal injuries on the Perry highway last night.

She was struck by a truck, allegedly operated by Raymond Shaffer, of Pardoe, at a late hour in the night, while walking along the highway north of Mercer, and received a fractured skull. Shaffer is said to have told officers that he saw the woman walking toward him at the side of the road and when his truck was too close to avoid an accident she stepped directly in front of it.

Coroner William Applegate is assisting in the investigation.

The victim leaves her husband, John, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barnes, of Mercer.

ACCIDENT VICTIM RECOVERING NICELY

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Marks, R. D. 1, were called to Butler where their daughter, Josephine, is confined in the Butler County Memorial hospital, following an auto accident November 1, near Bakerstown.

Miss Marks suffered a fracture of one vertabra, a partial fracture of the pelvis, a broken rib and other injuries. She will be confined to the hospital for the next three weeks, but is getting along nicely.

The car in which the accident figured, belonged to her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fleeger. In some manner, the driver last control and the car was ditched making a turn. Miss Marks who was in the back seat, was thrown to the floor.

Daniel Fleeger, a brother, riding in the seat with her, was slightly hurt, but was able to return home after receiving attention. The car was badly smashed.

Herbert A. Mook, Republican, held a safe margin of votes over his Democratic opponent, S. J. Thomas, in the district attorney fight while Ralph B. Brown was indicated as winner of the race for prothonotary.

Duke Of Gloucester Takes Bride Today

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Lady Alice Montagu-Douglas Scott and the Duke of Gloucester, third son of King George V and Queen Mary, were married shortly before noon today in the chapel of Buckingham Palace.

A crowd of admiring thousands outside cheered enthusiastically as the news that the ceremony had been performed was relayed to them.

The Prince of Wales was best man. The bride's brother, the new Duke of Buccleuch, gave her in marriage.

Lady Alice had driven to Buckingham Palace with her brother in a glass coach down Constitution Hill from her family's Mayfair house through cheering throngs.

Rare November sunshine greeted her as she came into the street to enter the coach. Her ivory satin gown emphasized her brunette beauty and her happy smile stimulated the enthusiasm of the crowd.

One slender arm was lost in the sleeve of her stalwart brother resplendent in the scarlet uniform of the Grenadier guards. The other held her bridal bouquet. She poised for a moment on the threshold then tripped down the steps to the coach.

Taylor Enthused Over G. O. P. Victory

Republican Party Chairman Declares Administration Of State Rebuked

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 6.—Republican State Chairman M. Harvey Taylor, heralding his party's triumph in yesterday's election as a repudiation and "humiliation" of Gov. George H. Earle, this afternoon predicted the Republican state ticket would show a 200,000 majority over New Deal candidates.

Taylor's victor statement came as complete returns from Philadelphia upheld the election of City Controller S. Davis Wilson to the mayoralty post there by a 47,000 majority over John B. Kelly, Democrat. Other Republican city hall candidates rode into office with Wilson on the wave of anti-New Deal sentiment.

"The great Republican victory in Philadelphia and the state as a whole," the GOP leader stated, "convinces me that next year Pennsylvania will not only go heavily Republican for president and congress, but that we shall elect a Republican senate and house."

Governor Earle and the New Deal have been repudiated "in the governor's own language," Taylor asserted, adding that henceforth the governor "may be regarded as a minority executive without authority to speak for a majority of the people of the state." He concluded:

"This is the first time in the history of Pennsylvania that a governor has been so humiliated in the first year of his administration."

If a funnel is placed over a tumbler and the eggs cracked into it, one at a time, it is easy to keep yolk and white apart.

DEMOCRATS SEE STORM SIGNALS AHEAD IN 1936

show a Republican victory, politicians were agreed today that yesterday provided a Democratic storm signal for 1936, indeed.

Return To Normalcy

Discounting much of the Republican rejoicing and Democratic alibi-ing, neutral observers were cautious, however, about reading too much significance in the New York and Philadelphia results. To many, it appeared that the political pendulum, which has swung so violently Democratic since 1932, has begun a slow and inevitable swing backward in the direction of political normalcy. The Democrats have controlled the New York assembly only once in 24 years; they haven't had a mayor of Republican Philadelphia since 1881, a stretch of more than fifty years.

Therefore, the Democrats were inclined today to shrug off the outcome in New York and Pennsylvania as "The Dutch Capturing Holland." However, the fact remains that insofar as New York is concerned, the Republicans "re-captured" Mr. Roosevelt's own state in a contest which the Republicans insisted upon throughout was a test of the Roosevelt New Deal. And the Republicans retained Philadelphia in a contest which was featured by the injection of the question of the national administration's popularity.

Drift Toward G. O. P.

In a national sense, and in terms of the 1936 presidential election, the outcome strengthened the belief that the political drift along the Atlantic seaboard and in the east generally is away from the Roosevelt administration, and that if Mr. Roosevelt is to be re-elected next year he will have to look west of the Alleghenies.

The Democrats by no means concede this, but the Republicans are confident of it. The Republicans believe the drift away from "Washington spending" and "Roosevelt experimenting" is so strong in the eastern states that they can afford to devote most of their attention in the next nine months to cultivating the mid-west and west. They take yesterday's scattered—and by no means conclusive—balloting as confirming their theory in this respect.

Yet, with some plausibility, the Democrats retort that Republican re-capture of the assembly is by no means a clear indication that New York is lost to Mr. Roosevelt next year. They point out that even in the Democratic landslide of 1932, when Mr. Roosevelt carried New York by more than a half a million, the Republicans still won the assembly and beat him in his own district, as they did yesterday. It is no uncommon occurrence, they point out, for a Democratic presidential candidate to carry New York while the Republicans carry the assembly, And in that respect history bears them out.

Farley Interested

If Kentucky returns a Democratic governor today, as seems likely, indicating that the Democratic administration is still strong in the midwest, then "Big Jim" Farley will still wear his famous smile, notwithstanding the New York and Philadelphia indicators.

For both parties, yesterday means a tightening of belts, and intensified efforts.

A year from this week, the country will go about electing a president. The Republicans enter the last year more encouraged than they have been since 1930; the Democrats confident, but at the same time forewarned by yesterday's straws that they may expect no walk-aways such as they had in 1932 and 1934.

Ohio Republicans Also Victorious

Democrats Get Big Jolt In Result Of Election In Cleveland, O.

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 6.—Ohio Republican leaders today hailed their success in a majority of local elections as evidence of a trend away from New Deal policies.

While they admitted there was no sharply drawn issue challenging national and state Democratic administrations, they pointed to G. O. P. victories in scores of major cities, hitherto Democratic, as an indication that Ohio is turning back to the Republican fold.

Severest jolt to the Democrats occurred in Cleveland, where Harold Bolton, Republican, ran up an imposing majority over Ray T. Miller, Democrat. Gov. Martin L. Davey had publicly endorsed Miller.

League Committee Meets Secretly

Meet To Consider Resolution Drawn Up By Transit Subcommittee

(International News Service)

GENEVA, Nov. 6.—The league of nations "general staff" committee of 18 on sanctions met secretly late today to consider a resolution drawn up by the transit subcommittee aimed at preventing goods reaching Italy by round-about channels.

The resolution asks league members to control the destination and volume of embargoed goods exported by them.

The committee of 18 also considered a fresh proposal not to include books, newspapers, music and similar articles in the goods embargoed under the sanctions against Italy.

The French also proposed that contracts concluded before October 19 and of which a minimum of 20 percent has already been paid, should not be included under the sanctions. This suggestion was also taken up by the general staff.

CRICKET STORM INVADING EAST

(International News Service)

ARLINGTON COURT HOUSE, Va., Nov. 6.—The cricket, immemorial enemy of the Plains States, today was enjoying considerable success in an attack upon the effete East.

Thousands of the voracious insects, rising from the county dump, have invaded the homes in Lyon Park, smart suburb, and are wreaking large damage, particularly through destruction of valuable clothing.

Federal authorities reported the pests were born and bred in the refuse of the dump during the warm summer months and now, as cooler weather sets in, are moving to more comfortable quarters.

Housewives are busy with fly-swatters and poison-sprays, while county authorities have promised to cover the dump with fresh dirt.

Sunday Movies Are Defeated In Some Cities

Philadelphia And Pittsburgh Turn In Large Majorities For Sunday Shows

HARRISBURG TUNS PROPOSITION DOWN

(International News Service)

Sunday movie local options throughout Pennsylvania in yesterday's election today returned a strange conglomeration of victory and defeat for forces attempting to liberalize the state's blue laws of 1794 by legalizing a strictly indoor commercial amusement.

Little geographical or population sense could be detected in partial returns, although generally speaking most of the larger communities favored opening the cinemas after 2 a. m. on the Sabbath.

Philaedlphia apparently returned the heaviest majority in favor of movies, voting four to one. Pittsburgh turned in a three-to-one vote for movies and most of more than a score of other Allegheny county communities voting on the issue balloted favorably.

Counteracting this, however, was defeat of the question in Harrisburg by a two-to-one vote, in York, Lancaster, Hazleton, Allentown, Bethlehem, Doylestown, Norristown and more than a score of other communities of similar size.

A goodly share of the western Pennsylvania communities voting on the issue favored having their Mickey Mouse both on the silver screen and in the newspaper comic sections on Sunday, Meadville, Warren, Bradford, DuBois, Punxsutawney, Kane, Sharon and Ambridge being examples.

Turn Thumbs Down.

Many communities in the state's coal belts—both hard and soft—turned thumbs down on movies with few exceptions, notably Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, the two largest anthracite cities, and most other points in the northern field. Shamokin, Mt. Carmel and Sunbury were representative of the general apportionment in the lower field, while Ashland stayed away to the pro-movie camp in a close vote.

Uniontown, Connellsville, Brownsville, Greensburg and Somerset were among communities in the soft coal field voting to continue in effect the ban against Sunday movies which has existed since the birth of the nickelodeon.

Sees Rebuke Of New Deal In U. S.

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—John Hampton Barnes, president of the American Liberty League of Pennsylvania, today viewed the election results throughout the state as "an emphatic disapproval of the Roosevelt new deal legislation and policies".

"The Pennsylvania league is a non-partisan organization." Barnes said, "but it has unqualifiedly opposed and will continue to oppose the usurpation of private and states rights by federal agencies sponsored by the Roosevelt administration."

Insane Man Wrecks Train After Battle On Cab Of Engine

(International News Service)

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6.—Apparently insane, a man believed to be named Webb Carr was overpowered and arrested Tuesday after attacking an engineer in the cab of a Western Maryland railroad engine and driving the eight-car train backwards into a loading platform.

F. R. Skinner, the engineer, was bringing the train slowly into the yards when the man leaped into the cab, knocked him down, and gripped his throat.

"Which one is it? Which one is it?" The engineer's assailant screamed, according to Skinner.

Into Reverse

Leaping up, the man grabbed the throttle and threw the engine into reverse, full speed.

B. W. Grove, fireman, who was in the tender at the time, felt the backward motion of the train and leaped into the cab, temporarily overpowered the man, and applied the air brakes. His action was a trifle late and the train smashed into the loading platform, splintering it and knocking down several beams.

A crew of workmen, who jumped from the path of the train, entered the cab and succeeded in subduing the man, who was taken into custody by police for questioning. He refused to divulge his name, but authorities said he was Carr, a 35-year-old transient who came to Baltimore early today.

Day Old Infant Has Set Of Teeth

(International News Service)

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 6.—The one-day-old daughter of Mrs. Mildred Armstrong had an appointment with a dentist today!

Born with a full set of teeth, the six-pound baby, held in awe by members of the medical profession, was forced to relinquish all but two of her teeth because they were crooked.

Physicians who examined the infant said it was the first time in local medical history a baby had been born with a full set of teeth.

The child's father is Lieut. Robert Armstrong, U. S. N.

PROPRIETOR OF CLUB ARRESTED

Steven DeMassie, said to be the operator of the Belmont club at 9 East Cherry street, Seventh Ward, was arrested Tuesday by County Detective A. Sharp Leslie and state police on a charge of setting up and maintaining a gambling device.

He was taken before Alderman James C. Brice, who held him for a hearing on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

McGovern Trailing In Allegheny County

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6.—Despite a telegram from former Governor and Mrs. Gifford Pinchot wishing him luck, Colonel Charles C. McGovern, running for re-election as county commissioner on the Square Deal ticket, today was trailing far behind his opponents, according to unofficial returns.

McGovern actively supported the former governor in his former campaigns.

FISHED IN THROAT FOR FALSE TEETH

(International News Service)

GENOA—An unusual operation has been performed at the Hospital of St. Martin, on a man who swallowed his false teeth. The victim, a workman named Tizio, was brought to the hospital with his plate, consisting of four teeth, embedded in his gullet. The throat expert, Professor Pallestrini, after an X-ray examination, located the offending teeth and extracted them with a slender instrument thrust down the man's throat.

NEW CASTLE FACES TOUGH GAME SATURDAY

MARTINS FERRY HIGH IS PRIMED FOR "HURRICANES"

New Castle High Hopes For Victory In First Meeting Of Teams

Plan For "New Castle Day," Game To Start At 2:30 O'Clock

INDICATIONS point to the biggest crowd of the past several years at Taggart Stadium Saturday afternoon when Martins Ferry, Ohio High "Purple Riders" come to New Castle to meet the New Castle "Red Hurricanes", football machine. It is estimated that upwards of 10,000 fans will jam their way into the beautiful football arena. The kickoff is scheduled for 2:30 o'clock.

Gala festivities by the "New Castle Day" committee will tend to while the minutes away until the football boys trot out to go through their paces. Fireworks and bombs will be exploded. There will be a flag raising ceremony. Two very fine bands New Castle High and Martins Ferry High will play. The stadium will be a riot of color.

Both Teams Anxious

From the confines of Martins Ferry comes the word that Coach Frank Loucks is giving his "Purple Riders" special drilling this week, for the big encounter at New Castle. The Lousksmen are very anxious to make a good showing in their invasion of Pennsylvania.

New Castle High grid warriors on the other hand are just as anxious to make a creditable showing against their big powerful Ohio foes. Martins Ferry will have a weight advantage of about 10 or 15 pounds per man it is understood.

Two Injured

It is hoped that Dal Mumford the extraordinary kicker will be back in the lineup at quarterback. Mumford was injured in the Charleroi game and had to be carried off the field, with a badly injured hip. The injury is not responding to treatment as readily as it should. There is a possibility that the boy will have to watch the proceedings this week from the bench. Filbert Nocera, the right end was also carried off the field at Charleroi and has a badly bruised ankle. The possibility of Nocera starting the game Saturday is very remote.

Outside of these two boys the New Castle team is in the best of shape for the gruelling battle that is sure to take place when the schoolboys face each other across the white-chalked surface. Head Coach Phil Bridenbaugh has given the New Castle boys a lot of new pass formations this week.

Lots Of Tricks

If New Castle wins Saturday it is going to be by trick football and not by sheer power. The Ohioans will bring a stalwart team here. It is one of the biggest teams in Eastern Ohio. Bridenbaugh knows that it will be a few "foolers" that will turn the trick, and score touchdowns.

Robert "Flash" Engs, the colored speedster is being given special grooming this week, so is Eddie Donegan, the other halfback, and a dangerous man at all times. Domenick "Gabby" DeCaprio, the big Italian boy will hold down the fullback post. DeCaprio is improving with every game.

Watch Orend-Bennett

M. Orend and Bennett are the big shots in the Martins Ferry High backfield and will, from all reports, these two boys will cause the "Hurricane" a lot of uncomfortable moments. M. Orend is a real triple-threat man being a fine passer, punter and ball toter.

Martins Ferry and New Castle are warming up to this game like no other game. It is the talk of both towns. They take their football very seriously in both cities. A crowd of perhaps 2,000 will follow the "Purple Riders" from Martins Ferry, by auto, bus, trucks, hitchhiking and special train.

Gigantic Plans For Saturday At Taggart Stadium

Chairman Ed Raney Meets With "New Castle Day" Committee

A celebration the likes of which New Castle has not seen since the armistice awaits the crack of dawn here Saturday when Martins Ferry, O., high invades New Castle for their first grid battle.

Chairman Ed Raney of the "New Castle Day" committee is enthusiastic over the results of the meeting held at the Sporting Goods store last night. Final plans were completed and will be published in The News on Thursday evening.

Word comes from the tin mill at Martins Ferry that the hot mill turn has been regulated so that the mill men can get through with their turn at midnight Friday and make the trip to New Castle Saturday morning on the special train.

Earl Thompson, former New Castle boy, is the superintendent of the Laughlin works of the A. S. & T. P. at Martins Ferry. He is cooperating in every way in the success of the football game to be played at New Castle.

There is genuine enthusiasm being displayed in both towns. Latest word from Martins Ferry says that upwards of 3,000 fans will follow the Purple Riders to New Castle.

Mr. Bauman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bauman, 306 Winter avenue, New Castle, Pennsylvania.

Lincoln Five Names DeCapro

Domenick Gabby DeCaprio, star fullback for the New Castle high football team, has been elected as captain of the Lincoln basketball team for the coming season.

DeCaprio was a member of last year's Lincoln quintet which rang up an enviable record, winning 33 games and losing but four. Frank Leonard, former Thiel College passer, will again coach the South Side quintet. The team will be composed of Louis Leonard, Alfred, Conti, Conglose, Yerage, Gennock, Jebbia, Ross, Turco Prosser and Gairdo.

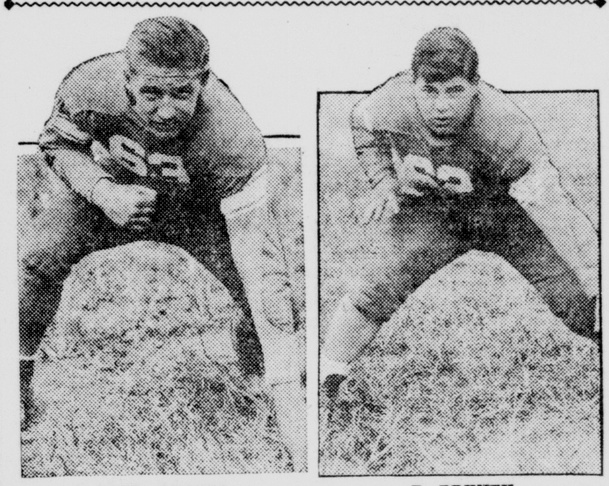
Powerful Ohio Tackles



CAPT. GROAZA B. BRUNEY

Seen above are the two big powerful tackles on the Martins Ferry, Ohio, high football machine that will play here Saturday afternoon against the New Castle High "Red Hurricanes" at Taggart stadium. Both are veteran tackles and weigh near the 190 pound mark. A lot of the power and drive of the Loucks team is derived from this pair of excellent tackles. They will oppose Frank Crisci and Charley Probst on the New Castle line.

Union Can Tie For Grid Title With Victory

Union High To Battle Hard To Upset Shenango High Friday

Here is a funny situation Union High football team can tie for the county football championship if they defeat Shenango High. This was all brought about by the Union-Bessemer 0-0 contest, and the Bessemer victory over Shenango. The Union-Shenango embroglio will take place at Union High field at 2:15 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Head Coach Davey Boyd had the Unionites at the field until darkness last night, trying to perfect a forward pass defense for the Shenango game. The Phelpsmen of East New Castle have a featured passing attack this season and will cause Union a little trouble via the aerials.

Watch Passes

The Unionites have had a tough time all year in breaking up passes, but "just watch the Blue and White boys smother those passes this week", was the statement from Coach Boyd.

Shenango hopes to upset the Union apple-cart this year. Shenango was all set for the county championship until they hit that powerful Bessemer High team coached by J. K. Fredericks. In fact Union was all set too to grab off the county toga this season, but that 0-0 split with Bessemer was a big headache.

In event of good weather Friday the Union High field will see the biggest crowd of the year, according to Faculty Manager Burkhart.

The proportion hasn't changed. Of the earth's first three men, one was a sucker and one soured by envy.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Ray Foutts, manager of Teddy Yarosz, former middleweight champion of the world, who is seeking the unpaid balance of $4,783 Yarosz purse for his fight with Babe Risko at Pittsburgh last September, may not have to go to court, according to indications. It is reported the tangle may be settled at a meeting of the State Athletic Commisison on Thursday. Meanwhile, Ted is in Phildaelphia where Dr. J. R. Moore, orthopedic surgeon at Temple U hospital, recognized the injury to Ted's knee as a torn anterior cruciate ligament. Yarosz will be in shape following a delicate operation for a crack at the titleholder again.

Walter Podolok, Polish-American of Syracuse, N. Y., has been matched to wrestle Jim McMillen of Illinois football fame in the semi-final to the main bout between Sergi Kalmikoff, 270-pound bearded Russian, and Hans Kampher, German champion, at Pittsburgh, Thursday night.

Jack Sharkey does not consider Joe Louis a great fighter and believes he can beat the Detroit Bomber, he said at Boston yesterday, where he is training for an attempt to come back in a bout with Unknown Winston at Boston November 22. Sharkey believes that if he can beat Winston then get over Louis he will win the heavyweight title again. James J. Braddock holds the crown Sharkey once held.

TIME FOR BLASTING STACK NOT YET KNOWN

When the tall Rosena furance stack will be blasted down had not been decided upon today by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation.

The company recently announced that it would raze the 185-foot concrete pillar. Bids for the demolition were asked.

COLLEGE GRID NOTES IN BRIEF

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6.—Convinced that the best defense is a good offense, Coach Jock Sutherland sent his Pitt Panthers plodding through the mire today learning the fundamentals of a seige and attack for the coming Army maneuvers. The Jungle Cats primed to half the meanderings of Monk Meyer, sensational triple-threat halfback of the Cadets.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6.—Following a light workout this afternoon, the rejuvenated night-riders of Duquesne University will entrain tonight for Stillwater, Okla., for Saturday's struggle with the Oklahoma compunchers. After unexpectedly upsetting the Carnegie Tech applecart, Coach Christy Flanagan's lads were determined to end the season in a blaze of glory.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 6.—Coach Howard Harpster sent his proteges from Carnegie Tech through gruelling sessions today in preparation for the Holy Cross tilt on Saturday when they again resume the familiar underdog role. The Skiboes were down in the dumps once before this season and rose to the occasion by trouncing the Purdue boilermakers, and hope to invade Worcester, Mass., with the same object in mind.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Frank Mauttee, fleet right half, is the only absentee from Fordham practice as the Rams prepare for St. Mary's invasion Saturday. Mautte will be ready for the Gaels, however, being out with a cold. A long defensive drill took up the Maroon's time yesterday, with the scrubs scrimmaging the varsity.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Development of a defense against Syracuse passes occupied the Columbia varsity today. Forecasters predict the 15th game between the two old rivals will turns out to be a private duel between Al Barabas, the Light Blue's broken field star, and Vannie Albanese, Syracuse's ace ballcarrier.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 6.—Army's footballers faced a strenuous session this afternoon as Coach Gar Davidson prepared the squad for Pittsburgh Saturday. In a long drill yesterday, the Cadets were put on the defensive against Panther plays.

Notre Dame May Turn Down Offer To Play On Coast

Notre Dame More Inclined To Play Southern Methodist In New Orleans

ALUMNI PRESSURE BROUGHT TO BEAR

By TOM THORP
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Notre Dame may turn a deaf ear to an invitation to play in the Rose Bowl in order to meet Southern Methodist in the second annual Sugar Bowl Classic at New Orleans on New Year's day.

While no official announcement can be expected at this time, it is known the South Bend authorities are not inclined to have their grid team engage in two intersectional games with far western rivals to the exclusion of not playing at least one of the great teams of the south or southwest. There is a very strong sentiment for the Irish to accept the invitation to the Sugar Bowl.

Notre Dame plays Southern California three weeks hence. While it is admitted the Trojans are far from a championship outfit, yet they represent the Pacific coast.

Alumni Request

Another factor said to have influenced the South Bend authorities to play in the Sugar Bowl classic is the large number of former Notre Dame graduates now coaching in the south and southwest. The Rockne system of football is accepted fundamental style in these sections.

It is said the sponsors of the New Orleans classic are hopeful Marty Bell's Methodist eleven will finish out their season without having a defeat chalked up against them. The Dallas Collegians have won all their battles to date.

It is said there is a chance Carl Snavely's North Carolina eleven, undefeated to date, may draw the invitation to meet the Irish at New Orleans. North Carolina has made an enviable record this season. Snavely's charges have swept the best teams of the southwest before them.

Girl Football Player Is Shy

Esther Burnham, Plays Center On Boy's Team, Aids Team In Victory

(International News Service)

MIDDLEFIELD, Conn., Nov. 6—Of all things—a shy girl athlete who fixes matters personally for her football team to win but, because of bashfulness, won't participate in the winning play!

That's 14 year old Esther Burnham whose brunette head was bent studiously over schoolbooks Tuesday although her thoughts quite possibly were on the Deep River gridiron where, in three short minutes yesterday, Esther put the Middlefield air cadets in scoring position for a 6 to 0 victory over the friendly Indians of Deep River.

But the game was not all fun for Esther. When reporters and photographers jammed the field to witness the unique spectacle of a feminine football star, Esther took her 110 pounds to the sidelines and refused to play throughout the first half. Neither team scored.

Plays Like Tiger

Esther relented however when a promise was exacted that she would not be photographed, and then—it was dynamite in action—Esther smeared backfield players, blocked a punt, slapped through a forward pass to put the Cadets in advantageous scoring position.

The newsmen forgot their promises. Flash bulbs flared and popped.

Thirty Kidnapped In Mexico Today

(International News Service)

QUERETARO, Mexico, Nov. 6.—Thirty enemies of governor Saturnino of the State of Queretaro were kidnapped today and taken to the governor's retreat, the Hacienda De Tlacote.

Extra-Point Biggest Bugaboo In Football

Many Believe That Rules Committee Will Do Something About Extra-Point

Too Many Tie Games Result, Suggest Graduated System Of Scoring

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—There seems to be some reason to believe that something will be done about the point-after-touchdown this year, there being a large number of people who appear inclined to brood very darkly on this matter. Some want the total of first downs to supplant the extra point, an old dodge; others want it done away with altogether. Personally, I need a chance to catch up on my brooding, but I feel I might even be able to do a little better than that.

Why not, for instance, a graduated system of scoring the extra point? If you elect to take the easy way and kick the goal, one point. If you run or pass, two points.

The rules committee has been trying for years to get teams to run or pass for this "conversion" point. Show them where you can get more for trying the hard way and they'll show they're willing to go after a victory almost any time, instead of a tie. Don't you suppose, with the score at 13 to 12 on Saturday, Notre Dame either would have run or passed? In the first place they couldn't score the goal with a spade mashie and seemed to know it.

Don't Want Ties

In the second, they didn't want a tie; they wanted to win and were prepared to go about it any way that seemed feasible. Besides, it seems clear enough, with the manoeuvre including the kick-run-or-pass feature, that critics who claim this is not a team play would be effectually silenced. As a matter of fact, I don't happen to hold with this theory but anything for silence. By the way, isn't a field goal from scrimmage a team play or am I getting that confused with field hockey for women or the good, old game of hunky dory? What? There isn't any game of hunky dory? Well, all I can say is that there was in my time.

Anyhow, the rules committee has proved that it isn't satisfied with the system by making numerous changes in the rule. Once the scoring team had to punt out from behind the goal and kicked the point from where the catch was heeled. Another time, it only was necessary to kick the goal from directly in front of the posts, without benefit of a scrimmage line. Again, the scoring team was forced to kick the goal from the point at which it happened to be downed behind the goal line, which was palpably silly.

Many Close Games

Once, unless memory has failed along with everything except a lush growth of hair on the back of the neck, the goal counted two points instead of one, so that the two-point suggestion for run or pass isn't without precedent.

More than that, it isn't without logic, in view of the fact that fifteen games were decided by 7 to 6 in the first month of the season, and two of them kept Princeton and N. Y. U. in the unbeaten class and a third left Stanford quite apparently where it doesn't rightfully belong.

It is still too early to tell what sacred principle England will think up for America to defend.

Bethany Bisons Next Opponents For Grove City

Coach Bill Amos Surveys Damage Of Slippery Rock Holocaust

GROVE CITY, Nov. 6.—A growing casualty list confronted Coach Amos yesterday when he assembled his Crimson squad to review the fiasco of the Slippery Rock game. The Rocket game added two other veterans to the inactive rolls when Harry Bream and Lou Bibric, center and end, were injured, leaving the Grovers seriously weakened for the game at Bethany next Saturday.

Having used some 20 odd players against Slippery Rock, Coach Amos found every man battered by the hard game in which the Grovers were outplayed in every department but were at no time outgamed. Bill White, guard, and one of the two available lettermen, assimilated severe punishment and will be allowed to take it easy this week. Bobby Shoch was reated roughly but was able to report, as were all the others.

It was possible for Amos to work on the most glaring weaknesses—punting and ball-handling, despite the crippled condition of his squad. He had every first-string player trying his hand at punting, and the backs and ends were limbered up with long drills in forward and lateral passing. It was short punts and sloppy ball-handling that enabled Slippery Rock to administer a stringing defeat to the Grovers here Saturday, and Amos plans to concentrate on these defects this week.

Croton Team To Hold Practices

The Croton Progressives football team will hold a practice session tonight and every night this week at the Croton field. The sessions will start at 5 o'clock. Orville "Lundy" Aven is coaching the Progressives.

The elimination game with the Sixth Ward Firemen will be played over this Sunday owing to a 6-6 tie last week. It is hoped to play the game at the Union high field.

The following are asked to report for the practices: Art Lastoria, Rudy Lastoria, DeMicco, Cabellis, Gallagher, Cook, Perrotta, Gentile, Joe Testa, Cimimi, Rubeis, Rich, and any others who care to try out for the team.

Stock Market Bullish Today

Gains Run Up To Three Points As Result Of Election Returns

By LESLIE J. GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The stock market staged a wide advance today, finding bullish stimulus in the setback received by the New Deal at the polls yesterday.

Gains ran to three points in active leaders with the Volatile Homestake Mining jumping nine points. General Motors opened more than two points higher to touch a new six-year high. Chrysler jumped two points and then forfeited part of its rise. Timken Roller Bearing rose three points.

The General Motors extra brought a rise of nearly three points in DuPont to a new high. Other blue chips were strong including Eastman Kodak and American Can.

Steels were in larger demand on the price rise but gains were small. Active dealings in New York Central marked the advance in the rails, though gains here, too, were fractional.

Rubbers were buoyant, with Goodyear up sharply. Mail order and merchandising shares forged ahead, while heavy buying came into the oils.

ARMISTICE CELEBRATION

The Idales of the M. E. church are planning for a big Armistice celebration and are using considerable time and energy to have one of the best programs ever. Programs preceding have been quite successful and this one promises to be the same.

FAREWELL PARTY

One of the leading social events of the past season was a farewell party in the form of a handkerchief shower for Mrs. L. J. Overlander given by the Boethian Circle of the Presbyterian Sunday school, and the Ladies Missionary society in the church Monday night.

The program arranged with menu and decorations were to be mentioned, as well as the numerous games that were enjoyed added much to the social part of the evening.

The handkerchiefs had been hidden, and with each hidden a slip was given the honor guest to read and which gave some clue to the hidden boxes.

Mesdames George Herbert and J. D. Shelatree were in charge of the splendid program, which from the late hour of the departure and amount of noise made, denoted a very enjoyable time.

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Overlander will leave Thursday for Lakeland, Fla., where they will spend the winter months, returning during the early spring.

Many good wishes were expressed with and without the beautiful load of handkerchiefs that were presented to Mrs. Overlander.

One very important feature which must not be forgotten was the dainty lunch served by the ladies of the Boethian Circle.

PYTHIAN PARTY

Italo-Britain Tension Grows Tighter Hourly

Italy Turns Economic Guns Upon France As Number 2 Enemy

BRITISH REQUEST FLATLY REFUSED

No Recall For Ships Of British Navy In Mediterranean Waters

By HUDSON HAWLEY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROME, Nov. 6.—Italy turned her economic guns on France, "Sanctions Enemy No. 2" today, following a diplomatic skirmish with Britain that left the Mediterranean-Libyan crisis uneased and peace in Ethiopia no nearer.

With Britain already No. 1 on Italy's unofficial blacklist, newspapers today published a comprehensive list of French products, indicating, according to La Tribuna's schedule, that France stands to lose approximately one million dollars a month by a complete Italian boycott against her.

Tension Increased

"Let us apply our own sanctions," La Tribuna said, heading its imports list with the label: "No. 2—France," indicating that the nations participating in international action against Italy would be dealt with in turn.

Italo-British tension seemed actually to have been increased as a result of yesterday's renewed conversation between British Ambassador Sir Eric Drummond and Premier Benito Mussolini.

Britain was twice rebuffed, it was understood today.

Request Refused

Voicing her second protest against the anti-British campaign in the Italian press, Britain met with Mussolini's reply, it was said, that Britain herself was responsible for the public and press demonstrations, because she played the leading part in bringing about League of Nations sanctions.

Mussolini flatly refused Britain's request that one or two more divisions—15,000 or 30,000 troops—be withdrawn from Libya, in addition to the one already ordered recalled.

Il Duce, it was understood, pointed out that Britain had done nothing to ease tension in the Mediterranean, having withdrawn no battleships.

No Recall Of Ships

Sir Eric repeated that Italian forces in Libya still vastly outnumbered British troops in Egypt, and that no ships would be called home while concentrations near the Egyptian frontier remain as they are.

While yesterday's talks concerned chiefly the Mediterranean-Libyan situation, it was believed that Sir Eric sought Mussolini's opinion of the informal mandate given by the League's committee of 52 for Britain and France to seek an Italo-Ethiopian peace formula.

Mussolini was said to have repeated his earlier attitude—that Italy will consider any proposal that meets with Italy's needs in Ethiopia.

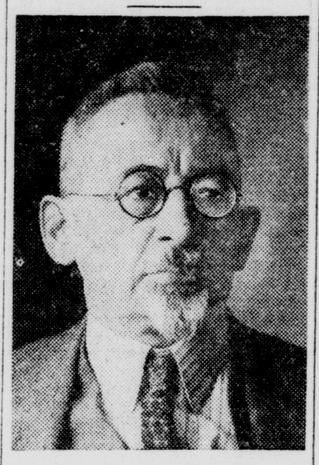
WILL INAUGURATE LOCAL CAMPAIGN



DR. KURT ROSENFELD

David Victor, chairman for the United Jewish Appeal in New Castle, has completed final plans to have Dr. Kurt Rosenfeld, the "Clarence Darrow" of Germany address the open meeting to be held at the Castleton hotel on November 17. This meeting will open the local drive for the United Jewish Appeal.

Dr. Rosenfeld is former Minister of Justice of Prussia, and was one of their most distinguished members of the Bar for many years. He has been called "the Clarence Darrow of Germany" because on numerous occasions he would use his great legal talents in the defense of unpopular causes. He was a member of the German Reichstag for twelve years and an important member of its Foreign Relations' committee.

When Hitler came in power in Germany, Dr. Rosenfeld was forced to flee with his wife and family He became a refugee, escaping first to Czecho-Slovakia, then to Paris In 1934, he came to the United States, where he is now engaged in literary work and lecturing. His property in Germany has been confiscated by the Nazi government; he has been deprived of his citizenship there, and of the right to practise at the Bar.

Speaking with the objectivity of the veteran lawyer, Dr. Rosenfeld has been heard by thousands of Americans to whom he has given a first-hand conception of the events of the past two years in Germany and an authoritative forecast of what may be expected.

The economic sub-committee has already decided to consult non-member states regarding oil and coal sanctions before taking any action.

Police Arrest 329 Hoodlums

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—In the greatest offensive ever directed against gangsters at the polls, New York City police rounded up 329 hoodlums and underworld characters and hustled them off to jail during the early hours of voting Tuesday.

Strong arm tactics of thugs who hired out on election day to intimidate voters were met with strong arm tactics by police. Under Commissioner Valentine's orders an army of bluecoats descended on racketeers, knuckle men and even a few silk-shirted gang chiefs. Bundling them all into patrol wagons together in spite of outraged protests.
